LENIN CONFESSES PURPOSE TO DISTURB AMERICA AND JAPAN

Confirmation of His Speech in Moscow on the Design of the Concession to W.D.Vanderlip.

Sought to Cause Trouble Between United States and Japan by Offering Kamchatka to Us.

Lenin Admits the Plot In His Speech at Moscow

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—The German press widely circulates Lenin's speech at the recent general meeting of the Communist Party in Moscow, when he explained that peace with Poland made possible Wrangel's defeat and obtained for Soviet Russia a longer breathing space than she ever had before.

"The world revolution, without which our final triumph is impossible, has not developed as quickly as we hoped; still we must bear up till it comes," he said. "Though other countries consider war against us the only means to ward off revolution, they have been compelled to cease military operations against Soviet Russia, and our existence among the non-Soviet countries seems secured now. Meanwhile the revolution will have a chance to develop in those countries.

"Our nation, which for three years resisted imperialism everywhere, has become an international factor. By granting mining and industrial concessions to America we disturb relations between Japan and the United States. We shall make the best of this situation. By granting such concessions we shall gain further material success over the capitalist countries because, instead of fighting us, they will be compelled to watch over our security. We must grant such concessions because one solitary nation cannot defeat the capitalism of the whole world."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—A Morning Post dispatch from Helsingfors, quoting the Krasnya Gazeta's report of Lenin's speech to the Moscow Communists in which he explained the grant of the concession to American capitalists would cause acute relations between Japan and the United States was shown this afternoon to Washington D. Vanderlip, to whom the concession was granted. He scoffed at it as coming from Helsingfors, and dictated the following reply:

"Helsingfors is on a par with Downing Street in manufacturing revolutions and assassinations in Russia, and all the misrepresentations that come out about Russia."

It was pointed out to him that the dispatch was merely quoting a Russian newspaper, and he replied:

"I shan't believe the Krasnya Gazeta published that till I see it."

[Confirmation of the Krasnya Gazeta's statement is contained in a special wireless dispatch from Berlin to THE NEW YORK TIMES quoting the speech as published in the German newspapers.]

Wanted to Buy Kamchatka.

Vanderlip's explanation of his discussion of Avatcha Bay with Lenin was:

"When I first approached Lenin for the purchase outright of Kamchatka with a view of tendering it later to the United States for annexation, Lenin asked me how we proposed to protect it from Japan. I replied that Petropovlovsk and Avatcha Bay were the key to the naval situation in the Northern Pacific and could afford protection to unprotected Alaska. He said I was right and that Russia had always had it in mind to fortify the bay but had never done so. Then when the Russian Government refused me permission to buy outright and limited my concession to sixty years, the idea of the naval station was dropped."

Vanderlip called this morning on Ambassador Davis and explained his views of Russia and the Pacific situation. He had an interview this afternoon with Krassin, but declined to discuss it. He issued tonight an "appeal to the American people." In it he says:

"France and England are demanding payment of the Czar's debts. Russia does not refuse, but is asking who is to pay Russia for the support of an army of 4,000,000 men used for two years to repel invaders who have never declared war. These include the United States."

He insists on Russian weariness after seven years of war, and declares:

"They are fighting against American machine guns, rifles, poisoned gas, airplanes and all that magnificent equipment which America sold to France."

Then Vanderlip continues:

"They have beaten England, France and Poland on the Polish front and France in the Crimea. They are driving the Japs back to the sea. In a few months the latter will have been cleared from the Siberian littoral, and this with no help from America. I can also assure you that the Japanese will soon be cleared off the mainland of Asia, and this includes Korea. The Japanese are at last caught between the upper and nether millstones represented by Rus-

$22,000,000 Live Stock Pool Now Ready to Aid Industry

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The Live Stock Finance Corporation today completed its organization and is ready to begin its work of assisting the livestock industry, it was announced after a meeting of officials of the organization and others interested in the live stock industry.

The corporation was launched with a pool of $22,000,000 contributed by New York, Chicago and Boston bankers at its disposal to be used in making loans.

An optimistic view of the live stock situation was taken by those at today's meeting.

ASKS $50,000 BONUS FOR CITY WORK LOAN

Hudson Trust Co.'s Demand Was Addition to Interest, Contractor Testifies.

COULDN'T GET MONEY HERE

"City Slow Pay," Banks Said, Witness Tells Estimate Board —Curran Quits Inquiry.

Frederick Tench, of the contracting firm of Terry & Tench, the first witness called in the Board of Estimate's investigation of city contracts, testified yesterday that the Hudson Trust Company had asked $50,000 over and above interest charges for a loan of $750,000 which the firm desired to obtain to finance its contract with the city for the erection of six piers on Staten Island.

Mr. Tench said he had conducted his negotiations for the loan with Frank B. Baldwin, President of the Hudson Trust Company, but that he had been unable to get the money there because the Hudson Trust Company was unable to furnish it. Mr. Tench testified that he made other efforts to obtain the loan from New York City banks, but was finally compelled to go to Buffalo, where his company procured the money through the Financing Corporation of that city at 10 per cent. interest and $25,000 as a bonus. Mr. Tench said the loan was for only six months, and that he expected his company would be required to pay another sum of money as a "bonus" when it renewed the obligation.

Mr. Tench said the officials of the Hudson Trust Company gave as one reason for failure to furnish the money for the loan that the "city was slow pay." He said this did not enter into the transaction with the Buffalo corporation.

Curran Withdraws.

The opening of the Board of Estimate inquiry was marked by the withdrawal of Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan, on the ground that to proceed with the city's investigation at this time might interfere with the investigation of the Lockwood Committee, before which testimony was given to indicate collusion in bidding for city contracts. F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, the other Republican member, remained at the meeting and explained later that he considered it his sworn duty as a minority member to remain with the majority to assist them in doing whatever he thought was right and to oppose whatever he thought was wrong.

With both Mr. Curran and Controller Charles L. Craig, who has refused from the first to have anything to do with the inquiry, the defection of Mr. La Guardia also would have eliminated half the voting power of the board and by preventing a quorum would have blocked the investigation automatically.

Both Controller Craig and Mr. Curran, however, attended the executive session, at which a conference was held with Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Lockwood Committee. The discussion lasted nearly an hour and was said to have been entirely upon the form of the proposed contract and affidavit to be signed by contractors, which has been suggested for the protection of the city in future contracts. Apparently no agreement was reached, but Mr. Untermyer said he believed they had made progress.

"Have we?" was Mr. LaGuardia's remark when told what Mr. Untermyer had said, and asked what had been accomplished.

Questioned on School Contracts.

Of the other witnesses examined, C. B. J. Snyder, Superintendent of School Buildings, was the most important. As the inquiry will begin with an investigation of the school building contracts, Mr. Snyder was questioned closely and admitted that the cost of construction of school buildings frequently was greatly in excess of the estimates.

Mr. Snyder also told of a "group" method of awarding contracts by which two schools in the same borough were grouped in the letting, and the contract for the two awarded to the bidder whose aggregate bid was the lowest. Mr. Snyder testified that this practice resulted at times in the low bidder on a particular school failing to get the award, and it was shown that in at least one case the low "aggregate" bid exceeded the sum of the low bids on two particular schools.

Assistant Corporation Counsel William J. Carswell, who conducted most of the examination, also brought out that in bids for three of these groups of schools three contracting firms had bid on all and that each received one of the three group contracts. Asked if this did not indicate something to him, Mr. Snyder replied that it indicated only that the "group" system of awarding contracts was not a success. Thomas A. Clarke,

MANDATORY STATES TIGHTEN CONTROL UNDER THE LEAGUE

Provision Made at Geneva Gives Them a Majority Vote in Supervising Colonies.

BOARD OF 13 PROVIDED FOR

The Only Higher Power Is the Council, Also Under Their Influence.

EXPECT WILSON REPLY SOON

His First Response on Armenia, It Is Believed, Will Be Non-Committal.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 29 (by telephone to Paris).—Great Britain, France, Japan and Belgium, which are the countries holding mandates under the Versailles treaty and at the same time under the control of the League of Nations, have tied up the mandate system in a way that makes it all but impossible for the majority of the League Assembly or for any other agnecy to touch their stewardship or control. A majority of the Assembly is in favor of having control of the mandates vested in a body not controlled by the council, but the wording of the covenant is such that the closed corporation plan perfected by the council was today made apparently bombproof.

The situation is that the nations to which the German colonies were assigned under the Treaty of Versailles have now assigned the colonies to themselves on terms which they have laid down and which they alone can change. This can be altered only by changes in the covenant of the League or perhaps by the United States joining and opening the way for changing the covenant, which requires the consent of every member of the Council.

It will be recalled that Article XVII. of the covenant stipulates that each mandatory power shall render an annual account of its stewardship; that the degree of authority and the general terms of the mandate, unless there is general agreement by the members of the League, shall be laid down by the Council, and that a permanent mandatory commission shall be named to receive reports and advise the Council.

Failed to Report to Assembly.

It had been hoped that the Supreme Council of the Allies would submit to the Assembly at this meeting the list of mandates and mandatories and that the Assembly would have its say about them. In fact, the Secretary of the League wrote three letters to the Supreme Council, which is composed of the same powers that make up the Council of the League, asking for this report, but a reply has not come and the reason for this is the same as has led here to refuge in secrecy. It would have been embarrassing.

If the reports had been made public they would have shown that France is not ready to give up the right to recruit black troops in former German territory and that Australia insists on making a "white man's country" out of the Pacific islands, which fact causes the Japanese to declare with insistence that the position is worse than when Germany had the islands. That is not the Japanese idea of a fair arrangement.

The mandate plans cannot, therefore, be made public in such an incomplete state. That would be open diplomacy but not League diplomacy—as the League is now.

The German Government sent a note to the Assembly today stating that inasmuch as the mandataries are supposed to hold mandates under the covenant, the League should have something to say about their distribution. Some members consider this a reasonable proposition, but the allied leaders don't seem to think so.

Article XIX. of the Peace Treaty with Germany ceded overseas possession to the allied and associated powers. Article XXII. of the Covenant meant that the League should decide who should have the mandades and that it should see that the conditions were lived up to. But let us see who would be the League under these conditions. It is true that the reports must be made to the Council which as at present constituted, is controlled by the powers which hold mandates.

Shaping Control of Mandates.

It was decided at the recent Council meeting at Brussels that the permanent mandate commission should consist of five non-mandatory States and four mandatory States. This decision was come to because of the protest against the mandatory States having control, and it has been probably regarded by the small nations as assuring impartial control. They may have a new idea of things tomorrow when they get the mandate commission report which contains the decisions taken today.

This decision contains a joker. Each mandatory State is to send to the commission annually a report by a special representative. The commission is to examine the report and decide on any special observation to be made, which will be sent to the Council. Then comes Paragraph H, which says:

"The commission, acting in concert with all duly authorized representatives of the mandatory powers, shall hold a plenary meeting to consider all the reports as a whole and any general con-

Commons to be Asked to Vote $3,250,000 for Packers Here

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Supplementary estimates totaling about £9,500,000 are to be presented to the House of Commons on Wednesday. They will include £648,500 for payments under an agreement with American meat packers by which Great Britain obtained control of their trade during the war.

The amount represents money withheld from the packers as a guarantee that they would carry out their contracts, plus 5 per cent. interest.

MILLER AMAZED AT 1921 BUDGET

State Heads Demand $220,000,000, With Only $125,000,000 in Sight.

CALLS FOR BIG REDUCTIONS

Governor-Elect's Insistence on Economy Gives a Shock to Eager Office Hunters.

With revenues in sight not likely to exceed $125,000,000, even under most favorable conditions, State officials at Albany, some elective and some appointive, have filed demands for appropriations aggregating more than $220,000,000 for the maintenance of their departments during the fiscal year beginning July 1 next.

Governor-elect Miller, who will be confronted with the necessity of reducing the estimates by approximately $100,000,000, learned yesterday of this astounding total from the fiscal leaders of the Legislature, now engaged in the preparation of next year's tentative budget.

"It kind of knocked him silly at first, but I never saw a man recover more quickly," said a Republican leader who was with the Governor-elect when the information was received.

When reporters saw the Governor-elect he made it clear that he was determined to keep the expenditures of the State for the coming fiscal year pretty nearly within the total of the budget for the present year, which was slightly in excess of $140,000,000 after Governor Smith's pruning. Mr. Miller said this statement held good, even though the proposed $45,000,000 bond issue for soldiers' bonuses and many improvements at State institutions which could not be put off, had created new demands on the State Treasury.

Officeseekers Disappointed.

Word that Mr. Miller intended to stand by his campaign promises of the most rigid economy was not long in reaching Republican State headquarters and the Hotel St. Regis, where the Governor-elect is staying. To the officeseekers it was the worst news that they could receive, and last night there was bitter disappointment among the Republicans who have been waiting with impatience for the moment when an unprecedented victory would bring its return in unprecedented spoils for party workers.

The thought of spoils commensurate with the size of the Republican victory appears to have been uppermost in the minds of the department heads at Albany, a majority of whom are Republicans. These demands overtop by more than $50,000,000 the estimates made at the beginning of this year, when both the budget and the demands established a new high record for the State. The demands this year exceeded by only about $15,000,000 the final figures Governor Smith approved.

Friends of Governor-elect Miller said last night they could read in the estimates for next year's budget nothing but an intent to stop at no limit lower than the sky, regardless of any promises made on behalf of the party during the campaign.

Some Democrats who have been in a position to watch what has been going on in Albany pronounced the high estimates a frame-up by the Republican department chiefs to afford the new Governor an opportunity to make wholesale reductions and thus earn a reputation for economy at the threshold of his administration. This theory was angrily denounced by Republicans last night a as Democratic attempt to belittle Mr. Miller and his determination to keep faith with the people.

Governor-elect Miller was preparing last night a letter to Senator Henry M. Sage of Albany, and Assemblyman H. Edmund Machold of Jefferson, who, as Chairmen of the Senate Finance and Assembly Ways and Means Committees are supervising the drafting of the tentative budget bill. In this letter he directed them to "cut to the bone" the estimates, regardless of party affiliation. The Governor more than intimated that if they could not see their way clear to make the necessary reductions he would find a way to make them.

To Abolish Excise Department.

Mr. Miller made a beginning yesterday when, at a conference with State Excise Commissioner Herbert S. Sisson, he made known his determination to abolish the Excise Department, with the aid of the Legislature. This department has been self-supporting, existing formerly on a small part of the tax levied on the liquor traffic, and after the prohibition amendment went into effect on levies from such limited traffic as has been carried on by drug stores for "medicinal" purposes. With the more rigid enforcement of prohibition to which Mr. Miller is pledged a curtailment in the number of pharmacists subject to such levies is expected that might make the Excise Department a financial liability to the State. The Governor-elect is in no mood to assume this, and so enforcement of prohibition will be left to local authorities.

Governor-elect Miller, it was said last night, has not yet reached a decision as

BERLIN SMUGGLERS GIVE CLUE TO VAST GEM THEFTS HERE

FIND SCHWAB'S GOLD BOX

Massive Gift From City of Baltimore Defaced and Taken to Europe by a Sailor.

LINER MONGOLIA WATCHED

Burglars Said to Be Taking Advantage of "State of War" to Dispose of Their Loot.

A clue that may solve the mystery of the disposal of millions of dollars' worth of gems and jewelry stolen in this and other American cities was received last night in the following copyrighted dispatch from Berlin to The Chicago Tribune, dated yesterday:

"The Tribune correspondent has received information from reliable sources concerning gigantic smuggling operations by which jewelry stolen from American millionaires is being disposed of in Germany. It is evident that a conspiracy exists between a group of thieves or pawnbrokers and American sailors on ships coming to Germany. These sailors have been entrusted with valuables already totaling millions of dollars in worth which they have disposed of in Hamburg and Berlin.

"Smuggling stolen gems is successful because the state of war existing between Germany and the United States is considered a protection should the police here attempt to prevent their sale. As far as has been learned, all the smuggling is done through sailors on the steamer Mongolia, which has just left Hamburg for New York. Certain American sailors on this ship bring over thousands of dollars worth of jewels monthly. They attempt to dispose of the plunder in Hamburg, but when not successful there they obtain leave to go to Berlin, where more opportunities for disposition are afforded.

Disposes of Jewel Case.

"On the last trip one sailor disposed of diamonds, pearls and a gold jewel case that weighed twenty-four ounces. The box bore the initials 'C. H. S.' or 'C. M. S.,' and perhaps was the property of Charles M. Schwab. Engraved on it was 'Gift of the City of Baltimore' and it bore the coat-of-arms of Baltimore. It was marked 'Schofield, Maker, U. S. A.' Several lines of engraving had been scratched out, but one bit able to be deciphered said 'Sparrow's Point Steel.'

"The Berlin police suggest that the New York police investigate the Mongolia."

A dispatch from Baltimore last night said a gold cigar box answering the description of that sold in Germany had been presented to Mr. Schwab by the City of Baltimore.

At the home of Charles M. Schwab it was said he and his family left this city yesterday for South Bethlehem, Pa., where they would stay until next Wednesday. The caretaker had never been informed of a jewel robbery.

Mr. Schwab had retired for the night when the substance of the Berlin dispatch was telephoned to his home in South Bethlehem shortly before last midnight. His secretary answered the telephone and said that he knew of no gold box of the kind mentioned in the cablegram. He added that he had not heard of Mr. Schwab losing any valuables through robbery in a considerable time.

Smuggling Easy, Say Officers.

Officers of the American liner Manchuria, a sister ship to the Mongolia, and on the Hamburg service, said it would be easy for members of the crews to carry over any sort of non-bulky stolen goods.

"These men are paid the day they arrive in port and may never come aboard the ship again," one of the officers said. "It is true that customs officials look them over, but they are cunning and if they can't evade the rules, no one can. They sign on for a voyage, generally the day before sailing, and if they want to conceal things in their kits, there is nothing to stop them. They are low class men. Only the quartermasters and a few others are American. We know nothing about them beyond their certificates."

Officials in the Detective Bureau at Police Headquarters last night showed much interest in the report, although none would discuss the matter, referring inquirers to Acting Inspector Coughlin, head of the Detective Bureau. No report of the theft of a jewel casket, such as is described in the cablegram, has been received by the police in the last three months, but, it was explained, records dealing with losses reported prior to three months ago were not available at night.

Jewel robbers, however, have been notably active in the last year, the list of recorded thefts showing losses in New York and its environs alone that run into the millions. Apparently little of it has been recovered. Burglary insurance underwriters, who several times this year have advanced the rates, say the very existence of their business has been threatened by the failure of the police to recover stolen property.

Two Robberies Net $900,000.

Two robberies alone this year netted the lawbreakers nearly $1,000,000. These were the Caruso robbery at Easthampton, L. I., on June 8, when thieves carried away $400,000 worth of gems, and the recent spectacular robbery of the

The bomb had a clockwork mechanism and was inside a Gladstone bag, apparently left in the warehouse during the day.

HAYES REBUKES FLAG PROTESTORS

CONDEMNS ATTACK ON CLUB

Archbishop Disclaims Church's Responsibility for Thanksgiving Day Violence

The sixty Catholics who signed the letter to Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes protesting against the Thanksgiving Day attack upon the Union Club and against the "infusion of politics" in the Catholic Church were stigmatized as guilty of "a serious breach of Catholic etiquette and discipline" in a statement issued by the Archbishop last night.

The Archbishop's statement follows:

Statement of Archbishop Hayes.

The Archbishop of New York has neither apology to make nor regret to express to a very small group of Catholics who, in violation of the most elementary rule of ordinary politeness among well-bred people, have seen fit to address him through the medium of the public press.

While most willing to pardon this lack of good breeding, I cannot overlook the more serious breach of Catholic etiquette and discipline. These ill-advised people are guilty of as nice a piece of church Bolshevism as I ever expect to look upon again. The disorder by the crowd on Thanksgiving Day before the Union Club was a serious breach of the law of the land; the protest to the head of the diocese, through the medium of the public press, on the part of a few Catholics, most of whom I, though Archbishop, never heard of before, is a serious breach of the law of the Church, which fixes in her canons the proper procedure for complaint or protest in Church matters.

I am slow to believe that all the signers of the letter fully appreciate the awkward position of ignorance of the fundamentals of Catholic principle and practice they have been placed in by the inspirer of the protest, a well-known meddler and muddler, whose joy in life seems to be "the whirlpool of petulant anger," with a rush to the press on the slightest provocation.

Concerned Over Ireland.

The Irish question cannot be dismissed summarily by shouting "Irish politics." Centuries old in time; racial and religious in character; problem for English statesmen, especially since Gladstone's day; pressing for solution in the upheaval of the world because of democracy's onward march. I should be a very sorry figure as an American citizen and as a Catholic prelate, irrespective of my Celtic blood, were I not profoundly concerned and sympathetic with Ireland's love for freedom and her struggle by every lawful means to obtain it.

So much for the protest. Now, as to the unfortunate occurrence itself on Thanksgiving Day.

I absolutely decline to admit that the Catholic Church, or its present head in New York, or any one connected with the Cathedral, is in any shape, manner or form responsible for the lawless conduct that took place before the Union Club on Thanksgiving Day. Therefore, no apology will be made by me officially or personally to any one or any group. I cannot conceive of any fair-minded citizen who imagines for a moment that the Catholic Church would approve, or connive at, lawlessness of any kind, and especially the deplorable incident of last Thursday.

Just as the right of the Union Club to display any flag on its own premises is beyond question, and guaranteed by civil law, so also the right of the Corkmen's Association to come to the Cathedral and pray for the repose of the soul of the late Lord Mayor of Cork is equally beyond question and guaranteed by ecclesiastical law.

The British flag has adorned, on other occasions recently, the Union Club and other buildings in the neighborhood of the Cathedral, without any interference from large Cathedral congregations, mostly of Irish blood. What happened on Thanksgiving Day is locked as to inception, power and responsibility, in the mysterious realm of the psychology of the crowd.

Speaking of flags, I can recall that, not long ago there would have been a very strong purely American sentiment in this city against the British flag flying in New York, on the anniversary of the Evacuation of the LONDON, Nov. 29.—Several conferences were held today by the Police Chiefs to discuss plans against possible Sinn Fein violence, and in the afternoon General Horwood, director of the special service branch, met the Cabinet Ministers at Downing Street. After this consultation it was announced in the House of Commons by the Speaker that the Houses of Parliament would be completely closed to the public. Members and guests are only admitted by way of St. Stephen's Hall, all other entrances having been closed. The main gates in the palace yard are also shut, and no carriages or motorcars are allowed to pass.

The central lobby is entirely closed to strangers, no person being permitted to visit any part of the building unless accompanied by a member. No visitor is allowed in the inner or members' lobby.

Detectives have been posted in various parts of the houses while the uniformed police on duty has been reinforced. A system of permits is being arranged for officials and persons haing business in the public committee rooms.

The guards on duty at the government offices have been strengthened and armed detectives from a special branch of Scotland Yard, working in cooperation with the uniformed men. Prominent government officials are being carefully guarded.

The big iron entrances to Scotland Yard were closed this evening and anybody applying for admission was subjected to close scrutiny.

Now that Dublin is being thoroughly combed out, it is thought very likely that members of the murder gangs will endeavor to make their way to England. There are probably fewer than fifty of these specially dangerous men connected with the movement, each of whom is wanted on the charge of murder and knows full well what will be his fate if he is caught.

One theory of the Liverpool outrages is that they were committed under the leadership of desperadoes who came over from Ireland for that purpose, an additional motive for coming being that their pursuers were hot on their trail in Ireland.

One Dublin correspondent says that it has long been known that Irish Republicans for whom Ireland had become too dangerous, found cover in Liverpool as a preliminary to coming to America.

The Daily Chronicle in an editorial appreciates the difficulty of preventing the passage of these men from Ireland to England, but thinks it might to a considerable extent be overcome. It adds: "And now if ever, is the time to try."

The Glasgow authorities have made elaborate preparations to deal with any threatened Sinn Fein outbreak in the city. Special guards of police have been posted at principal buildings, while at the docks strong measures have been adopted.

There is a powerful Sinn Fein body in Glasgow and Clydesdale generally and on several occasions they have been observed drilling in the country districts.

In view of the Sinn Fein outrages, committed elsewhere, extra police have been drafted for the Southampton docks.

Warned Not to Attend Commons.

The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent writes:

"I hear that one or two members of the House of Commons who in their questions on Irish affairs had shown a desire to elucidate the Sinn Fein point of view were advised not to come to the House today. The inference that was drawn was that today had been chosen for a hostile demonstration by the Sinn Fein against the British Parliament, by what means is unknown.

"If this be true, it would be an extraordinary parallel to the Guy Fawkes conspiracy, in anticipation of which Lord Monteagle, one of the Catholic peers, was warned not to attend Parliament on Nov. 5, 1605."

The river front, which in suffragette days was found to be the vulnerable side of the Palace of Westminster, is guarded

CORK, Nov. 29.—At 3:30 yesterday afternoon seventeen cadets of the police auxiliaries left Macroom in two lorries under District Inspector Craik to patrol the surrounding district. They had not long left Dunmanway on their return journey to Macroom when, at Shana Cashel, they were ambushed by a party of about one hundred men. Immediately the first lorry came within range it was subjected to a terrible rain of rifle and revolver bullets. The second lorry opened fire in the direction of the attackers, but with little effect, judging by the heavy firing in reply. The bullets kept pouring in on both lorries, the engines of each being rendered useless by attacking riflemen.

Thus exposed to a merciless onslaught the occupants of the lorries did their best to seek cover where they could, but the firing of the attackers was most deadly and in a short time all the police in the first lorry were killed. The men in the second lorry bravely defended themselves against their enemies, but the latter's marksmanship was too true and eventually only one of the auxiliaries escaped the rain of bullets.

As the patrolling party did not return to Macroom a search party was sent out from there and they found the dead bodies on the road.

The town and district are in a state of excitement and shops in Macroom have closed. All women and children have left the town.

DUBLIN, Nov. 29.—An official statement, issued from Dublin Castle today, says:

"Seventeen auxiliary police cadets under District Inspector Craik went in two lorries on patrol at 3:30 P. M. on Sunday. They were ambushed near Kilmichael by seventy to one hundred men. Fifteen of the auxiliary force were killed, one is missing and one wounded and dying. Their ammunition and arms were taken. The lorries were burned. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Late tonight in the House of Commons Sir Hamar Greenwood gave additional details of the Kilmichael ambush. He explained that the auxiliary force mentioned was composed entirely of former army officers who had been conspicuous in the late war. One man who was wounded has since died. A further telegram from the head of the police force in Ireland stated:

"The ambush consisted of about 80 to 100 men, all in khaki, with steel helmets. They fired from both sides of the road and also directed enfilade fire straight down the road. By force of numbers some of my poor fellows were disarmed and then brutally murdered. Their bodies were rifled, all money and valuables were taken and even articles of clothing were stripped from the corpses."

These were victims of Irish assassins, Sir Hamar said, and he impressed upon the House that he could not ask men who were engaged in trying to put down these murders to stop in their work to make inquiries as to the burning of a house and other similar incidents.

MACROOM, Ireland, Nov. 29 (Associated Press).—Two lorry loads of cadets in training for the Black and Tan Auxiliary Police were ambushed last night by from eighty to one hundred men near Kilmichael, and fifteen of them were killed. The bodies were brought here this evening.

Already reprisals have begun, and reports from the village of Johnstown, between Macroom and Dunmanway, state that scarcely a house there is undamaged and that most of the shops in the district have been set afire. The residents are fleeing from the place in terror.

Here shops have been closed and all business is suspended. Large parties of auxiliaries bearing rifles and revolvers are patrolling the town, and the people are apprehensive that the auxiliaries will take vengeance.

LONDON, Nov. 29 (Associated Press).—Dispatches relating to the killing of fifteen auxiliary police cadets near Kilmichael were read in the House of Commons by Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, during the course of the Irish debate today.

The party which ambushed the cadets consisted of from 80 to 100 men, all dressed in khaki and wearing steel trench helmets. They fired from both sides of the road on the lorries and also directed an enfilading fire straight down.

By force of arms some of the cadets had been disarmed and brutally murdered, their bodies were rifled of all money and valuables, and even clothing was taken from the corpses. Arms and ammunition were also taken and the lorries burned.

The Secretary thought that with fifteen former officers of the late war thus lying dead, the House would not wish to continue the discussion in the face of such a challenge to Parliament and civilization. The subject was then dropped.

Find Sinn Fein Safe in Bank Raid.

DUBLIN, Nov. 29.—Important discoveries were made by auxiliary police last night in a raid on the offices of the Sinn Fein Bank in Harcourt Street. Traffic in the street, one of the main thoroughfares of the city, was completely stopped while the raid was in progress. A thorough search of the premises was made, the floors being taken up.

It is understood that an underground safe was found which had not been revealed when the bank was raided some time ago. All efforts to open the safe were fruitless, and finally it was blown open with a charge of explosives. Besides about £500 in money it is reported that some documents were found associated with the name of Michael Collins, who is reputed to be the "Chief of Staff of the Irish Republican Army," and who is now on the run.

Searches and arrests are still being made in the city and William Sears, M. P., was taken into custody last night at his house in Rathmines.

BANTRY, Nov. 29.—Four men who are said to hold high rank in the Irish Republican Army were captured a few miles outside of this town last evening. A large military force with motor lorries and bicycles was returning from an important raid at Glengariff when they came upon the party of men engaged with a broken-down motorcar. The party took to flight when the military appeared, but were pursued and cut off by other military forces which came up. The names of the captured men are given as R. E. Keys, T. Cotter, M. Donegan and T. Sullivan.

See Worse Times With Griffith Held.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The British Government was informed today that unless Arthur Griffith, in jail at Dublin, is released immediately there is danger that the whole Irish movement will be put into the hands of Sinn Fein extremists, of whom Michael Collins and Richard Mulcahy are leaders.

A split in the Sinn Fein, which has existed ever since the promulgation of the constitution of the "Irish Republic," is wider today than ever. At the time the "republic" was declared the "volunteer" element, who are the extremists, were on top and they carried the election of de Valera as "President," the moderates securing their choice, Arthur Griffith, as Vice President.

Later de Valera went to America and Griffith gradually gained control.

He was in undisputed control last week and is likely to continue so unless the British persist in imprisoning him, in which case the situation is sure to be dominatetd by radicals.

Liverpool Damage £1,000,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 29.—Estimates of the damage done by incendiary fires in Liverpool and Bootle on Saturday night are not complete, but in some quarters it is put at £1,000,000. At one warehouse alone, where there was a valuable stock of cotton, the damage is estimated at £300,000.

There are now six men in custody, but the police will say little.

Padlocks on the metal doors of the warehouses had been cut by bolt clippers of special design, manufactured, apparently, in the United States. These have handles about a yard long with ball bearings giving a tremendous leverage.

The shooting of William Ward had a sequel this morning at the Police Court when a young man, who refused to give any name or address, was charged with willful murder. The prosecuting solicitor said the man had refused to give either name or address, the only account of himself he would vouchsafe being that he was a Sinn Feiner and came from Dublin. On the prisoner was found a pencil sketch showing a number of places at which the fires occurred. Asking for a remand for seven days the prosecuting solicitor said that other charges of arson would be brought before the court.

The Docks Board has taken every precaution to safeguard the power stations, bridges and warehouses on the docks. Extra police have been posted inside the power stations as well as guards outside, and at all important bridges. During the week-end all bridges were swung, which meant that the inside of the docks was practically cut off.

Workmen going to their duties early this morning were challenged by the police and not allowed to proceed until proof was given of their business, and many of them were searched. Since the death of the Lord Mayor of Cork all warehouses on the docks have been searched after the workers knock off at noon and in the evening.

In the vaults of all the warehouses there are spirits to the value of £9,000,000.

Burn Freeman's Journal Office.

DUBLIN, Nov. 29.—The Freeman's Journal office was set afire by armed and masked men about midnight. Three girls living on the top floor had a narrow escape from death.

Raids and arrests continued in Dublin today. Among the persons taken into custody was William Sears, Sinn Fein member of Parliament for the Southern Division of County Mayo.

Mr. Sears in 1919 was sentenced to six months' imprisonment on a charge of inciting persons to shoot the military, the police and Government officials.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—A dispatch received at the London offices of The Freeman's Journal says that all the occupants of the building, which was set on fire by masked men, were rescued, but that much damage was done to the building.

The dispatch adds that before The Freeman's Journal building was set on fire armed and masked men entered the office of The Irish Times, held up the editorial staff with revolvers and demanded that a promise be given that the staff would divulge nothing.

The Irish Times is the leading Unionist paper in Dublin.

A dispatch to The Exchange Telegraph says the object of holding up the staff of The Irish Times seems to have been to prevent the raising of an alarm over The Freeman's Journal fire.

BELFAST, Nov. 29 (Associated Press).—During Sunday night the headquarters of the Transport Workers Union, on Camden Quay, Cork, and an adjoining house were burned. At several other places which were set on fire there was considerable looting.

Women who ordinarily are declared to have been clothed in little better than rags are said to have been strolling about the streets wearing hundred-guinea fur coats.

ROME, Nov. 28.—Members of the Italian Chamber of Deputies and Senate have received a strong protest concerning the latest serious events in Ireland from the Irish clergy, headed by Cardinal Logue, Archbishop of Armagh. Facts enumerated in the protest, and the language used, have produced a profound impression, especially among members of the Catholic Party, who, it is asserted, have taken a decided attitude in favor of Ireland.

It is expected that interpellations will be presented in the Chamber and Senate asking the Government if it is not possible for a friendly power to interfere, either directly or through the League of Nations, to obtain a solution that would end the present condition of affairs in Ireland.

SAY AMERICAN GUNMEN ARE AIDING SINN FEIN

They Are Reported in Londonderry and Liverpool—Threaten Derry Officers With Death.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—American "gunmen" are said to have made their appearance in Londonderry, according to advices received here today. The presence of these mercenaries in Dublin and other Irish cities have previously been reported. The military authorities of Londonderry are taking all precautions in the event of attempted assassinations.

The police of Liverpool, dispatches from that city say, also believe American "gunmen" have invaded Liverpool. The police claim to have established connection between Sinn Fein headquarters and numerous strangers who are idling about the streets in groups of two or three and having the appearance of desperadoes.

LONDONDERRY, Ireland, Nov. 29.—A number of military officers here have received typewritten documents threatening them with a fate similar to that suffered by the British officers murdered in Dublin unless they leave Ireland. The military forces are taking precautions to protect the threatened officers.

SAY BULLYING WILL FAIL.

London Papers Warn Sinn Fein That English Anger Is Rising.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 29. — The London Times, commenting editorially on the Sinn Fein outrages in Liverpool, says:

"Those partisans of the Sinn Fein movement who have refrained from denouncing political violence would do well to remember that the temper of England, long suffering though it has been, is fast rising and that no friend of Ireland would lightly expose her to the British national wrath."

The Daily Telegraph says the authorities have to do with "as sinister a band of conspirators as any in history. A policy of amnesty has been tried and failed. In nearly every case where one of a gang has been caught red-handed it has been found that he was a rebel of 1916 who had been let out of jail in a vain hope of creating a favorable atmosphere of reconciliation. These men must be taken at their word. They have adopted cold-blooded murder as their weapon. The only way to deal with them is by way of merciless extinction if any association with murder is brought home to their door."

The Daily Express says:

"No attempt to bully England has ever yet succeeded, and this will fail miserably."

The Morning Post says:

"England is not a land in which the bully is a conspicuous success. If there was one policy which more certainly than another must defeat its own object it is the policy adopted by the gang of criminals calling themselves Sinn Fein."

THREATEN OFFICIALS' FAMILIES

London Paper Says Relatives of Ministers Are in Danger.

LONDON, Nov. 29. — The Evening Standard says the latest Sinn Fein plot contemplates the burning of houses and other property in England belonging to "Black and Tans" who are serving in Ireland. The newspaper asserts that the details of the alleged plot came into the possession of the authorities as the result of a raid on the Irish mails.

The Standard says that not only have Cabinet Ministers received letters threatening them with personal violence, but that threats now are being made against members of their families.

BISHOP HITS RADICALISM AMONG LABOR AND IRISH

Says Many Workers Are Turning Bolshevist—Attacks Irish Independence Moves Here.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—Radicalism in labor circles, unrestricted immigration and the movement in this country for support of Irish independence were denounced today by Bishop Leonard of San Francisco in an address before Methodist ministers.

Immigration, he said, should be restricted to those who were calculated to uphold our Constitution.

"While the United States has always taken a liberal attitude toward the man who desired to come to this country to make common cause with the people and advance the interests of the nation," he declared, "it was never intended as a refuge for people with ideas destructive of the principle of Americanism."

Speaking of Bolshevism, he said that it was now threatening organized labor.

"I am the friend of the laboring man and believe that wages are superior in their claim to interest and profit," he said, "but there is no denying the fact that the friends of labor are being alienated in large numbers by the attitude that has been taken during the last two or three years and more recently in support of certain radical movements that are none other than Bolshevistic. I have had in different States in this nation prominent local leaders in the labor group tell me that radicalism within their own organization is becoming a great menace."

Bishop Leonard characterized the movement in this country in support of Irish independence as un-American and "aimed at the destruction of the friendship between America and Great Britain.

"But," he added, "whatever have been the mistakes of England in the past, and whatever be her attitude now on this question that is internal and domestic, the friendship of these two Anglo-Saxon nations must abide forever in order to safeguard human freedom and protect the Christian civilizations of the world."

NEW PRECAUTIONS TAKEN IN LONDON

by a steam launch. It may be recalled that during the suffragette disturbances the Ladies' Gallery of the House of Commons was closed on April 26, 1906, and both the Ladies' and Strangers' galleries were closed on Oct. 28, 1906, and remained closed until May in the following year.

The Speaker, in announcing in the House that the galleries would be closed, said, "I have been in consultation with the Commissioner of Police today, and in consequence of information which I received from him, I have thought it desirable to close all the galleries."

LONDON, Tuesday, Nov. 30 (Associated Press).—The precautions taken in the House of Commons and in the Government offices against untoward demonstrations include the posting of a permanent guard of armed policemen, selected for their skill in the use of the revolver. The guards are dressed in civilian clothes and stationed at various points, where they can see without being seen. The men are all ex-soldiers with good war records.

Special arrangements are being made for the rapid concentration of large forces of police. Wherever and whenever this becomes necessary raids and arrests on a wholesale scale will be made.

A police motor boat, armed with a machine gun, has been placed on patrol along the riverfront of the Houses of Parliament.

The insurance business against riots and civil commotion today was the greatest in London for a long time.

UNTERMYER ASKED TO ACT FOR RYAN

Lawyer Announces That He Will Make Known His Final Decision Today.

RYAN IS NON-COMMITTAL

Has Long Conference With Wall Street Banker—Williams Says Banks Are Covered.

Allan A. Ryan returned to New York yesterday after a conference with Controller of the Currency John Skelton Williams and at once endeavored to retain Samuel Untermyer to deal with his financial affairs which have become tangled owing to the decline in the market value of Mr. Ryan's securities which followed his corner of Stutz Motor stock and his subsequent expulsion from the New York Stock Exchange. Mr. Untermyer was expected to advise Mr. Ryan some time yesterday whether he would accept a retainer, but that he Ryan in the difficulties which have grown out of loans to him, amounting to some $16,000,000, the maturing of some of which have led the creditor banks to assume control of Mr. Ryan's assets to prevent their being liquidated at a sacrifice.

Late last evening Mr. Untermyer told a reporter for THE NEW YORK TIMES that he had not decided whether he would accept a retainer but that he would make a definite announcement today, and that he could not discuss the affairs of his prospective client until he had reached a decision. He expressed at the same time doubt that Mr. Ryan himself would discuss them at the present time.

Mr. Ryan upon his return from Washington was non-committal. He made only a brief statement in which he made known his decision to retain Mr. Untermyer if he could get him, and announced that he had promised Mr. Untermyer meantime not to make any public declarations. This statement, which was forthcoming at about the same time as brief dispatches from Washington embodying a short formal statement from Controller Williams, ran:

Ryan Promises Silence.

"I have just come from Mr. Samuel Untermyer's home. I have asked him to accept a retainer. The whole subject being new to him, he asked me for time to act for me. Mr. Untermyer has taken my interests under advisement and is to give me an answer at 6 o'clock this afternoon. I have promised him that I will give no interviews and make no statements in the meantime, so you will have to excuse me."

The impression in Washington after Mr. Williams returned there, following his brief conference with Mr. Ryan at the Controller's home in Richmond, Va., was that with Mr. Williams's statement to the effect that Mr. Ryan's loans from national banks appeared to be amply covered, the Controller's possible direct connection with the Ryan affair was ended. There was, however, much speculation both in the capital and in Wall Street as to whether or not the impetus which led Mr. Ryan to seek the aid of Mr. Untermyer could have come from the Controller, who recently has been actively fighting New York national banks because of his objections to the rates of interest they charge and their general call loan policies.

Mr. William's statement said:

"As far as I am advised, there are no loans to Mr. Ryan or his firm held by banks under the supervision of this office which do not at this time appear to be sufficiently covered by collateral. I will also add that there are very few national banks, as far as my information goes, to whom Mr. Ryan owes a dollar."

Mr. Williams would not amplify the foregoing statement in any way.

Naturally, Mr. Ryan's call upon Samuel Untermyer immediately after his visit to the Controller, whose recent sharp disapproval of some local banking methods has been manifest, aroused much comment in the financial district. Surprise already had been expressed there that Mr. Ryan should have recourse to the Controller at all, bankers directly interested in his financial affairs insisting that their joint efforts to conserve his assets were marked by friendly, harmonious and co-operative relations with Mr. Ryan himself.

Pujo Inquiry Recalled.

One of the first things recalled about Mr. Untermyer by financiers who speculated as to the meaning of his possible connection with the Ryan matter was that in the early months of 1913 he was the counsel to the Pujo Congressional Committee, generally known as the "Money Trust Committee" which conducted an exhaustive investigation into Stock Exchanges, Clearing Houses and banks, devoting particular attention to interlocking bank directorates, methods of underwriting corporation financing and, in short, to the whole system of Wall Street operations. It was as counsel to this committee that Mr. Untermyer cross-examined at length many of the leading financial figures of the nation, baring much of the history of great financing in America.

At this time and on subsequent occasions Mr. Untermyer became known as an ardent advocate of Stock Exchange regulation. He has favored both incorporation of the Exchanges, notably the New York Stock Exchange, as a matter of State control and Federal regulation through laws governing the transmission of quotations in interstate commerce.

Bankers were professedly keen to know whether Mr. Untermyer would accept Mr. Ryan's retainer and make it the occasion of another crusade against existing Wall Street conditions, or whether, if he did decide to act for Mr. Ryan, he would confine himself merely to the personal financial affairs of his client. Since Mr. Untermyer would not be interviewed on the subject and said he had, in fact, not reached a decision, this question went unanswered.

In the financial district Mr. Ryan is known sometimes with eager and sometimes with more grudging admiration as a fighter That he is bitter at his treatment by the Stock Exchange and keen for revenge is generally accepted in the Street. The impression still prevails there, however, that his anger is directed rather against the Stock Exchange than against the banks, and the belief is that if he endeavors to attack the financial institutions at all they will be but an indirect objective, his real ammunition being reserved for the Exchange.

Ryan in Wall Street Conference.

Some bankers indicated rather plainly that they were not pleased with the Williams-Untermyer development. They argued that their attitude has been designed to help Mr. Ryan, and said they are unable to understand why he should now bring in outside interests. They said Mr. Ryan came to them for assistance a week or so ago, that they gave it to him and, so far as they were concerned, they still were helping him.

Mr. Ryan was in the financial district yesterday and had a long conference with an officer of one of the institutions to which it is said he is indebted. The outcome was not revealed, but the banker insisted it had been merely a routine conference.

"We have been having conferences with Mr. Ryan for several days," said the banker. Yesterday's, he explained, was no more significant than any of the others.

Mr. Ryan's assets were still being studied yesterday by bankers interested in the situation. Whatever progress was made was not divulged, and it was said that it might be some time before anything definite could be arrived at.

The head of one of the larger banks which has taken a leading part in the Ryan affair, when told that Mr. Ryan had asked Mr. Untermyer to attend to his interests, said he could not understand why the lawyer had been brought into the case. Nor could he appreciate the necessity for Mr. Ryan's visit to Controller Williams.

"The disposition of the banks," he said, "has been to be helpful, as always. They have been so in this case. Mr. Ryan's loans, as Mr. Williams is quoted as saying, are amply secured and we feel that the situation will work out all right."

"Is there any early liquidation of Mr. Ryan's collateral contemplated?" he was asked.

"No," he said. "If there was, the banks would not be helpful either to Mr. Ryan or to the general situation."

The bankers reiterated that their action had been taken at the request of Mr. Ryan and that all they had done was to help him and those to whom he was indebted. It was said yesterday that Mr. Ryan's accounts in several Stock Exchange houses had been taken over by the banks and were being carried.

Some of the financiers objected to the statement that a committee has been formed to conserve Mr. Ryan's interests and to straighten out the tangle. They say that no formal committee has been formed and that none will be formed, but add that some of the big banks are working in very close harmony in the matter and will continue to do so.

21,000-TON LINER LAUNCHED

Samaria of the Cunard Co. Takes the Water at Birkenhead.

The agents of the Cunard Line at 22 State Street received a cable dispatch yesterday from the head office in Liverpool informing them that the 21,000-ton liner Samaria had been launched successfully from the Cammell, Laird Shipyard, Birkenhead. She is the largest steamship ever launched on the River Mersey.

The Samaria is the fourth of the post-war fleet of Cunarders to take the water, having been preceded by the Scythia, Albania and Tyrhennia. The new vessel is an oil-burner with one big funnel and is 600 feet long, 73 feet beam and 45 feet depth of hold. She will have accommodation for 2,600 passengers, including 336 first, 340 second and the remainder third class. The liner will be equipped with the latest appliances for safety and comfort, the dispatch said.

FIND YOUTH MURDERED.

Police Believe Slayers Brought Riddled Body to East Side.

The body of John Grieco, 20 years old, of 438 East Thirteenth Street, was found on East Eighteenth Street near Avenue B early yesterday morning with four bullet holes in the chest. Ambulance Surgeon Schackler of Bellevue Hospital, who was summoned, said that the youth had evidently been dead for ten hours. The police believe he was slain in some other section of the city and brought to the east side in a taxicab just before daylight.

Philip D. Grieco, a brother of the dead man, who identified the body, could give the police no information in the death mystery.

City Marshal Sent to Prison.

Michael J. Gaynor, a City Marshal, who was convicted of oppression for seizing the furniture of a tenant in an attempt to collect a debt owed by another, was sentenced yesterday to ten days in the City Prison and to pay a fine of $250, by Justices Edwards, Murphy and Kernochan in Special Session.

HAYES REBUKES FLAG PROTESTORS

British troops, which Thanksgiving Day happened to be.

It might be interesting to add that, for many years, a strict regulation has been in force excluding all flags except the American standard from the consecrated walls, within and without, of St. Patrick's Cathedral. The Corkmen's Association carried to the portals of the Cathedral the American flag and that of the Irish Republic. The latter was not borne within the edifice, in deference to this regulation, which was most readily obeyed by the association, whose members during the service in the Cathedral carried themselves with every evidence of dignity and reverence.

God forbid the day may ever dawn that the Irish people should fail to come to their Bishops and priests who know the nobility of the race with its spiritual ideals and lofty aspirations for the purest and the best.

The Catholic Church the world over loves all her children of every race. The Archbishop of New York rules a flock of many bloods and has endeavored to be a father to all, and has every reason to know that he has the loyalty and affection of over a million souls.

An attempt was made last night to get some of the signers of the "letter of protest" to comment upon the Archbishop's statement. None of those who could be reached was willing to do so.

CONFESSES PURPOSE TO EMBROIL AMERICA

sia and China on the one side and America on the other. Russia is grinding.

"The 'open door,' for which America has clamored for thirty years, will soon be a reality. The Russian people do not ask your sympathy. Their message to you is: 'Tell the American people to send us locomotives and our armies will never rest until every Jap in Siberia is under the ground or in the sea.' They do not seek conquest, but are determined to have back their own."

Vanderlip suggests that America, Canada, Australia and Russia should combine to make the Pacific a free ocean, and contends that the interests of Canada and Australia in this are linked with America. He says he holds no brief for communism and that there are few of the principal Russian communistic laws with which they started three years ago that are in force today.

"The time is approaching when the only trace remaining of communism will be the nationalization of transportation, mines, banking, oil and other great public utilities along with agrarian co-operation, which we have already worked out in America. The Government will own the land, thus preventing the recurrence of great estates as under the Czar. Free speech prevails as it does not in America.

"The only thing necessary to bring peace and reconstruction to Europe is that Congress restore trade relations with Russia."

VANDERLIP CONTRACT NEW MOVE IN PLOT

Soviet Once Before Sought to Cause Trouble Between the United States and Japan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. — Lenin's declaration in a speech at a meeting of the Moscow section of the Communist Party that the Soviet Government's real motive in granting the Vanderlip concessions in Siberia was to provoke trouble between the United States and Japan was accepted by officials in Washington today as another highly important corroborative disclosure.

The international aspects of the action of the Soviet Government in dealing with Washington D. Vanderlip has previously been emphasized in statements by officials of the American Government, who have been convinced from the beginning that the real motive of the Soviet régime in the Vanderlip case was political, not merely economic, and it has been suspected from the start that the main purpose was to arouse feeling against the United States in Japan, while at the same time trying to stir international capitalism to jealousy over the alleged magnitude of the supposed contracts and concessions granted to this American prospector.

This is not the first time that the Bolshevist masters of Moscow have sought to toss into the world arena a bone of contention between the United States and Japan. It was learned from an authoritative source today that in 1918, after the Bolsheviki had come into power in Russia, and while the United States was participating in the hostilities between the Allies and the Central Powers, Moscow tried to make arrangements for ceding Kamchatka to the United States. The United States did not want Kamchatka. On the contrary, the American Government has been making a strong and consistent stand for the maintenance of the integrity of the territorial limits of the former Russian Empire. It suspected that the purpose of the Moscow rulers at that time was to stir discord between the Allies—all for the purpose of aiding Bolshevist plans for a world revolution—and American officials laughed at the original feelers put out by the Soviet leaders.

Part of Plan for World Upheaval.

The project was then hatched by the Bolsheviki as part of their plan for stirring and spreading class war and precipitating conflict between outside nations. In the present instance Moscow is believed by American officials to be trying to take advantage of the issue now pending between the United States and Japan over immigration and alien-land-ownership questions and boasted of its alleged intentions to turn over some 400,000 square miles of Siberian territory to American capitalists in an effort to create a breach between this country and the Tokio Government.

All the propaganda within use of the Soviet régime has been utilized to advertise the reported concessions and make it appear that it will result in the expenditure of American capital and brains in developing the oil possibilities of a section of Asia which is extremely close to the northernmost tip of the Japanese Islands and that America will tap the oil resources of that region, such as they are, at a time when Japan, like the rest of the world, is deeply concerned over the future supplies of petroleum for naval and motor uses.

One official today pointed out that the Soviet diplomatic and military plans were typically Teutonic and that Moscow, tearing leaves from the notebook of Berlin when bent on world conquest, is trying every known method of building fires behind the main firing lines between Russia and the outside world. This official called attention to the way in which Berlin tried to weaken England by threatening to start a holy war in Islam, and by seeking to foment revolution in Ireland, and to the activities of German agents in Mexico and Argentina. The publication of the Zimmermann note by Secretary Lansing showed that even Germany at one time was trying to frame an alliance with Japan and Mexico against the American Government.

The American State Department, as a result of its very careful study of every aspect of the Bolshevist movement in Russia, the character of Bolshevist rule, the economic failure under Bolshevist control and the Bolshevist program for world revolution, more than a year ago announced its conviction that the main purpose of the Bolsheviki is to subvert the existing principles of government and society the world over, including the United States and other countries where democratic institutions are already established, and that with this end in view they have built up a political machine which by the concentration of power in the hands of a few and the ruthlessness of its methods suggests the Asiatic despotism of the early Czars.

The Sate Department has not changed its opinions in this respect as the result of study of the situation during the last year, and is convinced that despite the demoralization, civil war and economic collapse in Russia under Soviet rule, it is still the main and primary purpose of Lenin to precipitate the overthrow of organized government everywhere and substitute for it a régime of Bolshevist world control.

From time to time the Soviet régime has sought peace with outside nations, making peace with Poland and Lithuania, as well as with Esthonia, and it has sought to open relations with the United States, England and France. None of these moves is regarded by American officials as sincere. All are firmly believed by the American State Department to be steps in the direction of better arranging the scheme for a world-wide revolt which would include the United States and other countries.

The conviction among American officials is that when the Bolsheviki say they want peace and give assurances that they wish simply to be let alone in order to work out their experiment in Russia, such offers of compromise are purely tactical and that this has been proven by events. As long ago as April 3, 1918, Lenin, in an address before an extraordinary session of the Moscow Soviet, said:

"No matter how great our difficulties, we have great hopes for victory, not only in Russia but throughout the entire world. I have hope that we shall live through all our trials and that to the Russian and Hungarian Soviet republics will be added an international republic of the Soviets."

Careful analysis of every phase of Bolshevist activity since the delivery of this prediction by Lenin has served only to increase the conviction of officials of the American Government that it is of the essence of the Bolshevist movement that it is international and not national in character and that the revolution in Russia is intended as merely the first incident in the Bolshevist program.

Officials here have suspected from the start that one motive of the Moscow leaders in granting the Vanderlip concession in Siberia has been to create acute relations between this country and Japan. Officials high in the Government of Tokio have, it is learned, also been aware of this being the probable motive of the Soviet régime. If the Vanderlip were a valid concession, granted by a valid government, the situation involved might indeed stir an issue between the United States and Japanese Governments. But the Japanese Government has refused to recognize the Vanderlip concession as having validity. The position of the Japanese Foreign Office was set forth in a statement at Tokio on Nov. 7, as follows:

"The Soviet Government of Russia has not been recognized by the world powers. The Japanese Government does not feel bound to take cognizance of any private agreement entered into by the Soviet authorities. The Japanese Government is further unprepared to assent to any act or measure infringing on Japan's treaty right with Russia."

Japan's interest in the concession, if it should become a valid and virile contract, grows out of the fact that the Moscow Government professes to have granted to the Vanderlip syndicate a grant for sixty years of the exclusive right of obtaining oil, coal and fish in all of that part of Siberia which lies east of the 160th meridian. This meridian takes in the eastern half of the Peninsula of Kamchatka, the southernmost tip of which faces the northern of the Kurile Islands, which belong to the Japanese.

The principal value of this region, however, has been with respect to fisheries along its eastern coast from Bering Strait to Petropalovsk in Kamchatka. Japan has had fishing stations along this coast for some years and these fisheries have been rather profitable.

Manifestly if a Government that could be recognized by the great powers should grant a bona fide concession to Vanderlip or any other American capitalist for exclusive rights of development, Japan, by reason of her fishing rights and geographical propinquity, would be expected to raise a protest with Moscow and insist at least on an open door for development.

Japan would not be the only foreign power interested in such a concession if the grant were bona fide. Great Britain, in view of the demands for fuel oil, would probably also protest against being barred from equal opportunity for participation in the right to prospect and develop that field should oil be found there in important quantities. Karl Radek, of the Bolshevist régime, was quoted in the Isvestia of Sept. 23 as declaring that Lloyd George was losing his grip, and that "American capital is trying to take advantage of England's retreat to a secondary position in order to enter into commercial relations with Soviet Russia, cutting England off from her only non-American oil sources."

Lenin's speech at the Moscow meeting of the Communist Party, when read in the light of the utterance by Radek and others, is interpreted by officials here as making the Bolshevist game only too apparent to those who have been closely studying the situation.

Lenin's further admission that the international revolution was proceeding much more slowly than the Bolsheviki had expected tallies also with officially reported facts. Lenin's plan during the 1920 advance on Warsaw was to carry the Soviet revolution across Germany into the West of Europe. That scheme failed at the gates of Warsaw and Lenin turned his attention toward the Near East and the Orient.

The purpose of this is believed by officials here to have been to stir trouble for the Allies behind the lines, to strike at England and France through their colonial possessions, and by causing unrest and revolution in India, Persia, Syria, Mesopotamia and China. Recently under Bolshevist auspices a congress of Far Eastern nations was held at Baku as part of the plan for carrying the seeds of revolt into the Orient. Agents from this conference have gone into all parts of Asia and are now engaged in trying to precipitate revolution.

On top of this the armistice with Poland, which resulted in the collapse of General Baron Peter Wrangel's movement in the Crimea, has given the Bolsheviki and Turk nationalists opportunities for military contact and freer action in the Near East.

At the same time, as part of the plan for setting Asia afire, Moscow undertook to buy over China through promises of cancellation of Russian concessions in return for support, and granted the so-called Vanderlip concessions which Lenin now admits were accorded in an effort to make acute the relations between Japan and the United States, saying, "We profit by this, as by other similar conflicts between our enemies."

The chief present end and aim of Bolshevist diplomacy is believed by officials to be to seize upon every opportunity everywhere to create trouble between outside nations and capitalists on the theory that more unrest, trouble and rebellion there are in the world the quicker the whole world will start a revolution against capital and organized Governments.

START A BACKFIRE AGAINST BLUE LAWS

Sporting and Amusement Organizations Unite to Fight Lord's Day Alliance.

FOR STATEWIDE AGITATION

Actors' Equity Association Secretary Replies to Methodist Bishops' Ban on Theatregoers.

A direct backfire against the Lord's Day Alliance's agitation for a rigid Puritan Sunday in New York was started yesterday by several sporting and amusement organizations in which the International Sporting Club, sponsor of the Boxing bill which passed the last Legislature, is conspicuous.

The object of the organization, formation of which was set in motion as the best way to combat those who advocate the "no place to go but church, no place to stay but home" Sunday idea is to crystallize sentiment in favor of liberal Sunday observance, place it on record in concrete form, and lay it before the new Governor as soon as he takes office to convince him that the puritanical idea would not meet with the approval of the great majority of citizens.

While the fight will be directed against the Lord's Day Alliance propaganda as its immediate objective, there will be an effort to disabuse the Governor's mind of the sentiment which has been reported popular in certain Republican circles that the liberal attitude toward sports of the present Democratic Administration should be reversed in reprisal for the popularity Governor Smith is said to have gained in sporting circles by signing the Boxing bill.

The method of operation to be pursued by the International Sporting Club and its allies will embrace, according to present plans, a personal canvass throughout the State, at least in those circles known to be either tolerant or favorable in attitude toward a Sunday of sports and amusements. It is hoped to get millions of signatures to petitions calling on the incoming Administration to permit the people to spend Sunday in their own way.

Frank Gilmore, Executive Secretary of the Actors' Equity Association, replied last night to the declaration of Bishop Berry, Senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, that neither actors nor those who attended the theatre were wanted in that church.

"If the attitude toward the theatre held by Bishop Berry," said Mr. Gilmore, "typifies modern Christianity, how far must we have departed from the preachings of its Founder. This ban, if enforced, would either drive out or debar from the privileges of the Methodist Church over 80 per cent. of the inhabitants of the United States."

While the Rev. Harry L. Bowlby, Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, denied yesterday that the Anti-Saloon League was backing the new blue law campaign, William H. Anderson, Superintendent of the League, issued a statement in which he said:

"While the Anti-Saloon League will not swerve a hair's breadth from its policy of attending only to prohibition problems, we recognize the possibility that undue persistence in the unwarranted effort to tie the Anti-Saloon League up to the Sunday law crusade may result in convincing many supporters of the Anti-Saloon League, as individuals, that the opponents of rational Sunday observance must see some connection between that and the enforcement of prohibition, and thus lead a large number of supporters of prohibition, as individuals, to favor restrictive Sunday legislation on general principles on the basis of taking no chances."

OPPOSES BLUE SUNDAY MOVE.

Bishop Berry Holds Question Is for States, Not Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 29.—"Such extreme measures as are being proposed along the line of Sabbath observance by the National Organization of the Lord's Day Alliance, in my opinion, are more likely to retard than to help the attainment of such an observance of the first day of the week as millions of reasonable, right-thinking Christians have in mind," asserted Bishop Joseph F. Berry, presiding officer of the Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Churches, in commenting on the program proposed for a Puritanical Sunday. The movement, if successful, would result in the closing of all stores on Sunday and prohibit the playing of all games, running of trains and publication of newspapers on that day.

"It is, in my opinion, questionable whether this is a matter for Federal legislation through Congressional action at this time," the Bishop added. "It may, and possibly will, reach Congress. But I doubt very much that Congress will attempt to regulate the observance of Sunday by statute.

"It seems to me that this whole question is a matter for State regulation. I think that it will be found that this is the sentiment of the State branches of the Lord's Day Alliance in Pennsylvania and elsewhere. It is very probable some of them will question the right of the body of that organization to raise the issue nationally without their approval, with a view to action by Congress."

NO BLUE LAW DECISION BY EPISCOPALIANS

Could Not Act Till 1922, Says G. W. Pepper, Who Opposes Proposed Law.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—George Wharton Pepper, one of the leading Episcopal laymen in this country, said today that the Protestant Episcopal Church as an organized body was neither for nor against a Federal Sunday enforcement law as proposed by the Lord's Day Alliance.

"Individuals within the Church can be for or against the movement to pass a Federal law enforcing Sunday observance," said Mr. Pepper. "But it must be remembered that they are only acting as individuals. An official explanation of views of the Church on the subject could not be obtained under our Church laws before the next general convention in 1922."

Mr. Pepper does not favor the proposed law. He is not opposed to Sunday observance, but believes that the matter should be left to the individual States.

"This idea of a moral strait-jacket enforced upon the nation does not appeal to my reason," he said. "What would suit one part of the country might not be at all agreeable to another part. For instance, an Italian in New York, a Frenchman in New Orleans and a Mormon in Utah would possibly have very divergent ideas upon the subject as to how he wishes to spend Sunday. Some sections demand ball games on Sunday. In other places the idea meets with the disapproval of the majority of the people. They should decide through their State Legislatures and not through Congress."

A SOCIALIST BUNDESRAT.

Austrian Pan Germans Get Only 3 Seats Out of a Total of 45.

VIENNA, Nov. 29.—Returns from yesterday's elections for the Bundesrat indicate the election of twenty-two Christian Socialists, twenty-one Socialists and three Pan Germans. The Pan Germans lost one seat to the Socialists.

The Socialistic Workmen's Party of Austria was organized here Sunday by delegates from all sections of the country. The party intends joining with the Austrian Communists and the German Independent Socialists with the object of affiliating with the Third Internationale.

Cuba Extends Her Moratorium.

HAVANA, Nov. 29.—President Menocal signed a degree today extending the existing moratorium, which would expire tomorrow, until Dec. 31. The moratorium will continue under the same conditions that have prevailed since it was first ordered.

MANDATORY STATES TIGHTEN CONTROL

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

clusions to be drawn from them. The commission may also use such meeting of the mandatory powers to lay before them any other matters which in their opinion should be submitted by the Council to the mandatory powers and to other States members of the League. This plenary meeting shall take place either before or after the presentation of the annual report as the commission shall see fit."

In other words, there is a Commission of Thirteen on which the five non-mandatory States have representatives, but on which each mandatory State has two votes—four representatives and four "duly authorized repesentatives," making a total of eight. It takes little prescience to see that the mandatory business is going to be conducted by this body of thirteen. All the complaints against bad stewardship would go before this Committee of Thirteen, controlled by the mandatory States, which would make a report to the Council of the League, which again is controlled by the mandatory powers.

It is too soon to state it positively, but there is a surmise that the matter is going to raise a row on the floor of the Assembly by those who have been devoting their time to loosening the hold of the now omnipotent Council on the League, but row or no row, matters will remain as they are. They can not be changed.

Suppose that America, if it becomes a member of the League, should choose to send to the League, which is supposed to superintend the mandatories, a protest against what it regarded as injurious action by Great Britain in Mesopotamia, or any other such complaint against any mandatory power. That complaint would go to the Commission on Mandates, which is controlled by the non-mandatory States. But as a general principle would be involved it would have to go before the Commission of Thirteen, which is controlled by mandate-holding States. If the complaint had good luck it might reach the Council of the League, and the Council is run by States which hold mandates and have naturally their own interests to protect.

Labor to Advise on Mandates.

GENEVA, Nov. 29—(Associated Press) The Mandates Commission of the League will include one member named by the International Labor Organization, who will attend all the meetings in an advisory capacity only when questions of interest to labor are discussed.

The Subcommittee on Blockades passed a resolution proposed by Lord Robert Cecil, delegate for South Africa, that the Council be asked to name an international commission on blockades whose duty it shall be to report to the Assembly the measures it finds necessary to put the economic blockade into effect. This is regarded as likely to put off a definite solution of the blockade question until the next meeting of the Assembly.

The Council did not consider today the proposed invitation to the United States for its participation in the discussion over disarmament.

Most of the delegates have the impression that the first reply of President Wilson to the Council's note relative to Armenia will be perfunctory, not committing the United States in any way nor definitely rejecting the offer. Mr. Wilson's answer is expected to arrive within the next few days.

The French Government will be invited to arrange for the transportation and sustenance of the league military expedition to Vilna.

The Committee on the Admission of New Members finally agreed that it is impossible to admit now the new States carved out of old Russian territory. The theory of the committee is that these States will eventually form part of a new Russian confederation, entirely changing their present status. The committee will recommend, however, that, while these States are not admitted to full membership, their delegates shall be allowed to sit in the Assembly in a consulting capacity without the right to vote.

Admission of ex-Enemies Favored.

Despite the strong opposition of Serbia, Rumania and Greece to the granting of membership to Bulgaria at this time, a large majority of the delegates seemed to be in favor of taking that step. There is virtually no opposition in the case of Austria, the application of which probably will be favorably acted upon in a few days.

Delegates to the meeting of the Assembly are awaiting with the keenest interest the probable discussion tomorrow of a motion promised by George Nicoll Barnes of Great Britain regarding the conflict between Poland and Russia. It is reported that Mr. Barnes may attempt to put the league in a position of defending its inactivity in that war, but there is a disposition on the part of the delegates not to permit the subject to reach any decisive issue.

For the last two days European delegates have been dividing their attention between the sessions of the Assembly here and the meeting of Premiers Lloyd George and Leygues in London. The decision of France and England regarding Greece and the Near East is awaited with much concern. Many delegates continue to discuss the probability of Greece losing its place on the Council of the League if Constantine returns to the throne.

SAY CHURCHILL WAS NOT SENT

Washington Officials Deny He Had Instructions as to League.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Major Marlborough Churchill, Assistant Chief of the Military Intelligence Division of the General Staff, United States Army, who has been gathering material relative to disarmament proposals and other military matters at Geneva, the seat of the League of Nations, is not doing so under any instructions from this Government.

Flat denial that Major Churchill had any such instructions was made today at the State Department. A similar declaration was made at the War Department.

Major Churchill is making an inspection of American military attachés in Europe and, as an intelligence officer, took advantage of his proximity to Geneva to go to that place from Berne to pick up such information of a valuable military character as he was able to obtain under the present favorable circumstances growing out of the presence of many military attachés there.

4 KILLED, 22 INJURED, IS DAY'S AUTO TOLL

Daughter of Assemblyman Lentol, Brooklyn, Is Crushed to Death by Truck—Dead Abandoned.

Four persons were killed, and twenty-two others injured in automobile accidents yesterday.

Martha Lentol, 15 years old, of 268 Grand Street, Brooklyn, daughter of Assemblyman Joseph Lentol, while on her way to school was struck by an automobile truck and instantly killed. The girl was crossing Roebling Street at South Fourth Street when she stumbled and fell under the rear wheel of the truck owned by the Kills-Will Lumber Company of Java and Provost Streets and operated by William Hoffman of 592 Morgan Avenue. Hoffman was arrested on a charge of homicide.

Charles Brandt, 5 years old, of 2,252 Church Avenue, Brooklyn, while playing on the sidewalk near his home, was struck by an automobile truck backing out of a repair shop at 2,256 Church Avenue, and so seriously injured that he died shortly after being taken to the Kings County Hospital. Louis Zager, an employe of the shop, who was operating the truck, and James Hayes, of 257 Prospect Park West, owner of the machine, were arrested charged with homicide.

Jules Aaron, 63 years old, of 3 East 109th Street, who was struck by an automobile while crossing Fifth Avenue at 114th Street Saturday, died yesterday afternoon in Mt. Sinai Hospital from a fracture of the skull.

John Newcomb, 48 years old, of 393 West Street, was struck by an automobile mail truck late last night while crossing Christopher Street at Greenwich Street, and died a few hours later in Greenwich Hospital. The chauffeur of the automobile, William Jackson, was not arrested.

The body of an unidentified man was found lying in the street at Broadway and Halsey Street, Brooklyn, early yesterday morning by Policeman Brown. The ambulance surgeon who pronounced the man dead said he had been struck by an automobile. The driver of the machine apparently sped away and the police have no clue as to his identity.

MOVIE ACTORS AS SINN FEIN.

Take Pictures at London Barriers and Are Chased by Police.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—What at first might have been mistaken for a genuine move upon the Government buildings in Whitehall was made this morning, when a small crowd attempted to pass the barriers recently erected by the police at the entrances to Downing Street and King Charles Street. The crowd, however, it developed, was made up of about 100 supernumeraries sent by a moving picture company for photographic purposes only.

WILSON ADVISES LEAGUE.

Writes Young Democrats They Must Correct Reaction of Elders.

WHITE PLAINS, Nov. 29.—A call from President Wilson to the younger men of the country to "correct the reaction and pessimism of some of the older men" was contained in a letter read here on Saturday at the first annual meeting of the Young Americans' Democratic League of New York. The President's letter, which was addressed to Thomas F. Compton, National Secretary of the League, follows:

"Dear Mr. Compton: Will you not convey my cordial greetings to the first annual New York State Convention of the Young Americans' Democratic League which is to convene on Nov. 27. It is the young men of the country who must correct the reaction and pessimism of some of the older men and push forward towards a realization of the genuine ideals which cannot be lived up to without courage and a constant renewal of fidelity to the purest conceptions of democracy and of international responsibility.

"My best wishes will follow the deliberations of the convention and I shall hope for the most entire success and the most wide-spread influence.

"Cordially and sincerely yours,
"WOODROW WILSON."

Letters from Governor Smith and from William G. McAdoo also were read. The following officers were elected: President, Franklin Osborne, Garrison, N. Y.; First Vice President, F. H. McAdoo, New York; Second Vice President, A. C. Dawson, Hartsdale; Third Vice President, Miss Dorothy Farley, White Plains; Recording Secretary, Carlton K. Ober, White Plains; Corresponding Secretary, James McCutcheon, White Plains; Organizing Secretary, Frank J. Lamb, White Plains; Treasurer, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., New York; Chairman of Publicity Committee, R. E. Howe, Jr., White Plains.

GRAND JURY READY ON HOUSING CRIMES

Extraordinary Body Impanelled to Consider Evidence Procured by Lockwood Committee.

BACKER JURY OBTAINED

Builder's Trial on Perjury Charge Begins—Court Again Upholds Committee's Authority.

A decision by Supreme Court Justice Henry D. Hotchkiss sustaining the validity of the Lockwood committee's subpoena, the selection of the Extraordinary Grand Jury to examine evidence of crimes brought out by the committee's inquiry and the empanelling of the trial jury in the case of George S. Backer, wealthy builder, indicted for perjury, were the outstanding events attending the committee's housing investigation yesterday. Justice Hotchkiss's decision makes it compulsory for Elizabeth O'Dea, employe of the Builders' Supply Bureau, to appear for examination with the books of the bureau at the City Hall this morning.

Presentation of evidence in Backer's trial will begin this morning. The Extraordinary Grand Jury will meet at 11 A. M. in the library of the District Attorney's office and begin its work. Robert P. Brindell, the indicted head of the Building Trades Council, and Peter Stadtmuller, his chief of staff, will appear before Judge Mulqueen today, and, through counsel, make any motions that may be deemed necessary.

Supreme Court Justice John V. McAvoy, in the Criminal Courts Building yesterday, opened the Extraordinary Criminal Term of the Supreme Court which had been designated by Governor Smith to delve into the crimes bared by the Lockwood committee's investigation.

Before the day ended a panel of twenty-three jurors was selected from a list of fifty prominent merchants, bankers, brokers and professional men. The foreman is William I. Spiegelberg, in the cotton goods business at 25 Madison Avenue, and living at the Hotel Graham. The selection of the Grand Jurors was in the hands of Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the Lockwood committee; Deputy Attorney General Samuel A. Berger, Arthur C. Train and Assistant District Attorney Alfred B. Unger.

The Extraordinary Grand Jury.

ALFORD, ANDREW P., manufacturer, 12 West 44th St.
ARCHER, GEORGE F., engineer, 307 West 82d St.
BARRON, WILLIAM H., merchant, 320 West 77th St.
BRETTMAN, FREDERICK J., banker, 349 West 78th St.
CROSS, WILLIAM REDMOND, broker, 12 East 80th St.
DEMING, LAURENT C., assistant secretary, 56 East 54th St.
FINK, SIMON, restaurateur, 310 West 80th St.
GRAHAM, JAMES L., broker, 228 West 71st St.
HARDING, DANIEL, sales manager, 120 West 94th St.
HARPER, WILLIAM D., paper, 305 West 71st St.
HILLIARD, FREDERICK C., manufacturer, 200 West 58th St.
JACOBY, BENJAMIN, manufacturer, 1 West 68th St.
LUBEL, ABEL, paint business, 67 Riverside Drive.
MABON, SAMUEL CLIFTON, broker, the Wyoming, 58th St. and 7th Av.
McKUNE, CLARENCE S., builder, 5 East 45th St.
SIDENBERG, ALFRED H., merchant, 550 Park Av.
SIMON, ALEXANDER B., 150 West 79th St.
SPERLING, LOUIS, merchant, 143 West 78th St.
SPIEGELBERG, WILLIAM I., cotton goods, Hotel Graham.
STRAUSS, BERNARD, manufacturer, 28 West 23d St.
UNDERHILL, MORRIS, insurance, 501 Fifth Av.
VESER, FREDERICK, broker, 3 West 102d St.
WORCESTER, WILFRED J., secretary, 137 East 37th St.

On the panel were a number of prominent New Yorkers including Darwin P. Kingsley, President of the New York Life Insurance Company, and Otto T. Bannard.

Mr. Untermyer and Mr. Berger most of the questioning of the prospective Grand Jurors.

The predilections of the talesmen in regard to organized labor served as the basis for part of the examination. Each was asked if he was in any way interested in building operations in the city. He was also questioned on the right of manufacturers to fix prices and to enter into agreements to affect prices. Several on the panel, who said they were friendly to such price fixing arrangements where it did not impose an unreasonable price on the public or who said they had met with business problems which might embarrass their judgment. were excused.

Thomas F. Farrell, a large coal dealer, with offices at 30 Church Street, was excused after he said that his firm sold 75,000 or 100,000 tons of coal to the city every year and also that he was acquainted with Mayor Hylan and Grover Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures. Farrell said that his firm and one other were the only bidders for the city contracts for 1920.

In his charge to the Extraordinary Grand Jury Justice McAvoy said that its functions would be to consider evidence of extortion, price fixing, conspiracy in restraint of trade and other specifications in Governor Smith's order instituting the present investigation. He emphasized the importance of the jury's deliberations to the city and to the defendants in particular.

Obtaining Jury in the Backer Case.

The Backer trial, which is taking place before Judge Otto A. Rosalsky in General Sessions, was enlivened by several tilts between Mr. Untermyer and Edmund L. Hooney, the defendants attorney. Emory R. Buckner, Special Assistant District Attorney, will present the evidence for the people.

Mr. Untermyer took a hand in the examination of talesmen. Mr. Mooney, evidently under the impression that Mr. Untermyer would take an active part in the case, asked the prospective jurors whether they would be swayed by the fact that "distinguished counsel" was appearing in the case and that the "Attorney General's office" was represented at the trial.

At this juncture Mr. Untermyer addressed the court, saying that, to relieve any "apprehension" on the part of Mr. Mooney, he felt compelled to say that he had just "dropped in" and had been asked by Mr. Buckner to relieve him of the questioning for a few minutes. He added that he would take no further part in the procedings. Mr. Mooney commented: "I am sorry for myself but overjoyed for my client."

When Mr. Untermyer asked Louis E. Stern, a talesman, if he did not believe that the charge of perjury "struck at the very heart of justice," the word "charge" was objected to by Mr. Mooney and the Court ruled in his favor. The word was stricken out and "condition" was substituted.

Mr. Untermyer asked Stern whether his judgment would be affected if a man, testifying under oath as to the payment of $25,000 and who had been "trapped," straightway told another story, and if this would affect his judgment as to whether the man was a perjurer.

Mr. Mooney objected to the characterization implied in the word "trapped" and accused Mr. Untermyer of summing up the case before it had been tried.

Mr. Untermyer repeated the quesiton, leaving out the offending word.

Asked Opinion About Joking.

Mr. Mooney questioned talesmen as to their state of mind concerning a man who might joke on the witness stand and whether they would find a man guilty if he committed perjury jokingly, but not willfully.

Stern, who was asked whether he was married, replied, "Yes, very much so." The answer caused a ripple of laughter.

During the examination of talesmen Mr. Buckner said, for the benefit of the jury: "I might say that Mr. Levy believes that the $25,000 which he paid to Backer was extorted from him and is not to be regarded as a bribe. Mr. Levy declared it was a palpable hold-up."

Ephraim B. Levy, the man referred to, told the Lockwood Committee that he gave $25,000 to Backer so that the latter, who was superintending the construction of Levy's building, might give it to Brindell and his committee to call off a strike. Backer told the committee that he lost the money at the race track. Later he said he gave it to two walking delegates who looked like "ex-workingmen," whom he could not identify except as "Mutt and Jeff."

Early in the proceedings Mr. Buckner recognized an old friend in Samuel L. Kern, who was chosen tentatively last Friday as Juror No. 4. Kern was excused.

After the jury had been completed Judge Rosalsky said that he would exercise the discretion given him by law and informed the jurors that they should be prepared to be locked up during the night, beginning today. He asked them to appear this morning with their belongings and said that arrangements for their accommodation at a hotel had been made.

The Backer Jury.

The complete list of the jurors follows:

AHEARN, JOSEPH J., insurance, 231 East 50th St.
EPSTEIN, HERMAN, merchant, 20 East 88th St.
HOWITZ, WILLIAM L., manufacturer, 54 East 122d St.
JOHNSON, HARRY S., clerk, 524 West 184th St.
KELLY, JOSEPH, clerk, 111 West 127th St.
KERSHAW, JOHN A., ice, 582 East 86th St.
OPPENHEIMER, LOUIS, manufacturer, 150 West 47th St.
POWERS, P. BROADUS, manager, 44 East 4th St.
SACHS, SIDNEY, manager, 86 West 119th St.
STERN, LOUIS E., coal, 75 Fort Washington Av.
THOMPSON, WILLIAM G., foreman, 2,798 8th Av.
WINDT, CHARLES, salesman, 153 East 92d St.

Unless Martin Conboy, attorney for the Builders' Supply Bureau and the Association of Dealers in Masons' Materials' makes additional efforts to stay the production of the books of the two organizations and their representatives, Miss O'Dea and S. J. Treat, Secretary of the association, will appear before the Lockwood committee this morning to be examined about the books. The adverse decision of Justice Hotchkiss yesterday was the fifth defeat suffered by Mr. Conboy's clients in a week. In his decision the Justice says:

"First, there is a question of fact to be determined. It is claimed by counsel for the committee that the books and papers covered by the subpoena have been produced by the petitioner and submitted to the committee and that the right to urge the objections now offered has been waived. I have read the record of the proceedings before the committee and the affidavits pro and con, and I think the facts are that out of respect for the committee and to avoid any appearance of contumacy, counsel for the petitioner appeared before the committee with the witness and the books and papers described in the subpoena, but that he did not in any legal sense submit the books and papers to the jurisdiction of the committee.

"It is perfectly clear that counsel diligently sought to make his position known to the committee, but that he was not permitted so to do. The same counsel, in a prior proceeding taken on behalf of the witness, which was scarcely concluded before the present proceeding was begun, has been active in his opposition to any examination of the books and papers in question.

"It is incredible that the same counsel should have voluntarily surrendered possession of these records at the very time he was active in his endeavor by legal means to keep them from the committee.

Question of Law.

"This brings me to the question of law. It is objected that the subpoena is too broad, that the Builders' Supply Company, not being a corporation, cannot be compelled to produce all books, papers, records, checks, check books, books of account, sales records, records of income and disbursements, and all and any records pertaining to the business of the petitioner. Had this subpoena been issued in a judicial proceeding and were the question thus before me for determination, I should not hesitate to pronounce the subpoena too broad and to excuse obedience to its terms. This would not be on the ground that the subpoena invaded the petitioner's rights under Section 8 of the New York Civil Rights law, because that law does not apply to the production of documentary evidence upon subpoenaes issued by the courts.

"It would be because I should be sitting as a court to determine a question of law presented to me in a judicial proceeding and that by precedent of the common law I had found the subpoenas not void, but irregular in form. The situation here is quite different and upon the plainest principles I think I am without jurisdiction. By a parity of reasoning I think the principles of the Mohawk Overall Company case apply here and that no objection will lie under the civil rights law.

"The office of a subpoena duces tecum involves neither seizure nor search. The witness retains possession of his papers and they may be used only as they may be pertinent to his proper examination. But it is urged that the subpoena is too broad. This subpoena has been issued by a committee representing the grand inquest of the State empowered to inquire into certain matters and subjects, with authority to compel the attendance of witnesses and to force the production of books and papers by subpoenas.

"This is not strictly a Legislative power, it is quasi-judicial. But the Legislature is invested with certain powers of a judicial nature. Powers which so appertain to the due exercise of certain Legislative functions as to be necessary incident for their comprehensive performance.

"The committee, of course, cannot be the final arbiters of their own jurisdiction. But are the courts to step in and attempt to regulate the form their process should take, so long as they keep within their jurisdictional limits? I think not. In all such matters the Legislature, or its agent, the committee. is as independent of the judicial branch of the Government as the latter, within its sphere, is independent of the former.

"If the petitioner feels aggrieved at the form of the subpoena, let it present its grievance to the committee. If its rights of person or of property are violated over its objections it may have recourse to the courts. But so long as its constitutional or statutory rights are not invaded, I think the court may not interfere. Motion denied and stay vacated."

WANTS PARKS ADVERTISED.

Travel Association Asks Congress to Spend $2,473,594.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 29.—Congress was asked to appropriate not less than $2,473,594 for development and advertising of national parks in the United States, in a resolution adopted at a convention of the American Travel Development Association here today. This would encourage travel, the resolution stated.

The resolution was introduced by Herbert Cuthbert of Seattle, Wash., representatives of tourist bureaus in various sections of the country attending the meeting.

12 SHIP GRAFT CASES UP TO PROSECUTORS

Benson Submits Evidence to Justice Department—Action in New York Likely Soon.

BOLLING CALLED IN INQUIRY

10 Per Cent. of $70,000,000 for Repairs Represented Graft, Witness Tells Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Prosecution of graft cases and other offenses by Shipping Board employes and others dealing with the board will begin soon in New York, Norfolk and other cities. Admiral W. S. Benson, Chairman of the board, announced this afternoon evidence in about a dozen cases already had been turned over to the Department of Justice, and that new cases would be submitted for prosecution wherever they originated.

Shipping Board investigators have accumulated a mass of material, and it is said the legal actions will be pushed to the utmost. Only a few days ago, Colonel Guy D. Goff, counsel of the board and newly appointed Commissioner for the Great Lakes, asserted in a formal statement that every case of graft arising in connection with the Shipping Board would be prosecuted.

Admiral Benson's statement had no reference to the cases growing out of the Walsh Committee inquiry, he said, but related to facts discovered by the Shipping Board's own secret service.

However, it is presumed that after the Walsh Committee has concluded or gone further ahead in its work, the cases it has discovered will be dealt with by the Shipping Board's legal staff.

ASK BOLLING TO TESTIFY IN SHIP INQUIRY TODAY

Witness Tells of $7,000,000 Graft on Repairs—Heavy Losses on Surplus Sales.

R. Wilmer Bolling, Treasurer of the United States Shipping Board and a brother-in-law of President Wilson, is expected to be a witness today before the Congressional Committee on Shipping Board operations. He will be questioned concerning the testimony of Tucker K. Sands, former Vice President and Cashier of the Commercial National Bank of Washington, D. C., who swore that he (Sands) received a $40,000 bribe from Wallace Downey to help obtain a contract for the Downey Shipbuilding Corporation, and that this bribe was shared with Mr. Bolling, Lester Sisler, former Secretary of the Shipping Board, and John Cranor, a Downey representative.

Mr. Sisler and Alonzo Tweedale, former Controller of the Shipping Board, who is said to have investigated Mr. Bolling's alleged participation in the transaction, also have been invited to appear.

Representative Joseph Walsh of Massachusetts, Chairman of the investigating committee, said the prospective witnesses had not been asked to waive immunity.

Developments of the Session.

Developments in yesterday's sessions, in Exhibit Room 6, Hotel Pennsylvania, were:

That $7,000,000 in graft on repairs alone had been collected from the Government in the South Atlantic District, and that the matter "was held in suspense" when reported to the Shipping Board last July.

That the Shipping Board, by submitting to enormous overcharges, "has demoralized the rest of the business."

That at the present rate of sale it would take seven years for the Government to sell its $80,000,000 worth of surplus supplies, and even then at great loss.

That Shipping Board officials practiced unfair discrimination in the purchase of supplies, rejecting bids 20 to 25 per cent. lower than those of companies on an "approved list."

That Shipping Board material had been sold illegally.

Charles M. Banzhaf, a traveling auditor for the Division of Operations, in charge of auditors in New York, testified that 10 per cent. of the Shipping Board repair bills in the South Atlantic District represented graft. He cited instances.

He told of overcharges of $337,000 by the Morgan Engineering Company of Jersey City, which undertook a job of refitting the steamship New Rochelle, formerly the Germany steamer Hamburg. This vessel, he said, was sold by the Shipping Board to the Baltic Steamship Company for $985,000 on charter purchase. One of the officers of this company was Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, former Director of the Port of Embarkation, whom a previous witness had blamed for obstructive methods that delayed the settlement of the Shipping Board's claims of $208,000,000 against the War Department.

Bill for $1,500,000 Presented.

The New Rochelle was to be reconditioned and the Shipping Board was to advance funds for this purpose up to approximately $518,000. When the work was completed by the Morgan Engineering Company, according to the witness, a bill for $1,500,000 was presented. This was reduced by $337,000, Mr. Banzhaf said, after an audit of the Morgan books had been started. The audit had been ordered because the Baltic Company had requested an advance of approximately $400,000.

Mr. Banzhaf testified he had asked the Morgan Company for its time cards when he began his audit, but was informed by Colonel McCabe, a company official formerly with the Army Transport Service, that the cards had been destroyed.

"When I first went there," said the witness, "I was told by a young man, named Jennings, that he believed he could produce practically every time card, but after a talk with Colonel McCabe and Mr. Lacombe, secretary-treasurer of the company, he reversed himself."

According to the witness, the same company undertook to recondition the steamship Mercury, formerly the German liner Barbarossa, which also was allocated to the Baltic Steamship Company. After $175,000 was spent work was stopped, according to information furnished the witness by Colonel McCabe, who explained the company "didn't see any money coming to them."

Tells of Gross Irregularities.

Mr. Banzhaf asserted that up to six or seven months ago he had found gross irregularities in bills for repairs at New York. Charges had been made for "hundreds of hours of time" that had not been put in; for skilled labor instead of unskilled that had been employed, and for higher grade materials than had been used.

The witness said he reported these facts to the General Controller. He said the graft was made possible by inadequate inspections and failure to check repair work.

"What was done about it?" asked Chairman Walsh.

"The matter was reported to Washington," replied the witness, "and the Bureau of Investigation also was informed."

"Were these repair companies made to repay what they should have?" inquired the Chairman.

"I think the matter was held in suspense."

The witness then repeated a story told to him by Captain Evans of the steamship Mahmet, to the effect that Inspector Barclay at Norfolk had requisitioned "thousands of dollars" for repairs to an engine which the inspector had never seen. The inspector, according to the witness, sat in a pilot house and made out the requisitions for these repairs. From the same source he had learned that steamship captains who questioned costs for repairs were told by inspectors that costs did not concern them; that the spirit was to make, rather than to cut down, repair work. Agents of companies operating Shipping Board vessels are alleged to have demanded graft before the work was given to repair companies.

"Demoralized Rest of Business."

Among repair companies that had made overcharges, the witness named the North River Ship and Engine Company, which had charged $24,642 for repairs to the steamer Cojacet, which the Bureau of Survey found should have amounted to only $4,065.

When Representative Kelly asked if it were not true that private operating companies were subjected to the same kind of overcharges the witness replied in the affirmative, but added:

"The Shipping Board has demoralized the rest of the business by countenancing loose practices."

George S. Watt, Manager of the Sales and Warehouse Section of the Shipping Board, and Robert I. Laggren, Director of the Supply and Sales Department for the Eastern District, testified concerning the disposal of surplus material.

Mr. Watt said that $80,000,000 worth of such materials were stored in concentration yards, principally at Wilson Point, Hog Island and Metuchen, N. J. He had favored surplus sales "as is where is," because the purchaser was thus required to pay the transportation, and said he had disposed of large quantities of supplies in this way. He thought it better for the Government to dispose of small quantities of materials this way than to bother with carrying it, even though the sales were made under the market price.

In most cases the inventories made by the Shipping Board were correct, the witness said, and while he had no inventory of the classified materials of the district, every ton of steel and every piece of lumber was listed by the construction department.

Sales Aggregate $1,000,000 a Month.

When Mr. Watt ventured the information that the Eastern District's sales aggregated about $1,000,000 a month, he was asked by Representative Patrick H. Kelly of Michigan if it would not take the Shipping Board at least seven years to dispose of its materials. The witness admitted that it would unless sales could be speeded up. He said sales were improving, and added:

"There is no way the Government can get out from under this situation without charging a large loss, any way you look at it."

Mr. Laggren, who had testified previously, asked permission at this point to take the stand. He said the Shipping Board was working out a plan whereby this enormous mass of surplus supplies could be sold in lump quantities within another year, thus eliminating excessive overhead costs, yet possibly being compelled to suffer heavy losses.

The witness also went into details of the sale of materials to Bardee & Co., who bid $4,000,000 and later raised it to $10,000,000 for surplus steel; took up also the George F. Rogers contract for the removal of unfinished hulls from ship ways and discussed the sale of lumber to the American Lumber Sales Company. He described the hull removal contract as a fine stroke of business for the Shipping Board, because Rogers was paid $5,000 a hull to remove them and permitted to sell them for whatever he saw fit, whereas some bids on this contract called for $10,000 to $20,000 for removing each hull.

Discrimination Is Charged.

Samuel M. Hildreth, resident manager for the Belmont Packing Company, said the Shipping Board discriminated against his company. Although its bid was 20 to 25 per cent. lower than the bid accepted, Mr. Hildreth said it was thrown out because his company was not on the approved list. Frank A. Stringer, a salesman, testified that he went to Washington to ascertain why the company could get no business from the Shipping Board, but was unable to learn why it had been left off the approved list.

William H. Cash, formerly a traveling auditor for the Shipping Board, cited the cases of two men, Bohannon and Woodill, who were dismissed for illegally selling material. He testified he had investigated charges that the resident auditor at the Downey Shipbuilding Corporation had shown favoritism, but had not finished the investigation when he left the Shipping Board. Representative Kelly asked if he had heard of any ten-thousand-dollar notes going through the Downey company as vouchers. He explained he had not investigated the company's books.

Another witness before the committee was Edward S. Malmar, cashier of the Corn Exchange Bank, who produced transcripts of the various bank accounts maintained by the Downey Shipbuilding Corporation and Wallace Downey personally. These transcripts, along with a record of loans to Mr. Downey and the Downey Shipbuilding Corporation, were placed in evidence.

The committee will resume its hearing this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

ORDERS COURTMARTIAL FOR NAVAL OFFICER

Daniels Acts on Report of New Samoan Governor—Dead Governor Exonerated.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The recent unrest among the natives in the naval controlled island of Samoa, in the Pacific, was "influenced by Commander Kail, Lieutenant Commander Boucher and an American citizen named Greene," said a dispatch received today by the Navy Department from Captain Waldo Evans, the new Governor of the island, and head of a court appointed to inquire into the trouble at Samoa.

Captain Evans recommended that Lieutenant Commander Boucher be courtmartialed on charges of "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman; conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline; drunk on duty; disrespect to President, Secretary of Navy and superior officers." Secretary Daniels replied to the dispatch authorizing the trial of Commander Boucher.

Captain Evans said that Greene would be deported "as undesirable," but no recommendation was made as to Commander Kail. The Captain added that there was no evidence of "legal, financial or political irregularity" in the administration of the affairs of the island.

Commander Boucher preferred charges against Commander Warren J. Terhune, former Governor of Samoa, who committed suicide just before the naval court under Captain Evans arrived at the island. Secretary Daniels said that in his opinion the court had "completely exonerated" Commander Terhune of the charges made by Commander Boucher.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—Arthur A. Greene, the American citizen who is to be deported from Samoa in connection with recent unrest among Samoan natives, according to Washington advices, is well known in newspaper circles in Portland, Ore., Sacramento and San Francisco, where he was employed several years ago prior to going to Honolulu as city editor of a newspaper.

one of these successful bidders, afterward repudiated the suggestion that there had been any collusion in bidding.

Upon the opening of the meeting, Mayor Hylan suggested that the resolution authorizing the investigation be amended to make it clear that it was intended to cover all city contracts instead of merely building contracts. This was done and a letter from Commissioner Grover A. Whalen of the Department of Plant and Structures, defending himself from the charge made against him by Mr. Untermyer in connection with the dumping of ashes on the Court House site, with accompanying exhibits in the form of correspondence, which had previously been made public, was read into the record.

Propriety Is Questioned.

Mr. Tench was called as a witness and Mr. Curran brought up the question of the propriety of proceeding until an arrangement had been made with the Lockwood committee so that it might be certain there would be no conflict. Mr. Carswell replied that he and Meier Steinbrink, named at the request of Mr. LaGuardia as associate counsel in the inquiry, understood that the board was not to work at cross purposes with the committee, and that, as Mr. Untermyer had disavowed any intention of going into an investigation of city contracts, there was no reason why the board's investigation should not go on.

"The trouble is," said Mr. Curran, "that we don't know what the Lockwood committee is going to take up tomorrow or the next day or in the future, and unintentionaly something might be done here that would interfere with the work of that committee. I am quite well aware of the distinction you draw between a general investigation of the contracts with the city and the investigation of the Lockwood committee, which is going into the whole situation, including any part that might bear on relations between contractors and the city. That was why I asked last week whether the co-operation would be before the hearing or after the hearing. I understand that the Lockwood committee knows nothing of what is going on here."

A long debate followed, and Mr. Carswell suggested that abandonment of the inquiry would be practically "abdication" of the Board of Esimate's powers.

"I think it is not a question of abdication," said Mr. Curran. "I think it is a question of crossing wires. That is how it strikes me. I have conducted investigations into the City Government in my own time and I am rather familiar with the dangers that come from two or more bodies working in the same field, but blindfolded, each as to the position of the other, and that is the condition in which we are at this moment, and with all the earnestness and skill that you may put into this, I think you are making a mistake, and I press my suggestion, Mr. Mayor, that this receive a little more careful consideration, and that we defer this examination until there has been a conference with the Lockwood committee."

Motion to Adjourn Defeated.

Mr. Curran then moved to adjourn, but the motion was defeated, with only his vote in the affirmative. In explaining his vote, Mr. Curran said:

"I do not think you can possibly divide this whole subject that is before the city, by a wall, saying that one particular portion of it is covered by this board, and the other by the Lockwood Committee. Their powers are complete. They have exercised them in many different directions, and I believe that sooner or later—it may be sooner than we expect, we are going to defeat the proper purposes of that committee by going ahead in this confusion."

After the announcement of the vote, Mr. Curran requested permission to withdraw. He said he still favored an investigation by the city, but said he considered it improper to go ahead at this time.

"I don't believe you should be excused," said Edward Riegelmann, Borough President of Brooklyn. "You ought to stay here and attend to your business."

"We will get along much better," said Mayor Hylan. "Go right along. I could explain, possibly, the whole thing, but I won't. Proceed."

Mr. Curran then made his exit. "Good-bye," called Henry Buckner, Borough President of the Bronx, as the Manhattan Borough President left the room. "Good-bye, Henry," called Mr. Riegelmann.

Mr. Carswell then announced that for the purpose of removing all doubt as to the Board of Estimate's power of subpoena the Commissioner of Accounts, who has that power, had been instructed to conduct a parallel investigation, and that the subpoenas for witnesses would be issued by the Commissioner of Accounts.

Tells of Pier Contracts.

Mr. Tench, who had resumed his seat during the discussion, again took the witness stand, and testified that his firm held the contracts for the construction of six city piers at Stapleton, S. I. Mr. Tench in reply to questions said he had no arrangements with any other bidders. He said that he as well as some of his competitors belonged to the General Contractors' Association, but said there was no advance arrangements on bids between members of that organization.

Mr. Carswell asked Mr. Tench what elements went into his company's bid with respect to financing the operation, and Mr. Tench replied that they had estimated that it would probably cost $50,000 in addition to the regular interest. He said he had taken up the matter of financing the contract with Mr. Baldwin of the Hudson Trust Company and Mr. Bogart of the Twenty-third Ward Bank.

Q.—Why $50,000 when you are going to pay interest on the operation? A.—Because money is worth more at the present time than the legal rate of interest, and just at that time the Federal Reserve Bank had issued instructions to all banks to curtail their loans, and it was difficult to get money.

Q.—Well, if there was money going to be available from a particular bank for the financing operation, the making of a payment in addition to the legal rate of interest was not going to make that money any more available. Wasn't there some other reason why that sum was arrived at? A.—No; I arrived at that myself and made the offer.

Q.—Why $50,000 rather than $75,000? A.—There is no reason at all further than that I figured that it would cost us that and I offered it to them.

Q.—What was the maximum amount at any particular time in the way of a financial credit that you were expecting on this three-million-dollar contract? A.—We figured we would require three-quarters of a million dollars.

Q.—You would never require any more than that at any single time? A.—No.

Q.—And you were then making an offer of $50,000 for three-quarters of a million dollars accommodation? A.—That is right.

Q.—Who was this man that you dealt with in the Hudson Trust Company on that? A.—Mr. Baldwin.

Q.—What officer is he there? A.—He is President of the trust company.

Q.—Did you subsequently carry through that arrangement with them? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Why didn't you? A.—Well, he was unable to put it through. After he had tried at a number of banks to secure the additional money, as their bank could not supply the full amount, he told me that he was unable to do it.

Q.—How do you conceive that they were going to carry this $50,000 on their books? What would it be for on their books? It would not be 6 per cent. interest, what would it be carried as? A.—I suppose as a bonus.

Q.—Do you understand that banks carry sums like that on their books as a bonus, as moneys going to the banks as such? A.—I don't know. I am not able to tell what they do with that.

Q.—Didn't you have any talk with them that made clear who was to be the ultimate recipiant of that money? A.—No. He told me that he would have to pay that out in order to secure the money. He said that the Hudson Trust Company never had and would not charge more than 6 per cent., but that in order to get the additional accommodation he would have to pay it out.

Q.—In other words, then, he made clear to you that the $50,000 was not going to go to the Hudson Trust Company as such? A.—Yes, he did absolutely.

Q.—Did you make any further inquiry as to who was going to get it? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did he leave it in your mind that he was going to get any part of it? A.—No, sir, he did not.

Q.—Well, you say you did not go through with the arrangement with the Hudson Trust Company? A.—No, I did not.

Q.—Why didn't you? A.—Because he was unable to secure the necessary amount with which to finance the operation.

Q.—Well, did he give you any reason why he didn't go through with it other than that? A.—He told me that there was a general feeling among the different banks that the city was too slow pay for them to enter into any proposition of that kind.

Q.—And he represented to you that that was the attitude of all the banks around here, is that it, on city contracts? A.—I won't say all, but that was the general impression that he gave me of the information that he got from the different banks that he talked to.

Tried Other Banks.

Mr. Tench said that after his company had failed to get the loan from the Hudson Trust Company, he had talked to officials of the Twenty-third Ward Bank, with which his firm had done business. He said that this was a comparatively small bank and was unable to make the loan. He said he then tried the credit manager of the Guaranty Trust Company and was told it did not care to finance any contractors on city work.

Mr. Tench said the loan was finally obtained from the Financing Corporation of Buffalo at 10 per cent. interest and $25,000 additional. Asked why Terry & Tench went to Buffalo for the money, Mr. Tench said that Mr. Wagner of their firm was from Buffalo and had financial connections there.

"Didn't it strike you as a pretty remarkable situation that the City of New York, which is the money centre of this country and probably of the world, could not finance you on a city contract with the City of New York and that you had to go way up to Buffalo?" asked Mr. Carswell.

"Well, it was a disappointment," replied Mr. Tench.

Q.—You are a man of a great deal of business experience. You have been in the contracting line for a long time. You have mulled over this thing. What is there about that bid? You must have some idea on why you are forced, a reputable contractor such as you are, to go away up to Buffalo to get financing that you are entitled to as a matter of course. A.—Well, during the last year it has been very difficult to get the banks to extend their credit in any way at all, not only in connection with contracts—well, that is all I know about in connection with contracts.

Q.—That situation, as far as it existed, is equally true of Buffalo, isn't it? It must be true of the entire country, that basic proposition. A.—I imagine so.

Q.—So that that is no explanation of why you were denied credit, is it? A.—I was not in position to understand why further than the explanation I have given.

Q.—Was the real trouble that you were, that your ideas on amount were not sufficiently liberal—probably if you had offered 75 or 100 they would have come through with the credit for you? A.—I couldn't say that.

Q.—Did they ever try you out on bringing up your amount? A.—No.

Mr. Tench was asked whether he believed there was any relationship between the denial of credit to his firm by New York banks and the fact that it was the first time his firm had ever received any pier contracts. He replied that there was none.

Brindell Is Mentioned.

The name of Robert P. Brindell, President of the Building Trades Council, which appeared in the Lockwood committee's investigation, was brought into the Board of Estimate's hearing when Mr. Tench admitted that his firm had paid Brindell $7,500 in payments of $5,000 and $2,500. Mr. Tench said arrangements for the payments, which he said were the only ones of the kind ever made by his firm, were made through Mr. Sherwin of the firm, but he accepted the responsibility for approving them.

"I objected very strongly at first," Mr. Tench said, "but, after considering the matter, we were just starting the contract and thought it a very much better thing to have Brindell with us than against us. We thought it would be very much more expensive if we went into a labor fight just starting than if we paid him this money and prevented a strike."

Mr. Tench said that the money was paid Brindell in cash and was carried on the firm's books as part of the general expense of the pier contract. He said he was willing that accountants of the board should examine the firm's books, and was excused with a statement that he would be recalled.

C. B. J. Snyder, Superintendent of School Buildings, testified that contracts for twenty-seven school buildings had been let since Jan. 1, 1918, aggregating $11,970,865. Bids had been received, he said, from a total of twenty-five contractors.

Mr Carswell cited School 29, on which the Board of Education's estimate was $398,475 and the award was $472,000, and Carswell asked the reason for the increase. Mr. Snyder said it was due largely to the increased cost of labor and material. He explained that the estimated cost as computed by the Board of Education was largely for the purpose of fixing the percentages to be paid contractors when they reached certain points in the construction.

Calls Estimates Worthless.

"Why did you present these worthless estimated costs to the Board of Estimate, informing the Board of a figure which was afterward raised 25 per cent. in the case of School 29?" asked Mr. Carswell.

Mr. Snyder replied that sometimes months elapsed between the computation of the estimated cost of a school building and its submission to the Board of Estimate.

"Then they were stale figures," said Mr. Carswell.

"In some cases the estimated costs were made on class room units and not on the basis of cost of materials," said Mr. Snyder.

"If that is your explanation for the series of inadequate estimated costs on a series of twenty-six schools covering a period of two years, with the estimated costs having no relation to the actual cost," said Mr. Carswell, "either you have the wrong men, the wrong materials or work along wrong lines."

"It has stood the test for ten years," replied Mr. Snyder.

"It couldn't have been a very strong test," Mr. Carswell retorted.

"In the last two years it was the result of a rising market," said Mr. Snyder.

Mr. Snyder then explained the "group" system of awarding school construction contracts, which he said was an experiment.

It was brought out that this method cost the city directly $12,080 on the grouping of schools 6 and 57 in the Bronx, as the sum of the two low bids on each school was less by that amount than the lowest aggegrate bid for the two schools.

Mr. Carswell pointed out that as a result of this method of awarding contracts the T. A. Clarke Company, P. J. Brennan and the Nugent Construction Company were each bidders on one of the three group jobs, and each received one of the three awards. Mr. Snyder said it indicated that this scheme of contract letting did not work out well.

After Mr. Snyder's testimony the board adjourned for lunch and reconvened in executive session for the conference with Mr. Untermyer. When the public hearing was resumed Thomas A. Clarke of the T. A. Clarke Company, one of the school contractors, was called.

Mr. Clarke said that he had made no agreement with any other contractor before submitting bids on school buildings, and denied that he ever had known John T. Hettrick, whom witnesses before the Lockwood committee have mentioned in connection with school contracts and whose request to Mayor Hylan led to the change in the specifications of terra cotta to limestone, or of the "code of practice" devised by Mr. Hettrick.

Asked to explain why he had submitted a bid of $924,700 for School 61 in the Bronx and then three weeks later submitted another bid of $873,736 when his first bid was rejected because he was the only bidder, Mr. Clarke said his superintendent had added $30,000 when he found out the Clarke firm was the only bidder because he knew that the bid would be rejected, and did not wish competitors to know the firm's actual low figure. Mr. Carswell asked how he knew he was to be the only bidder and Mr. Clarke replied that he believed he was because there was a "strike" of the school contractors at that time owing to what they regarded as unfair treatment by the city and that the superintendent must have heard about it.

Mayor Hylan asked Mr. Clarke to explain why his bid on the Newtown High School was $786,000 in October, 1919, and $986,000, $200,000 higher, on a reletting in September, 1920. Mr. Clarke said this was because of the increased cost of labor and material. He also testified that the contract called originally for granite, but that this specification was changed to limestone because he could not get granite and that he allowed the city $10,000 in the adjustment.

William J. Hanna of the Frymier & Hanna Company, another firm which holds school contracts, testified that he was a member of the Masons and Builders' Association and of the Building Trades Employers' Association. He said he paid $100 a year to the first-named association and one-tenth of one per cent. of his contracts to the second. Under questioning, he admitted that the by-laws of the Masons and Builders' Association provided for such a payment to the Building Trades Employers' Association.

Adjournment was taken until Friday afternoon. Mayor Hylan stated that if any conflict should develop with the Lockwood committee, which has a hearing scheduled for that day, the hearing would be adjourned to Saturday.

Mr. LaGuardia gave out a statement after the adjournment in regard to Mr. Curran's desertion of the inquiry, in which he said:

"For all the reasons stated by my colleague, Mr. Curran. I deem it my duty to sit with the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at every meeting it holds.

"I feel that it is my sworn duty as a minority representative to sit with the majority of the board and do what I can to assist it when it is right and to do everything within my power as a minority member to prevent it from committing a wrong. I feel that in the interest of the city it requires the minority to sit at every board meeting. I feel sufficiently strong to prevent any interference with the legislative investigating committee. I feel doubly assured with the assistance of Meier Steinbrink, one of the ablest investigators in the country."

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in New York City for week ending Saturday, Nov. 27th, 1920, on shipments sold out ranged from 13 cents to 22 cents per pound and averaged 16.16 cents per pound."—Advt.

Lower Milk Prices For December

THERE will be a reduction of one cent per quart in Sheffield Milk (Select Grade A quart bottles, Grade B quart bottles and loose milk in Sheffield Stores) for the month of December. This is due to the lower country costs, which came earlier than is customary.

The highest price of the season usually comes in November and December. These are the months when milk production is lowest and feeding costs reach their peak. This year, in common with the general trend of food prices, the reductions have come earlier. This is good news to you—and to us.

When prices rise milk is one of the last to respond. It is one of the first to move when prices fall.

n the general rise in products of every kind, which has occurred during the last five years, milk stands out conspicuously as showing the least advance of any important food.

ARMED BOY BURGLAR SHOT BY POLICEMAN

Officer Fires When Youth, Caught at Army and Navy Store, Points 2 Pistols at Him.

LAD'S COMPANIONS ESCAPE

"Come On, and Put Your Hands Up," Young Bandit Tells Patrolman—Not Expected to Live.

When Policeman Smith of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station detected three boys robbing the show window of an army and navy supply store at 247 West Forty-second Street, shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, one of the boys, Joseph Steele, 16 years old, who said he lived at Eighth Avenue and 147th Street, attempted to hold up the policeman with two loaded army pistols. The policeman, ignoring the command of "Hands up," shot the boy in the chest, and then took him in an ambulance to the French Hospital, where it was said the boy would die.

The policemtn was patrolling the south side of West Forty-second Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, when he heard a crash of glass from the store owned by Bernard Sloan on the north side of the street. Running across the street he saw three boys helping themselves to pistols, watches and other articles of jewelry on display in the window.

Young Steele was the first to discover the approach of the policeman, and drawing two pistols from his coat pocket, yelled to his companions, boys about his own age, to run.

"Come ahead," shouted young Steele to the policeman as he pointed the pistols at him, "and put your hands above your head."

The policeman instead drew his pistol from its holster, and fired a shot at the boy, less than ten feet from him. The youthful bandit dropped to the ground, and then the policeman started in pursuit of the other two boys, who were nearing Eighth Avenue. They escaped in an automobile which was standing near the corner, and Policeman Smith hurried back to the wounded boy.

He picked up the two pistols, which lay near the youth, summoned an automobile, and went with the boy to the hospital. On the way the policeman asked the boy to reveal the identity of his companions, but young Steele scornfully replied:

"What do you think I am, a squealer? I may be a kid, but I'm not a squealing rat."

After the boy was taken to the operating room at the hospital the policeman telephoned to the West Thirty-seventh Street Station and a general alarm was sent out for the other boys. The policeman said they were frequenters of the neighborhood.

FOR TWO-PLATOON SYSTEM.

State Firemen's Convention Decides on Basis of Legislative Effort.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Decision to make the two-platoon system the basis of legislative effort was decided upon at the annual convention of the New York State Permanent Firemen's Association today. The meeting also went on record in favor of weekly payment of wages and a minimum wage scale. An effort to have salvage corps, or men employed by insurance underwriters to save property, made eligible for membership was defeated.

Thomas G. Benson of Albany was reelected President. Other officers included: First Vice President, Herman Rosenbloom, Rochester; Second Vice President, Fred Anderson, Poughkeepsie; Third Vice President, D. F. Curran, Yonkers; Fourth Vice President, Stephen Crandall, Rensselaer; Fifth Vice President, William Dolan, Amsterdam; Secretary and Treasurer, Frank Emden, Utica; Sergeant-at-Arms, Lawrence Berry, Albany.

HEADS MILK ARBITRATORS.

Judge Garvin Accepts Chairmanship of Wage Mediation Board.

Federal Judge Edwin L. Garvin of Brooklyn consented yesterday to act as chairman of the Board of Arbitration to settle the wage question between the Milk Drivers' Union and the milk distributing concerns, it was announced last night by the New York Milk Conference Board. Besides Judge Garvin, the board will be composed of three representatives of the milk distributers and three union men.

The first meeting of the board with Judge Garvin as Chairman will probably be held today at the Waldorf-Astoria. The selection of Judge Garvin was at the suggestion of the union. It was said yesterday that the union had withdrawn all demands except that for an increase of $10 to the drivers and the men in the distributing plants.

to reorganization of the Public Service Commission. Should a separate commission be continued for New York City it is likely to be a single-headed body. It is possible that the supervision of rapid transit construction peculiar to this city may be transferred and become a charge against and subject to the City Administration, instead of, as at present, subject to and in part a charge against the State. This can be accomplished by an amendment of the New York City Charter, which the Governor-elect would have no difficulty in getting the incoming Legislature to approve.

Mr. Miller told callers yesterday that after only a casual study of the budget figures he had concluded they did not fully tell the story of the crying need for economy. The visible revenues for the next fiscal year have been calculated on the basis of this year's receipts. The Governor-elect is not hopeful that either the personal income tax or the tax on incomes of mercantile and manufacturing corporations will bring as great returns as they did this year, unless the percentage of the tax is raised, and he is unwilling to recommend legislative action with that end in view.

Many Callers on Miller.

Among Mr. Miller's callers were Chairman George A. Glynn of the Republican State Committee, Representative Bertrand H. Snell, Chairman of the State Executive Committee; George W. Aldridge of Monroe County, Lafayette B. Gleason, Secretary of the State Committee, and Senator John Knight of Wyoming County. Mr. Aldridge wants the Governor-elect to appoint a Monroe County Republican State Superintendent of Public Works.

Governor-elect Miller will remain in this city until Thursday, when he goes to Albany to argue a case before the Court of Appeals. Tomorrow or Wednesday he expects to confer on the port development and transportation problem affecting this city. Tomorrow night he will attend a dinner to be given by Henry W. Taft in honor of Charles D. Hilles, Republican National Committeeman from this State.

We are seeking 2 high-class men

—a cost accountant and production engineer

—an office manager

Are you one of them?

THE Fabricated Production Department of the United States Chamber of Commerce is extending the scope of its activities and offers two especially attractive opportunities:

Cost accountant and production engineer. You will act in an advisory capacity in developing and advancing interest in cost and production methods. To qualify for it you must be university trained, have years of plant experience and possess more than average equipment and ability. We are not fixing salary limit definitely, but you must have demonstrated ability to earn $7,500. The position has a future that will appeal to a forward-looking man.

Office manager. You must be up-to-date as an office organizer, well educated and preferably with industrial experience. You will assist in conducting a department dealing with manufacturing problems. Salary limit also not fixed, but you must have demonstrated ability to earn $4,000.

Both positions will require location in Washington.

To men who possess the necessary capacity these connections offer the satisfaction of a worth-while association, permanence, and the opportunity for growth.

Please reply by mail only, giving telephone number where you can be reached on Wednesday and Thursday, looking forward to an appointment in our New York Office.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUITS IN HIGH COURT

Control of Publications Is at Stake in the First and Most Important Suit.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—The full bench of the Supreme Court sat in judgment today on the final stage of the litigation in which factions of the Christian Science Church are involved in an attempt to determine where control of the organization and its auxiliary activities rests. The closing arguments brought together an array of noted counsel and attracted many persons from faraway places. Among the lawyers who spoke were ex-Governor John L. Bates, in behalf of the Directors; William G. Thompson, representing John V. Dittemore, who seeks restoration as a member of the Board of Directors, and Charles E. Hughes, in behalf of the Trustees. Mr. Hughes's argument was unfinished when adjournment was taken.

About thirty attorneys in all were present to represent the various interests in the five actions grouped for argument. Besides those mentioned these included Sherman L. Whipple, General Frank S. Streeter, Edwin A. Krauthoff, Charles F. Choate, Jr., and Miles Dawson of New York.

For four hours before the proceedings began people were waiting at the Court House, for it had been announced that only 125 spectators could be admitted. Some were there as early as 4 o'clock and they stood patiently in the cold until the doors were opened. The early comers quickly filled the seats and later arrivals jammed the corridors.

The litigation was simplified somewhat by the withdrawal of Mrs. Emilie B. Hulin of Brooklyn, who had claimed a voice in the proceedings in her capacity as a first member of the church, the governing body that preceded the Board of Directors. Miles M. Dawson of New York, her counsel, in announcing Mrs. Hulin's withdrawal said she abandoned her attempt to intervene in the suit of the trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Society against the Board of Directors of the Mother Church, believing that all her rights were fully protected in the petition of Attorney General Allen of Massachusetts, which asserts that under the manual of the church the Directors are the governing body and have the power to remove members of the Board of Trustees.

The disputed points in today's case largely represented exceptions taken to the findings of Judge Frederic Dodge, who, as master in the original suit brought by trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Society against the Board of Directors of the church, sustained the plaintiffs in their main contentions.

Since the litigation began in March, 1919, it has assumed various phases through intervening suits, but broadly speaking the outstanding issue is whether the authority of the Board of Directors of the Christian Science Church extends over the trustees of the publishing society, which publishes The Christian Science Monitor and other church periodicals. Judge Dodge held that it did not.

The first suit to be argued was the suit of the Trustees of the publishing society against the Directors of the church, in which the plaintiffs ask that the respondents be enjoined from interfering with the affairs of the publishing society. The Trustees hold that under a deed of trust made by Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the church, they are independent of control by the Directors, who, in the exercise of powers which they maintain are conferred under another deed of trust made by Mrs. Eddy and in conformity with the plan of church government which they maintain was laid down by Mrs. Eddy in the church manual, have sought to remove Lamont Rowlands from his office as Trustee.

Other matters before the court are the bills of Daisy and Edwin A. Krauthoff proclaiming the manual as the supreme authority of the church, and of the Trustees of the publishing society to restrain individual members of the Mother Church from influencing other members to cancel subscriptions to Christian Science publications.

In his argument for the directors, Mr. Bates said:

"The plaintiffs are invoking the aid of this court to set aside a construction that has been placed upon the trust deed of Jan. 25, 1898, and consistently followed by all parties.

"Upon a bill, alleging that the directors by their insistence upon the continuation of the donor's construction of said deed as expressed in the bylaws are seeking to change the relationship that had existed between the two boards. Plaintiffs obtained the ad interim injunction. But the master's findings utterly fail to support the bill in this respect.

"The construction asked for by these plaintiffs disregards the plain intention and purpose of the donor of this charity, and would, we contend, result in its destruction.

William G. Thompson, counsel for John V. Dittemore, said that Judge Dodge, as master, had ruled that both Dittemore and Rowland had been illegally dismissed. He went on to state that on Feb. 2, 1920, the Directors had put in a plea that they had more evidence in the Dittemore case. He said that after they had agreed the master should make his findings on the evidence submitted at that time and had urged the master to do so, they changed front when they found they had lost the case.

They claimed they were surprised, Thompson said, but the master found their claim of surprise was not true.

4,000 ARRIVE ON 4 LINERS.

Ellis Island Congestion Increased by 2,700 in Steerage.

Four liners arriving yesterday from European ports brought 4,000 passengers, including 2,700 steerage, which added to the congestion of the immigration quarters on Ellis Island. As the aliens detained on board the Red Star liners Kroonland and Gothland since Saturday were inspected yesterday with the 1,200 from the France, the newcomers had to remain on their ships.

The Scandinavian-American liner United States brought 51 first, 155 second and 614 third class passengers from Copenhagen and Christiania. Among the passengers was Thorvald Kring, one of the managers of the Great Northern Telegraph Company, on his way to China.

Mrs. M. C. Tellez, wife of the Mexican Chargé d'Affaires in Washington, arrived on the Spanish liner Prince de Satrustegui from Cadiz via Vera Cruz. She said that political conditions in Mexico were more stable than any time since the first revolution in 1907.

The Swedish-American liner Stockholm brought 44 first, 214 second and 714 third class passengers from Gothenburg, the majority of whom were farmers on their way to the Northwest.

The Lapland from Antwerp and Southampton brought 1,988 passengers in all classes.

ROOSEVELT NOT IN COURT.

Kermit Asks Delay of His Hearing on Speeding Charge.

Kermit Roosevelt failed to appear in the New Brighton Police Court yesterday to answer a summons served on him Saturday night for speeding at thirty miles an hour in his automobile along Amboy Road, Staten Island, but sent a telegram saying he had been detained in Washington on important business and asking that the case be adjourned until Thursday. This was done and he will appear on Thursday before Magistrate Mullen in Stapleton Police Court.

Motorcycle Policeman Hoffman who served the summons told Magistrate Mullen yesterday that Roosevelt and three friends were hurrying along Amboy Road trying to catch the 10:30 o'clock boat from Tottenville and that he overhauled them after a chase of three-quarters of a mile. Roosevelt was driving the car himself, the policeman testified.

CITY SEIZES STREET HELD BY FACTORY

Queens Borough President Leads 100 Men Into Disputed Thoroughfare.

NICHOLS COPPER CO. IS FOE

Connolly Plans Removal of Their Buildings From Long Island City Property.

The issue between the City of New York and the Nichols Copper Company as to which owns River Street, a little thoroughfare running through the company's plant in the Laurel Hills section of Long Island City, was temporarily decided in favor of the city last night. The victory was achieved when Borough President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens personally led a squad of 100 laborers from the Highways Bureau into possession of the street.

Last night a strong detail of police was guarding the property and this morning the Borough President intends to supervise the work of ripping up a narrow gauge railway and removing several buildings which the copper company had built on land which the city says it owns.

The disputed street is about ten blocks long and extends from Creek Street to the Newtown Creek waterfront. The Nichols company owns the land on either side and their property is partly improved and partly a place for the storage of coal. Down the middle of the street runs the narrow-guage plant railway and it is fringed with heaps of old iron, lumber and other materials. Residents of the Newtown section, complaining that access to the waterfront was denied them, besought Mr. Connolly to do something.

Early in the morning, the Borough President was told that agents of the copper company were placing gates across River Street and that watchmen were there to keep the public out. He at once dispatched a force of laborers under Engineer Fred Sheppard, but they reported they were unable to enter.

Mr. Connolly then motored to the scene, but J. A. Church, Jr., Secretary of of company, said that no one not a Nichols employe would be permitted past the gates. The Borough President then had a summons served upon Mr. Church to appear in Long Island City Police Court this morning to answer a charge of obstructing a highway.

Connolly Launches Offensive.

The Borough President returned to his office, but after luncheon decided on aggressive tactics. He notified the highway gangs from the First and Second Wards of Queens to report for action at the Nichols plant. The strong men went to the plant in motor lorries and were armed with shovels, pick-axes and an assortment of other "weapons." To old timers in Queens it looked as if the spirit of "Battle Axe" Gleason, who once yanked down a Long Island Railroad fence, had come back. At the gate were Mr. Church, Assistant Secretary F. E. Lee and an attorney representing Steele & Otis, the company's law counselors.

"If you enter this street, you do so at your peril and we will hold you personally liable to this company in civil damages," was the reported quotation of Secretary Church to President Connolly.

"How far do you propose to go in resisting us?" asked the Borough President.

"We propose to do everything but resort to armed resistance," said Mr. Church.

"I am glad that your purpose ends there," remarked Mr. Connolly, "because we are ready for all emergencies."

He then waved an arm at his legionnaires and they raised the gates by main force. With a rattle and a rumble the trucks and lorries invaded River Street, and engineers from the Queens Topographical Bureau, under the direction of Chief Engineer Charles U. Powell, then laid down the lines of the street, while the laborers began to level and grade the jurisdiction of the city over the street. Other gangs at the behest of Mr. Connolly attacked the heaps of iron and lumber.

Plans "Mopping Up" Today.

Back in the Borough Hall after his successful expedition, Mr. Connolly gave orders for the assembling of heavy machinery which he said he would put to work in River Street this morning—ripping up the tracks and pushing buildings out of the way. One of the buildings is a rather substantial coal elevator, but Mr. Connolly said it would have to go. It was said that if all the Borough President's plans are carried through the damage will amount to a large sum.

A year ago the company erected a shed at one end of Creek Street, which is also claimed by the municipality, and George W. Morton, President of the Laurel Hill Taxpayers' Association, protested to Mr. Connolly. A hearing was held, and in consequence of charges and countercharges Morton lost his job as draftsman in the Queens Topographical Bureau. Morton later presented to District Attorney O'Leary of Queens charges that the copper company had been trespassing on the city's rights in Creek Street. O'Leary presented the issue to the Grand Jury, which indicted the copper company. The case has not yet been tried.

ARNSTEIN'S TRIAL OPENS IN CAPITAL

He and Three Others Face Charge of Conspiracy to Take Stolen Bonds to Washington.

FIGHTS SEIZED DOCUMENTS

Counsel Contends Constitutional Rights Were Violated by Authorities in Getting Them.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—A legal fight over the admissibility of documents furnished to the Government by Assistant District Attorney Dooling of New York, marked the opening here today of the trial of Jules W. (Nicky) Arnstein, Wilen W. Easterday, Norman S. Bowles and David W. Sullivan, charged with having conspired to bring securities stolen in New York into the District. Justice Gould, before whom the case was being heard, promised to rule tomorrow on the motion of the defense that all the papers be returned to the defendants as having been illegally seized.

The documents were described as having been the property of the brokerage firm and Sullivan & Co., with which Easterday, Bowles and Sullivan were connected. Hugh J. Fallon of New York, counsel for Arnstein, contended that the seizure of the papers by New York authorities was a specific violation of the "constitutional prerogatives" of his client and questioned genuineness of the order of the District Court in New York submitted by Mr. Dooling as his authority for delivering them here.

A jury was obtained after an extra panel had been called, prosecution and defense having exercised their challenge rights freely.

A hint of possible new features to be expected in the trial was seen in the emphasis placed by the defense, in questioning talesmen, upon whether they were interested in any one of several prominent local banks. The direct connection between the banks and the case was not brought out today, the testimony of Mr. Dooling, the only witness called, being confined to an explanation of how he came into possession of the Sullivan papers.

United States Attorney Laskey conducted the prosecution, assisted by former Assistant United States Attorney James B. Archer, who has been specially retained.

SEEKS TO DIVORCE PRINCESS

Milwaukee Captain Charges Former Husband Is Living in New York.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 29.—Captain Wallace Schutz of Milwaukee, who a few months ago married Najdejda Troubetzkoy, a Red Cross nurse and said to be a Russian Princess, has filed suit for divorce at Green Bay, it became known here today.

The action is based on the accusation that she has a former husband, Victor A. Turin, at one time an officer in the Russian Guard, credited with being dead, but who is now discovered to be alive and residing in New York State.

Birthday Endowment

ARE there not persons, members of your family perhaps, whose birthdays you commemorate regularly? To select for them a suitable gift is an ever-recurring duty. Why not solve this problem once for all, promoting at the same time the success of those you love?

The New York Title and Mortgage Company has a plan to endow birthdays, whereby periodical premium payments become unnecessary. On each specific birthday a check is mailed to the person whose birthday you wish remembered. This gift check arrives every year without further effort on your part. It need cause you no trouble for the rest of your life.

To thus endow the birthday of a loved one, you deposit with the American Trust Company $100 or more. This money is invested at 5½% in a mortgage certificate which guarantees the yearly payment of the birthday gift. Thus you have economically solved the birthday problem in addition to teaching, by a concrete example, the advantage of saving. Send for booklet 3-E.

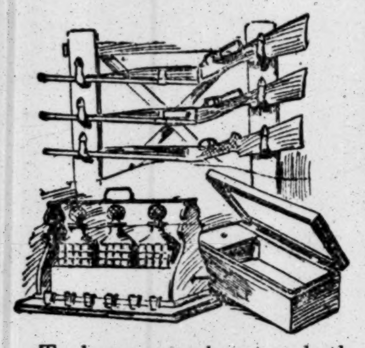
Gifts of Merry Origin



Truly, a merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance.

And the merriest heart at Christmas is the one whose hobby has been pleased.

As the wild duck is more alluring than the tame one, so the sporting gift carries its extra sentiment.

There is in it the thrill of the wild—the call of the snow-clad hill—the echo of vacation hours—the anticipation of days of sport—the zest of the fireside game.

Each Abercrombie & Fitch gift has its merry origin, its merry reminiscence and its merry use.

It is the sparkling crystallization of the spirit of Christmas.

For He's a Jolly Good Fellow

That he should have a specially appropriate gift, nobody can deny.

If he is a golfer—a bag of clubs, a London-made golf suit, a Scotch waistcoat, mayhap a sporting cigarette or cigar case—

Or a churchwarden pipe which will keep his tongue and its vocabulary cool.

If he is a fisherman—tackle—a book of flies, a rod and its case, a fisherman's trunk, or a copy of Izaak Walton.

For the hunter—another shotgun or rifle from this finest assortment in the world. A hunting jacket or boots, hunting knives, or any of the hundreds of other things in the gun and camping departments.

For Sport Devotees Indoors and Out

An unbridled selection for the rider—crops, boots, whips, spurs, stocks and pins—aside from riding clothes.

Special gifts for the tennis player, the polo player, the skater, the bridge and poker enthusiast.

Wrist watches, den clocks, shooting seats—and a special spirit cane, which gives one more than ordinary support.

Flasks, Tantalus sets, sporting smokers' articles, cigar humidors, traveling bags, wardrobe trunks, thermos bottles and jugs, luncheon kits.

Sleds, skiis, snowshoes—and every other sporting article that has ever entered the dreams of boy or man, girl or woman.

DEMAND PIECE WORK IN GARMENT TRADES

Clothing Manufacturers Threaten to Remove Factories if Proposal Is Rejected.

55,000 WORKERS ARE IDLE

Shops to Be Reopened on Week-Work Basis—Union Refuses to Make Any Concessions.

Clothing manufacturers who are members of the Clothing Manufacturers Association of New York have informed Sidney Hillman, General President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, that negotiations between employers and union employes in the clothing trade are ended until the unionists agree to the principle of piece work, as opposed to week work, in the industry. It became evident yesterday that the next few weeks will witness a fight to a finish on this point, unless it is conceded by the union.

The prices of Spring clothing in the New York market, meanwhile, depend in a great measure upon the settlement of the controversy begun between the manufacturers and the union's representatives on Aug. 26, when the old contract expired. About 55,000 clothing workers are idle because shops closed pending negotiations have not been reopened; the union treasury is being drained, and manufacturers who could reopen their shops fear to do so because of the uncertainty of the situation.

The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America last week flatly refused to concede "anything we have won during the last few years after a hard fight." The union is opposed to the piece-work system. The manufacturers maintain that they cannot continue in business, because they cannot compete with other clothing markets, unless the old system is again installed. They charge that under the week-work system the union members put a premium upon inefficiency and "soldier on the job."

The manufacturers plan soon to reopen their shops with piece work as the basis of work. They will invite the employes to go to work and ask the public to back them up, the alternative being the removal of their shops to other markets, where labor has not been scaled so high and where competition starts without the handicap of the week-work system.

"With the public demanding production," says a statement by the manufacturers, which declares that the union here is made up of Socialists and Communists, "we find the members of the Amalgamated soldiering on the job, wilfully reducing production. They never permit you to fire a man, and once he is employed he is taken for life. The manufacturers find they must produce for less, because they cannot sell to the East or West except at a reduced price.

"The manufacturers submitted seven demands to the union, informing the Amalgamated's representatives that they were interested in turning out their garments more cheaply. They wanted piece work and said they must have a system under which a man knows that if he produces less he receives less. And they asked for the right to discharge. They asked, too, for the right to choose their own contractors, and the right to lay off such workers as were not needed in a slack season. Under the present system, a manufacturer is obliged to keep 200 men at work when only 100 are needed.

"Even the boon of piece work does not solve the problem. It is not a question of wanting it—the manufacturers in this market must have it, or they will be forced to go out of business. We have notified the union that we are perfectly willing to enter into negotiations with them, and we will give them every opportunity to go into the ceded the piece-work system.

The manufacturers are still hoping that such concessions will be granted as will enable them to compete with the other clothing markets of the country.

BERLIN SMUGGLERS GIVE CLUE TO THEFTS

home of Mrs. Charlotte King Palmer, at 59 East Ninetieth Street, in which the bandits appropriated jewelry valued at $500,000. Both of these robberies were carried out in the most daring manner and under the very nose of the authorities.

Philadelphia has had several large robberies in the year, notably one last month, when $200,000 worth of pearls and diamonds belonging to Mrs. George M. McFadden were stolen. In the same month Mrs. A. J. Antelo Devereaux of Philadelphia reported the theft of jewels worth $25,000.

The year's record in this city shows scores of jewel robberies in which the owners sustained losses less than $10,000. Among those who suffered heavier losses and the dates on which the robberies became known were:

March 21—Oscar Lowenstein, 318 West Seventy-first Street	$15,000
April 3—Charles E. McManus, Bretton Hall	15,000
July 9—Miss Laura Walker, 680 Madison Avenue	20,000
Sept. 3—Joseph P. Day, Yonkers	20,000
Oct. 17—Mrs. James W. Keany, Hotel Plaza	20,000

An examination of the list of stolen articles which has been made public failed to disclose any jewelry fitting the description contained in the cabled dispatch.

IDENTIFIED AS SCHWAB GIFT.

Former Baltimore Mayor Tells of Giving Gold Box to Steel Man.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29.—The description of the solid gold cigar box reported to have been sold recently by a sailor in Berlin leaves no doubt that it was the one presented to Charles M. Schwab by the City of Baltimore on Nov. 21, 1916. The presentation was made in the Hotel Belvedere by the then Mayor James H. Preston after Mr. Schwab had outlined to 400 business men his plans for a $50,000,000 expansion of the Sparrow's Point Steel Plant.

At his home tonight Mr. Preston was surprised to hear that the gift, intended to provide a lasting remembrance of Baltimore's esteem for Mr. Schwab, had been stolen. Mr. Preston described Mr. Schwab's unfeigned pleasure upon receipt of the gift, which the former Mayor said, was as large as an ordinary cigar box holding 50 cigars. It could be used as either a cigar box, a cigarette container or a jewel box.

Mr. Preston said the box bore the initials of Mr. Schwab and a picture of the Baltimore skyline. The full inscription under an engraving of the Sparrows Point steel plant was: "Bethlehem Steel Company, Sparrows Point."

MANY ROBBERIES IN CHICAGO.

$1,000,000 Worth of Jewelry Reported Stolen Each Year.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—A million dollars worth of jewelry is stolen annually in Chicago, according to police officials, and little is ever recovered.

Epidemics of gem robberies have frequently visited the city. The week of Nov. 2 six hotel robberies, mostly of jewelry, were reported to the police. The amount involved was more than $60,000.

On Nov. 8, a nattily dressed man entered the Hotel Sherman, asked the clerk for a key and five minutes later walked out with $25,000 in diamonds and other gems, the property of Reich Rottenburg, a New York firm with offices at 9, 11, 13 Maiden Lane. The robber was never caught.

Five thousand is the average number of robberies in Chicago. The police have long had certain assayers under surveillance watching for possible purchases of stolen jewelry to be melted and the jewels extracted to avoid identification.

GIVES HIGH COAL CAUSES.

Joint Committee Finds $12.75 to $14 Fair Prices Here.

The Joint Committee on Coal, composed of representatives of the Real Estate Board, the Building Managers and Owners' Association, the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests and the Board of Health, has found that these causes exist for the present high prices of anthracite coal: Difficulty in mining, greater costs of shoring and pumping, cost and inefficiency of labor, inexcusable "vacation" strikes, faulty administration of car service, excessive royalties paid to owners of coal lands, speculation and middlemen, profiteering by retail dealers and excessive costs of delivery from yards to consumer.

In the opinion of the committee fair prices in Manhattan yards are from $12.75 to $14 a ton.

MODEL LANDLORD'S WILL.

Sets Aside Ten Houses in Which Worthy Blind May Live Rent Free.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 29.—Patrick H. Vaughn, "model landlord," who refused to raise rents of his numerous properties during the war period, in his will, probated here today, set aside ten of his houses in which the families of worthy blind may be permitted to live rent free.

The will also provides that out of his $200,000 estate there is to be provided a home for aged women, to be located in this city, and that a $10,000 fund is to be set aside, the income from which is to be distributed equally between the Sylvan Heights Home for Orphan Girls, Harrisburg, and the Paradise Protectory for Boys in Adams County.

Head of Standard Oil of Indiana Announces Plan for 25,000 Workers.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Twenty-five thousand employes of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana may become shareholders in the company, under a co-operative plan announced tonight by W. H. Stewart, Chairman of the Board of Directors, speaking at a meeting of 200 representatives of the company's employes from a dozen Mid-Western States.

The company purposed to permit each employe to buy shares equal to one-half his annual salary, the company to pay for one-half the shares so purchased, and the employe to have five years in which to pay his one-half of the price.

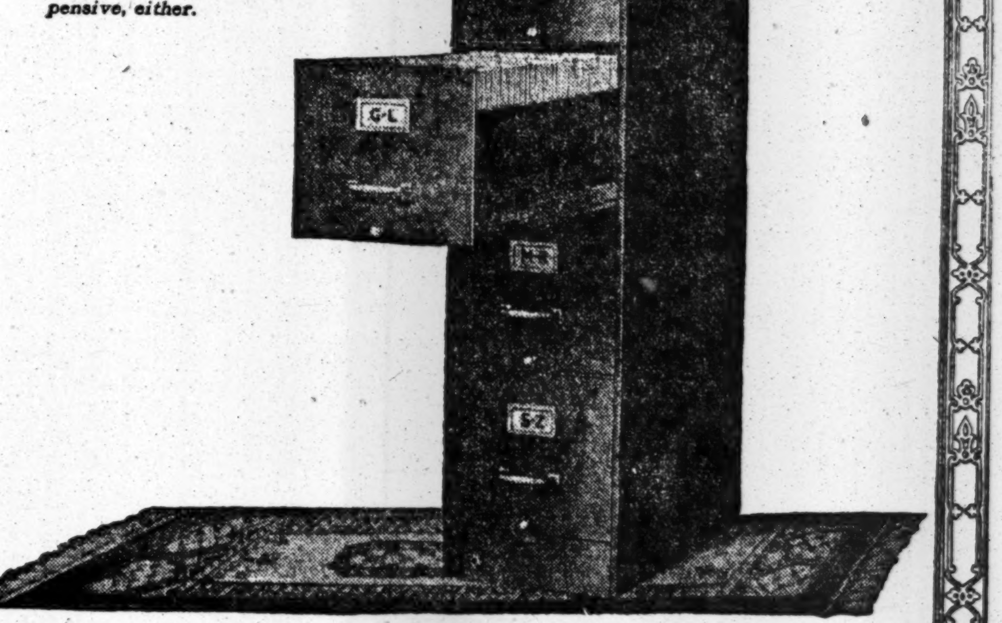
The Van Dorn Grade "A" 4-Drawer Steel Letter File. The finest steel file built by Van Dorn and unconditionally guaranteed by the manufacturer. Not expensive, either.



First, Perfection of Product—then, Quantity Production

A million-dollar addition to the Van Dorn plant has just been completed to concentrate upon quantity-production of high-grade letter files.

To minimize hand labor and simplify fabrication, huge machines to roll, press, cut and shape the steel plates have been specially built.

This is in furtherance of Van Dorn's policy,—first bending every effort and applying every bit of engineering knowledge and experience to perfection of product, then constantly striving toward lowered costs through perfected production.

The surprisingly low cost of the Van Dorn Grade "A" File, the finest file which can be built, is a result of this policy.

This beautiful piece of office furniture can be bought at a cost little more than that of commercial grade files.

It is finished all around in hand-rubbed olive-green. All trimmings are of solid bronze brushed to a satin finish. Mahogany or Oak finishes can be furnished also.

Capacious drawers coast smoothly and silently on 10 hardened steel bearings that roll in nickeled progressive suspension slides.

Not a bolt or rivet is used. Electric and oxygen-acetylene Welding fuse the steel case into one solid unit.

This file, together with a complete assembly of Van Dorn Steel Office Furniture can be seen at our display rooms.

JAPANESE PRINTS
THE COLLECTIONS OF
DR. J. CLARENCE WEBSTER OF CHICAGO ILL.
AND
W. P. RALPH SOUTHERN OF LONDON, ENGLAND

¶ This collection contains several surprises. There are two important woodcuts by the great Sharaku, in an excellent state of preservation and also the very rare Corean Procession by Utamaro. Besides these important pieces there are fine examples of Kiyomitsu, Kiyonaga, and also an unusually good series of Surimonos. . . . But let our collectors judge for themselves.

CONFESSES SEEING MURDER OF PEIRCE

But Jack A. Moss, Arrested in Pittsburgh, Denies He Had Any Part in the Killing.

ASSERTS HE AND GIRL LEFT

Says It Was "Al" Hit Peirce First and Accuses Treadway of Framing Up Robbery.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29.—Jack A. Moss of Philadelphia was arrested here tonight, and, according to the police, is being held in connection with the killing of Henry T. Peirce in his apartment at Philadelphia two weeks ago. Clyde S. Edeburn, Captain of Detectives, announced that Moss had told him that he was present when Peirce was killed, but that the prisoner said he had no actual part in the killing.

Moss was arrested in a Duquesne Way hotel here late today. According to Captain Edeburn, he told a story similar to that recited by Marie Phillips and Peter D. Treadway, who were arrested in Wheeling, W. Va., last week in connection with the Peirce killing.

Speaking of the killing of Peirce, Edeburn said, the prisoner declared that a party was being held in the Peirce apartment, when a hold-up was staged, and that during the fight the manufacturer's agent was killed.

According to Captain Edeburn, Moss, accompanied by a man named Williams, registered at the hotel last Tuesday. Williams, he said, secured a position as a clerk in the hotel.

Williams disappeared early today, the Captain said, and Moss complained to the hotel owner that his companion had taken his overcoat. City detectives were called in, and one of them recognized Moss, it is said, as answering the description of one of the men wanted in connection with the killing of Peirce.

Moss Gives His Account of Killing.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29. — Jack Moss, arrested in Pittsburgh tonight, told a Public Ledger reporter by telephone of his part in the tragedy.

"I did not kill Peirce," he said. "'Al' did the actual murder, although maybe Treadway had a hand in it. Treadway framed the whole thing and he has not told the truth since his arrest."

"Al's" identity has not been established. Treadway, when he was arrested, accused the other two men of slaying Peirce in the sleeping room of his office. Now Moss says he did not do it. Treadway said he and "Boots," the girl in the case, left Peirce's apartment together. Moss, over the telephone, said that he and "Boots" ran away from the murder room and that "Al" and Treadway were in Peirce's room when they left.

"On the night of the murder," Moss said over the long distance telephone, "I met 'Al' on Filbert Street shortly after 11 o'clock.

"Before midnight 'Al' and I started along toward Walnut Street. We rehearsed what Treadway had framed. That was that we were to go into the place and make him put his hands up and then rob him. 'Al' was pretty drunk and so was I. We thought we better go over the thing again with Treadway.

"We were walking along Market Street, expecting to go down Twentieth Street to Walnut, when we saw Peirce's big red car, with Peirce, Treadway and 'Boots' in it pull up close to the Twentieth Street corner on Market.

Says Treadway Nodded to Them.

"Treadway 'made us.' He nodded his head that we were to follow them into the place. We did.

"'Al' said he was a hard guy and that he could pull the job off better than I could. I let him go up the stairs first. He opened the door, yelled 'hands up' and Treadway stuck his mitts up quick.

"Peirce seemed to think like I did: that it was a joke. He pretended to reach in his pocket.

"Then 'Al' slammed him with a blackjack. I saw that Peirce was badly hurt. 'Boots' screamed and I thought she was going to faint. She kinda fell toward me and I grabbed her and we both ran out of the room. 'Al' was still clubbing and kicking at Peirce. Treadway was there, but I don't know that he struck a blow.

"Well, 'Boots' and I went to their room on Walnut Street. After about twenty minutes 'Al' blew in. Treadway was with him. 'Boots' and were sick. But we asked them what happened after we left.

"'Al' said, 'We croaked him and have to make a fast getaway.'

"We sat and talked it over. I said that I had to go to my room at 330 North Tenth Street, Camden. I guess Treadway thought I got weak and might squawk. Anyway he went with me. We got a street car to the ferry and then I packed my grip.

"The four of us left the Walnut Street house in the car. Treadway's story about the getaway is true. We went to Baltimore, Cumberland and Wheeling. When we saw newspaper stories in Wheeling we decided to split. I had two dollars and I spent that coming to Pittsburgh.

Safe Deposit

Hear these famous Victor artists!

Extraordinary interest attaches to these recitals because of the double opportunity they afford the music-loving public.

It is a privilege in itself to hear these recitals, and added importance is given to the events in that they enable you to compare the exquisite interpretations of the orchestra and the soloists with their Victor Records.

Attend these concerts and note the qualities that distinguish the renditions. Then go to any Victor dealer's and hear the Victor Records by the same artists. Note how faithfully their interpretations are portrayed on the Victrola.

It is because of this absolute fidelity that they make Victor Records; that the greatest artists of all the world are Victor artists.

Victrolas in great variety of styles from $25 to $1500. New Victor Records demonstrated at all dealers on the 1st of each month.

How Milk Insures One's Health

WE often read "Milk for your health's sake," but just what does that mean? The following is but one reason:

Recently surveys among school children in different parts of the United States indicate that from ten to twenty per cent. weigh ten per cent. less than they should. In other words, they are lacking in nourishment.

Under-nourished, they are less able to resist contagious diseases. Their power to combat sickness is not what it should be. More and better nourishment is the answer. And the most economical, yet the most practical food is milk.

A quart of good milk, such as BORDEN'S, every day for every child is not too much. Nutrition experts of the Government lay great stress upon the value of milk as an aid to growth and in the development of a sound, healthy body which best resists disease.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE.

Having prohibited or tried to prohibit one habit seven days in the week, the "reformers" in large measure, apparently the same "reformers," are seeking to interfere with or prescribe the Sunday habits of the American people. One would think that the success of liquor prohibition is not so ample or splendid as to make it safe for the well-intentioned censors and regulators of public morals and customs to venture upon new restrictions. The psychological effect of war has hitherto been supposed to be toward a liberality or laxity of morals. In our own happier country the reverse is the case. An organized and well-financed effort to set back the clock of time and secure a severe observance of Sunday, the "Sabbath," as its advocates prefer to call it, is to be made. A highly industrial and populous community is to be forced into fetters found galling and shaken off by a far simpler and less developed civilization.

"Reform" organizations, already sure, no doubt, of a certain number of docile and card-index legislators at Washington, will press upon Congress the passage of a law forbidding the operation of interstate trains on Sunday, the opening of any Post Office or the delivery of any mail, and the transaction of any business by any person or corporation engaged in interstate commerce on that day. The purpose of the proposed law is declared to be "to express our national "determination to honor the Sabbath "day and keep it holy, as GOD commands."

These enthusiasts forget that under our Constitution and laws Sunday is not a religious, but a civil, holiday. The value of a day of rest is recognized. Sunday, because it is observed by the majority, is taken as the most convenient day of that rest. The State statutes on the subject are modeled after English forms. Ordinarily, by their language labors of necessity and general public accommodation are excepted. The rigid Sabbatarians seek to interrupt freight and passenger traffic, to stop it for a day, to dislocate trade, to cause damage and inconvenience to a multitude of persons. What would become of perishable goods under their ban? The case of the milk dealers alone is sufficient to show the danger and the impossibility of their proposal. If it could be carried out, it would not only cause immense financial loss, but would injure the public health and diminish exercise and harmless pleasure.

The trouble with these purists is that they want to make everybody conform to their ideas of Sunday observance. They never think of the millions of people, the majority who have to work five and a half or six days a week. This campaign for Federal restrictions is accompanied with another for lessening or abolishing public Sunday amusements or exercises, outdoors and in. The workingman and the hired man can spend their day of rest at home. The monotony of their labor mustn't be relieved. Everybody's Sunday must be after the pattern of, say, Westerville, Ohio. Now, if any persons or religious denominations want Sunday kept in a particular way, it is their privilege so to keep it. Churches can enforce discipline upon their communicants. By precept and example they can recommend their theories and practices upon their neighbors. The moment they seek the aid of the law to thrust upon the great body of citizens a code of Sunday observance against which it rebels they are trying to exercise a tyranny over other men's consciences. They are unconsciously creating prejudice against a morality that seems pragmatical to their opponents, and even against religion itself. Dr. MANNING of Trinity is right in laying upon the mistaken severity of our Puritan ancestors in regard to Sunday much of the later laxity in its observance.

Some one hundred and thirty years ago President WASHINGTON, traveling in his coach and six on his lawful occasions, was stopped and questioned by a Connecticut tithing man. Hundreds of thousands of New England boys and girls have never forgotten the prison dullness of those intolerable Sunday hours. Many of them can recall them still with horror. A more rational way of spending Sunday has been found. The churchgoer, after his religious duties, is free to take air and recreation, to pass the day as he pleases, so far as he doesn't disturb others. Then there is a great number of non-churchgoers, of believers in other than the Christian religion or followers of none. The Sabbatarian is always free to keep Sunday in his own way. Why must he interfere with the ways of others?

Sunday is not the "Sabbath." The surviving and revived Puritan theory of it is a modern innovation, unknown when all Europe was Catholic, unknown even to some of the Reformers. We all know the story of JOHN KNOX calling on JOHN CALVIN on a Sunday and finding him playing at bowls. The attempt to revive in the twentieth century this fanaticism of a seventeenth-century sect is a curious bit of reaction. Knowing the power of a determined minority and the feeble knees of too many members of Congress and State Legislatures, all Americans who believe in a sane and human Sunday must fight from the start all this Blue Law program and propaganda.

THE SALES TAX.

In his address before the Economic Club last night Mr. JULES S. BACHE set forth nearly a score of reasons why a tax on gross sales would be better than the excess profits tax as a means of collecting money for the Treasury. The gist of most of them is that business will be able to help the Treasury most when it is able to do most for itself, and that taxes which hamper business react upon the Treasury's income. The theory of our present taxes is that taxes should fall on the wealthy, and that only 10 per cent. of the people need to pay taxes, or should be asked to pay them. The theory is popular, but it reacts against those whom it is designed to favor.

The miscarriage of the plans to tax the rich is due in part to the fact that $850,000,000 of income from municipal securities is exempt from taxes, and affords a refuge for the wealthy from the tax gatherer. The taxes which the super-rich are meant to pay, therefore, fall lower in the scale of wealth, and weigh most heavily upon those whose funds are in productive enterprises. The surtaxes which the very rich escape, and which the Treasury must get, reappear in the prices of the producers. They demand such interest on their investment as will pay them for producing, or they will not produce. Consumers, therefore, have the alternative of paying higher prices to balance the taxes which the very rich escape, o. of going without. Nominally the excess profits tax falls on producers, but really it falls on consumers, and "in a sense all taxes are consumption taxes."

Mr. BACHE'S proposal is that all making sales shall take out licenses, in order to bring them within the notice and control of the Treasury and the tax collectors, and that taxes shall be paid according to their accounts. Inasmuch as accounts must be kept for the purposes of the income tax the proposal will seem less objectionable than a few years ago. Mr. BACHE is optimistic about the proceeds of the gross sales tax, but declines to commit himself to exact figures. That the sales tax will be reduplicated at each stage of production and distribution is less an objection than it seems. The excess profits tax is thus increased without the effect of reducing the number of operations which the turnover tax would have. Mr. BACHE thinks that the excess profits tax increases prices 25 per cent., whereas the gross sales tax would increase them only 2¼ per cent., and the Treasury would get more, in proportion to what consumers would save.

THE IRISH DEADLOCK.

Friends of Ireland who are not at the same time vilifiers of England do not conceal their sense of being baffled and almost made to despair by the terrible events taking place day after day. It cannot be, they feel, that the Irish people really desire to run amuck like so many murderous Moro jurados. It cannot be that the English wish to make themselves execrated in Ireland. Between the two races a furious recrimination is going on, which yet is futile. "You began it," cry the English, "with your assassinations." "No, you began it," retort the Irish, "with your reprisals." This illustrates today the deadlock in the Irish question.

A depressing aspect of it, as Sir HORACE PLUNKETT has just pointed out, is that both sides disclaim responsibility for their extremists. Sinn Fein disavows the murder gang. The British authorities lament and repudiate the reprisals. The vast majority of Irishmen, declares Sir HORACE, feel "horror and loathing" for the barbarous crimes committed in Ireland. On the other hand, the vast majority of Englishmen desire to let Ireland manage her own affairs within the Empire. Why cannot the moderate men of both countries be brought together? LLOYD GEORGE declares that the reason is that right-thinking Irishmen are terrorized. Put down the terror and then they will speak out. On the other side, Englishmen will not allow themselves to be bullied by assassins. Again the deadlock!

Many solutions of it have been proposed. One conflicts with another. Nearly all of them have been pushed aside by the passage of the Home Rule bill—now in its last stages in the House of Lords—and by the latest bloody deeds in Ireland. Sir HORACE PLUNKETT suggests mediation. He would have the English "Peace with Ireland Committee" seek a meeting with the "Irish Peace Conference" of the South of Ireland. But what could they discuss? Plainly, at present, no practicable measure except the Home Rule bill. Under it there will soon be a separate Parliament in Ulster. Dublin could have one of her own if she would take it. If radical alterations in the scheme can be proved to be desirable or possible, the Government is ready to discuss them. The British Prime Minister has repeatedly offered to confer with the Sinn Fein leaders. But they have never gone to him.

Yet it is evident that some kind of approach, some reasonable consultation, must take place between English opinion and Irish opinion. The statesman who could find the right way to bring this about would deserve well of his country. Till such a meeting can be, there is nothing for England to do but to assume and assert her responsibility for governing Ireland, which principally means at present making murder odious and unsafe. But always behind stands the offer to give to Ireland the largest degree of self-government possible within the British Empire.

FARMERS SEEING THE POINT.

We are not hearing so much just now about "America First." So far as that campaign claptrap meant anything at all to the ordinary mind, it implied that this country was to go it alone, live off its own fat and keep foreign goods out by a high tariff. But that kind of America first is already beginning to appear too much like an America hindmost. Even the farmers are waking up to the fact. The statement issued in Washington on Monday by the Farm Bureau Federation reads very much as if it were written by a spectacled professor of economics, or even by some wicked international banker disguised as Old Bill Jones of Gopherville.

Note these plain tales from the farmer. "We must open up our "usual and natural outlets for cotton, "wool, grain and meats if we are to "relieve the present disastrous eco-"nomic situation." The farmer is now asked to sell below his cost of production. What is his only hope? Why, "the opening of foreign markets." But Europe cannot buy unless it has credit, and unless it can sell its manufactures here to pay its debts. Very well, says the Farm Bureau, arrange for credits, and consider that it is "good business" for us to protect our loans of some $10,000,000,000 to European countries by helping them to "start production."

This cold elementary sense is particularly refreshing coming from farmers. They as a class have been the slowest to perceive that they are more interested than anybody else in the free flow of foreign commerce. But falling prices for their products have been rapidly opening their eyes. If they remain as wide awake as they now seem to be, the Republican high-tariffites will not have so much fun as they used to out of their old pastime of "fooling the farmer."

THE ARMY A NUCLEUS.

In his annual report Secretary BAKER says that the strength of the army on Nov. 3 was 213,067. To a peace-loving people who were never more averse to war than they are today the expansion of the regular army seems unnecessarily great, as all the world, except Russia, where the Bolsheviki must maintain themselves by force and military prestige, is talking about reduction of armaments. "Our regular army," the Secretary says, "may be relatively "small, but both in its moralé and in "its effectiveness it must be per-"fect." He means "relatively small" in association with our resources in man power and with emergencies that may arise. If the United States becomes a member of the League of Nations to help keep the peace of the world, at any rate to cooperate with other signatory nations to prevent major wars, its "relatively small" army might well be less than 213,067. On the other hand, if the United States remains out of the League and prepares to fight its own battles against the rest of the world, the day may come when its "relatively small" army will have to exceed that total, which now seems so great to a war-weary and overtaxed people.

In neither case should the regular army be more than a nucleus for expansion to the actual needs of the country in an offensive or defensive war. Always it must be considered that in the struggle which ended on Nov. 11, 1918, the United States gave the world an impressive exhibition of its military and financial resources. It organized and trained 4,000,000 men, and if 10,000,000 had been needed they would have taken the field. Behind its great army and its powerful navy were industrial potentialities and a reserve of money that no combination of nations could match. After such a revelation what Power would care or dare to attack the United States, or be quick to provoke it to strike? Obviously, the general military policy of this country was to reorganize the regular army with the purpose of calling the 4,000,000 trained men to the colors automatically, each contingent falling into its right place, whether the United States decided to join the League of Nations or not. That was the fundamental scheme of the General Staff, a directive organization that, for the time being at least, was concerned only with making preparations to defend the country against a world Power or an alliance of world Powers. The General Staff is not expected to have ideals or to take risks. Reduction of armaments—there will not be disarmament even with a peace league—is the business of statesmen.

Of course the reorganization of what Mr. BAKER calls the new army was planned to provide an American contribution to an international police force as well as for national defense on a large scale. The nucleus, that is to say the regular army, could be reduced when so ordered, if the United States entered the League. This may be said with confidence, that the land forces were never properly organized before; further, the reorganization was based upon the lessons of the war, which added materially to our military information. It may be said without vainglory that the United States is potentially the most formidable nation in the world at the present time, and so it will be as long as the veterans of the great war are young enough to fight. Conditions in the world being as they are today, the regular army, with its Air Service, Tank Service, Chemical Warfare Service and other modern auxiliaries, does not seem too large to professional soldiers. It may be too large if the nations of the earth get together and scale down armaments. In any event, there will be strong and persistent pressure from the taxpayers to reduce the fighting nucleus to minimum dimensions.

THE DARWINIAN IN RUSSIA.

Perhaps the greatest of the many accomplishments of Mr. H. G. WELLS is this, that he has interested the world in his autobiography. The habits of the time are in his favor; nearly all fiction and what used to be called creative literature is autobiography nowadays, but WELLS makes his history autobiographical. All his recent books, for that matter, have been only instalments of that one great work. Mr. IRVIN COBB makes a living by telling how he had appendicitis, but WELLS enjoys the grander triumph of making the whole world read about the appendicitis in his soul.

So if WELLS'S articles on Russia are only articles on the intellectual adventures of WELLS in Russia, the more credit to WELLS that everybody reads them. And the fourth article of the series, published in last Sunday's TIMES, is peculiarly enlightening on the ways of thought of a writer whose thoughts are always readable. WELLS admires the Bolshevist leaders, though he disagrees with them. The Bolsheviki must feel about this very much as the Caliph OMAR would have felt if an acquaintance had told him that he liked his manners but thought the Koran a mass of absurdities; to the zealot the True Faith is considerably more important than the accomplishments or the personality of its adherents. But WELLS likes them in spite of their faith—in spite of theirs, and because of his.

WELLS is an internationalist and a Communist—a rather hazy internationalist and an extremely idealistic Communist. His communism is neither so complete nor so dogmatic as that of the Bolsheviki, and his disdain for their theology and theogony is magnificent. But he admires them because they are doing after a fashion something that he would like to do after a very different fashion. WELLS'S ideal State would be international, mildly communistic, and based on a universal education. It would also be democratic; but aside from that a tolerant Bolshevik might say that WELLS is nearer salvation than he knows.

What did he find in Russia? A group of men who, as he says, thought they had captured a ship of state and found they had climbed on board a derelict. They are trying to navigate the derelict, as anybody would; and WELLS declares that any other Government that might come into power in Russia would have to do of necessity the work that the Bolsheviki are doing on principle. Perhaps so; the Bolsheviki, from this point of view, are merely a vigilance committee, an institution for which WELLS seems always to have had a certain admiration. Vigilance committees kill people off; doubtless the Bolsheviki have killed off some persons who should have been killed, but also a good many who should not. Navigation of a water-logged derelict is somewhat difficult if members of the crew entertain theological objections to pumps.

Aside from that, however, WELLS'S declaration that the Bolsheviki are the only possible Government raises some interesting questions. Of Russian refugees he says that "they are in-"capable of anything but adventures "and dispute"—a generalization which has just enough truth in it to amuse the world which has seen Russian refugees, but is very far from being a whole truth. "They deserve "nothing better than a Czar, and "they are incapable even of deciding "which Czar they desire." This is true of some of them, but by no means of all. BORIS SAVINKOFF and his faction, who do not by any means desire a Czar, came pretty close to success in their attempted revolution in July, 1918; and SAVINKOFF is still fighting. To say that the Bolsheviki are the only possible Government really comes down to saying that they are the party which happens to have got the upper hand. The fittest survive, because by definition the fittest are those who survive. This is Darwinism of a sort, but even WELLS would hardly say it is a very good sort.

However, the Bolsheviki are there. They have a common faith, which WELLS despises, and a common spirit, which he admires; some of them at least, "given an opportunity, will build and will build well." They will build a State founded on Communism (more honored in theory than in practice), with an ideal of internationalism, and with a common education. That education, however, is apparently going to be as dogmatic as that of the Janizaries. If WELLS had taken a more controversial subject than geometry for his observations at the school he so admired, he might have found a tendency of teaching hardly likely to produce free thought except by the familiar method of revulsion.

All in all, WELLS'S admiration of the Bolsheviki seems to prove that nothing succeeds like success. He doesn't care how they got there; but they are there. He doesn't care where they're going, but they're on their way. If he had applied these principles to his history of the papacy, for example, his judgment of certain events in medieval history would have been quite different. But then an autobiographer has the right to change his mind.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

For Once Becomes Exemplary!

It has not been customary for New York, or any other city for that matter, to seek in Chicago for instruction regarding the management of the criminal classes. Especially surprising is it that under Chicago's present administration there seems to have arisen something more than the possibility that both instruction and exemplification concerning this very subject are to be found in the activities of Mayor THOMPSON'S new Chief of Police. For, strange as it may seem, that official has instituted a warfare on the assorted criminals of the city that is producing results—among them that of having one Saturday pass with only a single robbery of a man taking payroll money from the bank to his place of employment!

This truly remarkable flattening out of Chicago's crime wave has been produced by the continuous and consecutive raiding of all the places known or suspected to be resorts for bad men and women of various kinds and the arresting of most of the men and women found therein. Under just what law this was done the dispatches do not reveal, nor is it easy to imagine, as it is quite generally held that arrests can be made only under specific accusation. But the great number of people thus captured evidently feel a delicacy about standing on their technical rights. They do not protest against the action taken as police persecution, which is fairly good evidence that such consciences as they have suggest a cautious acceptance of comparatively petty ills, lest worse befall.

Be that as it may, Chicago is undergoing a cleansing process of a sort that has not even been begun here, and nobody can doubt that between the filling of the jails there and the sudden falling off of banditry for the time being there is a real and close connection.

Expectations Shouldn't Be Too High.

Before assuming that life and property have been made safe in Chicago by the energetic measures of its new Chief of Police, it will be well to wait a while. That the first effects are good is undeniable, but very soon a lot of the men and women who have been arrested, as it were on general principles, will be set free by the courts, which have general principles of another variety. They will not be so easily captured after they have adjusted themselves to the new conditions.

Another fact to be considered is that, if Chicago should remain what it evidently is now—too hot for its criminals—these will simply move away to other cities, there to resume their reprehensible trades. And that will not be pleasant for the other cities. New York, for instance, is quite sufficiently supplied with robbers and murderers of its own and wants no more.

The Chicago solution of the great problem, therefore, is not a real solution, unless it contains an element which is not mentioned in the dispatches—the reformative element, that is. Probably it would be too much to expect in any way to produce in professional criminals the change of character and morals that constitutes reform in the true sense of that word. A compelled reform in conduct, even for them, however, is conceivable, and it can be attained, if at all attainable, not by driving the undesirables from one town to another, but by the establishment of really preventive efficiency on the part of the police.

That is the ideal way to deal with crime waves, while the very worst way to deal with them is New York's way—denial that they exist.

She Prefers Russia to America!

How curiously the human mind sometimes acts is well exemplified in the case of a Russian woman, recently arrived in this country. The revolution had thrown her from wealth and high social station into the depths of poverty, to which it has moved all the members of her class who did not escape from the country betimes and take with them at least the remnants of their fortunes—the part consisting of money or easily turned into it.

Under Bolshevist rule her hardships had been many and severe, including the fundamental ones of going cold and hungry. By the exercise of much ingenuity and the overcoming of dangers as well as difficulties she at last succeeded in escaping from Russia and in reaching the United States. Now she regrets that she came and wants to go back.

The reason she gives for her desire is that she finds it more trying to be poor here, where so many people of the kind with whom she naturally would associate are rich or in circumstances more than comfortable, than to be in even desperate want there, where everybody whom she knows and cares for is in a like condition.

This preference, at first thought mysterious, becomes fairly comprehensible on further consideration. Much, perhaps most, of the pain incidental to poverty lies in its contrast with wealth. Where everybody is poor, there is at least no humiliation in being poor—no need to prove the truth of the adage that "steep are the stairs of another."

Yet probably the Russian woman only thinks she wants to go back to Russia, and would regret bitterly to find herself there again. Her present inconveniences bulk large because they are present, and her past hardships seem tolerable in comparison only because they are made dim by remoteness in time and place. Another readjustment to environment is possible as well as necessary.

Reasons for Early Shopping.

People are not likely to be moved much these days by the plea that if they do their Christmas shopping early they will spare the employés in the stores the hardships of a belated rush for presents. The employés share with their employers in some degree the antagonism which high prices and the knowledge or suspicion of profiteering have made next to universal. But timely shopping has its advantages, many and great, for the buyer, and for this reason alone there is sufficient motive for making purchases now instead of later.

So doing, not only is choice larger, and from stocks in better condition, but there is more likelihood that better and sounder judgment will be exercised in the selection of gifts. A belated choice usually means a poor choice—the choice of the trumpery, worthless stuff made especially for what is called "the Christmas trade," as unsatisfactory to receive as it is to give. Of course, there is a degree or kind of usefulness that is offensive in a Christmas present, but there are other degrees and kinds that are the very reverse of offensive, and exemplars of it can be found when the search is calm and leisurely.

An Annual Protest.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is difficult to understand by what crook of fate it happened that "Ragamuffins' Day" and "Thanksgiving Day" occur on one and the same date. Certainly the two occasions could not be more opposite in meaning and signification, nor is the observance of the first by the children likely to lead to any greater understanding, as they grow older, of the idea that caused the latter to be made a national holiday.

Instead of the last Thursday in November being a day on which at least some little part of the spirit of the occasion may be absorbed, in addition to a bountiful dinner, it becomes instead a day when "Little Lessons in Begging" are practically learned. It is difficult to say where this peculiar custom originated, but one theory has it that this practice was brought to America by denizens of the east side and has spread from that starting point.

Whatever the beginning or original purpose of this custom, there is no doubting its malicious influence on the morals of the children of the city. To dress up in outlandish garb is of itself no crime, but rather a natural outlet for some of the surplus energy of children; but when ordinary begging is coupled with this the result is altogether undesirable. The children all too quickly learn the tricks of the professional mendicant, stationing themselves near lines of traffic and are often by no means backward in their demands. The money that these children collect, while probably a considerable quantity, could easily be spared, if it were not for the bad effect on the children themselves.

Discouraging Would-Be Citizens.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

For years I have been goading an English friend of mine to become an American citizen. As you probably know, they need some goading. Some years ago he secured his first papers, and after the necessary legal residence he applied for full citizenship. At almost monthly intervals he wrote or called at various Government offices and was battledored from one finger-paring autocrat to another without any result.

He eventually received notice to call with two witnesses at Room 401, Post Office, Brooklyn, on the morning of Nov. 17, which he did. After wasting a whole morning's time of two male adults he was rudely dismissed and told to come "some other day." I quote a few lines from my friend's letter: "It does not seem a propitious opening for a prospective citizen, and the result is my zeal has ebbed away."

I submit to you that such methods and such men are no credit to Americanism, and the least you can do is to help expose them. Also a little booklet on efficiency, the duties of public servants, and a ten-cent pamphlet on courtesy mailed to Room 401, P. O., Brooklyn, may serve a useful purpose.

Fictitious Losses for Taxes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Yesterday I listened to two gentlemen discussing investment problems and heard one say that he was going to sell his Liberty bonds at the present low market price "in order to establish a loss" of $23,000. The other replied that he would not accept such a loss on the world's premier securities, whereat the first said that there would be no loss, as he would immediately buy them back again at the same price, but that the transaction was simply for the purpose of "establishing a loss" for income tax purposes. He added that "everybody was doing it." Both men are very wealthy. Can our income tax laws be dodged so easily?

PUZZLED.

Brooklyn, Nov. 29, 1920.

WINTER MOONLIGHT.

The faery Moon hath made her now a fount of shimmering spray
Where droops that ancient Willow Tree, all the sombre day—
From silvered casement gaze with me, tonight, and you may see
Soft faring on to that strange fount, a curious company.

There may come a noble lady, stepping light with measured pace,
Fain to mirror in those fountain deeps her rare and lily grace.
There be pearls on her white bosom,
 but to crown her high-combed hair
The moon-spray shall scatter pearls a hundred times more fair.

Or it may be Dame Guinallein, from the heart o' the black wood,
Shall wend her soft way thither. Dapper coat and peaked hood,
Shoe and gauntlet silver broidered,
 drest in velvet, see her go
To bathe in those faery waters before the Cock crow.

Or think yon Little Snow White will climb the dark night's hill
For flowers to bring her Mother dear, though all the winds blow chill?
Where magic waters sweetly fall, dead gardens shall grow green;
She may find before the day break, the bright Celandine.

Yet my Grandam oft hath minded me to flee those tides so pale;
Unhallowed is that fountain, saith the old wife's tale. . . .
Sh! Gaze from my silvered casement now, and you must see how soon
They all go forth, sweet solaced, from

ART NOTES.

Collection of Old Masters on View at Knoedler Galleries.

At the Knoedler Galleries a loan collection of old masters is on view for the benefit of the Bellevue Hospital Convalescent Relief Committee. Some of the "old masters" are quite young masters and have their place in works on "modern art," and it is particularly interesting to note with what authority and dignity a rebel of the nineteenth century takes his place by the side of a rebel of the seventeenth.

Here is a still life by Manet, "The Carp" (lent by Mrs. John W. Simpson), a picture the silver and rose and gold of which ring out like a Flemish carillon. Manet's powerful intellect is more apparent in such a work than in "The Boy with a Sword" or the famous "Olympia." Without that strong brain of his determining the logic of his composition how easily the latter could have fallen into utter commonplace. It all seems perfectly natural and vigorous, a spontaneous and amusing arrangement, but the planning was sagacious enough. Without the wriggling dark of the eel and the sharp diagonal of the knife opposing it the composition would go to pieces as completely as if the carp itself were removed.

On the adjoining wall are two unusual examples of Rembrandt. One is "A Young Girl Standing in a Room," a full-length figure on a small panel. The surroundings are painted with freedom and the costume, black with white accents of ruff, cap and cuffs, is broadly treated. Air plays about the figure, and light falls strongly on the head and hands. It is given to the year 1630, when Rembrandt was 24 years old, before he had met Saskia. The other Rembrandt is a portrait of Titus from the Maurice Kann collection, painted nearly thirty years later than the standing figure, warm in color, rugged in brushwork, with intenser light and shade. It is lent by Jules S. Bache.

Chardin represents the sturdier side of the eighteenth century with his "Boy Blowing Soap Bubbles" (lent by Mrs. John W. Simpson), a lovely picture with luminous transparent half tones, pure grays, and great elegance of form. The window casement with its trailing vine is in the Dutch tradition and speaks with the clearest French accent.

Other examples of the French masters are a brilliant Nattier, "Portrait of the Comtesse de Noailles," lent by Mr. Bache, and a gay version of the swing motif by Lancret, lent by George and Florence Blumenthal. The British masters in the exhibition are Gainsborough with his "Portrait of Queen Charlotte" lent by Mrs. Nicholas Brady, a portrait of more robust beauty than his brush commonly evoked when his subject was a noble lady; Hoppner, with his full-length of Lord Clifton at the age of 6, lent by Carll Tucker; Raeburn, with his suberb "Mrs. Colin Campbell," lent by Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, and Romney, with the charming "Lady Betty Compton," lent by Mrs. Nicholas Brady. To represent the Americans there are three Conleys, a portrait of Henry Laurens, lent by Mrs. Thomas B. Clarke, and portraits of Thaddeus Burr and his wife, lent by Mrs. Harry Kearsarge Knapp; a "Washington" by Gilbert Stuart, lent by S. W. Mellon, and a landscape by George Inness; a fine Moroni, lent by J. Horace Harding, and a Salviati from the same collection are the two Italians.

The collection will receive a detailed notice at a later date. It will remain on view until Dec. 15.

E. O. HOPPE TO EXHIBIT.

English Artist Will Show His Portraits and Quaint Dolls.

E. O. Hoppé, the English artist-photographer, who visited this country recently in search of American types of beauty and took their portraits to London, returned yesterday on the Red Star liner Lapland with his wife and daughter and will remain here two months. Mr. Hoppé said that he was going to open an exhibition of his portraits and quaint dolls for grown-ups at Knoedler's Gallery, on Fifth Avenue, on Dec. 4.

Mr. Hoppé said that it was very easy now in England for any person to describe himself as an "ist," cubist, futurist, modernist, &c., but in his opinion some attention should be paid to the correct drawing of the object of the picture. The majority of the new school of artists described themselves as something "ists" because they could not draw correctly, and that gave them the opportunity to paint anything and call it "art."

INQUIRY ON CABLE LANDINGS

Senators to Have Hearings on Kellogg Bill for Regulation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The whole question of cable landings in the United States, including the present controversy between the Western Union Telegraph Company and the State Department, is to be investigated by a Senate committee, it was announced today by Senator Kellogg, Republican, of Minnesota.

Senator Kellogg said that the inquiry would be held in connection with his pending bill proposing to empower the State Department to regulate cable connections in this country. He added that he had requested Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union, and other cable companies to have representatives at the hearing. State Department officers will also be invited to attend.

A request for the hearings has been made by the department, Senator Kellogg disclosed, and it is expected that there will be a complete airing of the refusal of the department to permit the Western Union to land at Miami, Fla., a cable from Barbados which would connect there with a British cable line to the east coast of South America.

Senator Kellogg's bill, introduced at the last session of Congress and referred to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, would empower the State Department to grant or refuse permission for cable landings. It also would provide a license system and would give the department broad discretion in determining whether a cable landing was in the interest of the United States. The measure would authorize the President to use force in preventing any landing prohibited by the department.

The bill was referred to a sub-committee, of which Senator Kellogg is Chairman, and the proposed inquiry will be in charge of this sub-committee.

NEGRO POPULATION FIGURES

Census Returns for Dayton, Schenectady and Other Cities.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Figures of the negro population of cities were announced today by the Census Bureau as follows:

Dayton, Ohio, 9,029, an increase of 4,187, or 86.5 per cent.; white population, 143,492, an increase of 31,785, or 28.5 per cent.; Chinese, Indians and all others, 38.

Schenectady, N. Y., 390, an increase of 116; white population, 88,242, an increase of 15,749, or 21.7 per cent.; Chinese, Indians and all others, 91.

Harrisburg, Pa., 5,256, an increase of 721, or 15.9 per cent.; white population, 70,644, an increase of 11,008, or 18.5 per cent.; Chinese, Indians and all others, 17.

Lancaster, Pa., 916, an increase of 113, or 14.1 per cent.; white population, 52,226, an increase of 5,811, or 12.5 per cent.; Chinese, Indians and all others, 8.

Peoria, Ill., 2,131, an increase of 562, or 35.8 per cent.; white population, 73,977, an increase of 8,616, or 13.2 per cent.; Chinese, Indians and all others, 13.

Fort Wayne, Ind., 1,476, an increase of 904; white population, 85,051, an increase of 21,711, or 34.3 per cent.; Chinese, Indians and all others, 22.

SEES NEW BURDEN IN ANY SALES TAX

Prof. Adams Tells Economic Club Surtaxes and Profits Levy Can't Be Repealed.

PREDICTS BIG BONUS BILL

Arguments in Support of Sales Tax Presented by Banker and Lawyer.

About 1,200 business and professional men who gathered in the Hotel Astor at the fifty-fourth meeting of the Economic Club last night were startled when Professor Thomas S. Adams, who occupies the chair of economics at Yale and is a tax authority associated with the United States Bureau of Internal Revenue, announced his conviction that if the agitation for a sales tax in lieu of a progressive income and excess profits tax was pressed, the country would not get rid of the progressive taxes. "Instead," said Professor Adams, "you are going to succeed in passing a soldier's bonus bill and the enormous cost of that bonus is going to be paid for by a sales tax added to the taxes of which you now complain."

While freely admitting that he was a professor and not a politician, the speaker said he was not wholly unversed in reading the political signs of the times, and he had reached his conclusion from a careful study of the existing political currents.

"If you force through this sales tax," continued Professor Adams, "you will not get rid of the income tax with all its mystification. You can't just poke out the excess profits tax and poke in the sales tax. That is politically impossible. I hope the heavy surtaxes will be reduced, but it is practically certain the excess profits tax is not going to be reduced. That they are not going to be repealed is as near certain as anything can be, though they should be modified and made reasonable.

"You are not going to get rid of the progressive tax. What you are going to do is to add the complexities of one to the complexities of the other and have the two side by side. Thus you will have both, and thereby you will make possible enormous expenditures which otherwise are problematical. You will have a repetition of the experience of tax inventors from time immemorial that inventing something to take the place of a tax results in the end in getting something in addition to the tax."

Both Sides Presented.

Professor Adams shared with Fayette R. Plumb, Philadelphia manufacturer, Chairman of the Tax Committee of the National Industrial Conference Board, the negative of the sales tax discussion to which the evening was devoted. Jules S. Bache, banker, and Hugh Satterlee, lawyer, carried the burden of the affirmative.

Both Mr. Adams and Mr. Plumb argued that a 1 per cent. sales tax would be a great hardship in the case of the one process manufacturer or merchant in competition with the large industry which could perform the multiple steps of a process between raw material and delivery of the finished product to the consumer, and thus pay the tax once on the whole operation, while each small man would have to add it to the cost of the particular step he performed.

"We have no business," argued Professor Adams, "to encourage combination by a tax law and to enact a premium for the elimination of the small man. I am opposed to a bounty for a group o men who can combine processes."

Prof. Adams foresaw for such a tax great difficulties of administration and an orgy of evasion, unless there were most elaborate administrative machinery. He cited the necessity of either putting a similar tax on imports or giving the foreigner a distinct advantage in American markets. He cited sales on the exchanges of cotton, grain, stocks and bonds as "commodities" upon which such a tax might not prove feasible, though its advocates described it as universal in operation, and he said he concurred most heartily in the first reason Mr. Plumb's committee gave for disapproving the tax after starting in predisposed to it.

Give Reasons for the Tax.

Mr. Bache summed up nineteen reasons in favor of the tax, among which were these:

"It is a complete change from the present system and meets all the objections to prevailing methods. It is simple where the present system is distressingly complicated. It will produce ample revenue, whereas the taxes now imposed, as profits and incomes decline, must fall far below amounts required. It will stop capital from hiding in tax-exempt securities. It will restore competition, enterprise and individual initiative, now smothered to death by the pursuit of the tax gatherer.

"It will not increase the price of commodities beyond an average of 2½ per cent., whereas now taxes increase prices nearly 25 per cent. Consequently, it will tend to reduce present prices to a marked degree. As it will be passed along to the consumer, millions of people will pay the tax, but nobody will know it or feel it."

"What the people undoubtedly want is lower taxes," said Mr. Satterlee. "But realizing that taxes must remain high for a considerable period, they demand and will insist that the burden of taxation be equitably spread; that taxes be capable of being forecast with reasonable certainty, and that the labor of computing and reporting tax liability be reduced to a minimum."

Mr. Bache's plan was that every person desiring to conduct a business operation of any kind in the United States should take out a license at an annual fee of $1. Each license would keep a record of transactions, and at the end of each month each one whose sales had exceeded $500 would send a check for 1 per cent. of sales to the tax collector, with a statement of sales. At the end of the year he would send a recapitulation of sales for the year, with a check for any balance of the 1 per cent. due, or a claim for refund if his total business was less than $6,000, the least amount to be taxed. The limit would exempt the majority of the farmers and all labor, he said, who would acquire their stake in the upkeep of the country by having the tax passed on them when they made purchases.

PLAN ALLIED MEMORIAL DAY.

Paris Conferees Urge an Annual Celebration on May 30.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Recommendation that the veteran organizations of all the allied countries observe May 30 as "Inter-Allied Memorial Day" was one of the first acts of the International Council binding together the war veterans' associations of the allied nations, which was organized yesterday by delegations representing the allied countries.

The officers elected by the council were: President, Charles Bertrand, France; Vice Presidents, Cabot Ward, United States, and Colonel Crossfield, Great Britain; Treasurer, Signor Battoni, Italy.

The groundwork of a constitution was adopted, under which the present members of the council, who are self-appointed, will sit only until the home organizations appoint permanent representatives. Each country will have a maximum of five members, but only one vote.

The draft of the constitution includes a plan for the council to have two representatives in each country, one accredited to the Government and the other to the press. An interallied membership card also is contemplated, but the country in which an interallied card originates must repay assistance given the holder in another country.

TWO BEDFORD GIRLS ESCAPE

Parole Officers and Police Searching Here for Refugees.

Parole officers from the State Reformatory for Women at Bedford were in the city yesterday searching for two girls who escaped from the institution late Sunday night, after the cottages had been locked for the night. The police of this city were notified of the escape, as well as the police of towns in Westchester County, but late last night no trace had been found of the refugees.

Despite reports that Miss Anna Hedges Talbot, the new Superintendent of the reformatory, would give no information about the escape, she told THE NEW YORK TIMES by telephone yesterday that she was willing to tell all the facts of the institution or any events there, although she thought it advisable to withhold the names of the girls, out of respect for their parents.

Miss Talbot denied a report that the name of one of the girls was Peters, which was also the name of one of the girls mentioned as a leader in the race riot in the institution last July that caused an investigation of conditions at the institution and the appointment of Miss Talbot as Superintendent.

The name of the other girl who escaped was reported to be Helen Mitchell, but Miss Talbot said:

"Those are not the names of the girls who escaped. I am not going to give out the names, because I do not think such action is proper. We want to protect their families."

The escape of the two girls was discovered when matrons made their rounds to see that all room doors were locked. A count of the girls had been made after the main cottage doors had been locked, and matrons believe the girls got out of the house through a cellar window.

BISHOP CANEVIN RESIGNS.

Pittsburgh Prelate Is Said to Be in Ill-Health.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 29.—The Rt. Rev. J. F. Regis Canevin, Catholic Bishop of the Pittsburgh Diocese, has resigned, it has been announced. Bishop Canevin took this action because of ill-health, it was said. He has consented to remain and act as administrator of the diocese until a successor has taken charge.

The resignation of the Bishop was tendered last Spring, but was not accepted until recently, an effort having been made to have him reconsider. He was appointed on Feb. 4, 1903.

Bishop Canevin was born in Westmoreland County, Pa., on June 5, 1853, and was graduated from St. Vincent's College, Beatty, Pa., June 4, 1879.

S. I. KESSLER MARRIES.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Weds Miss Fuld in Paterson.

Assistant United States Attorney Samuel I. Kessler of Newark, N. J., and Miss Hortense S. Fuld of Paterson, N. J., were married last evening in Barnet Memorial Hall, Paterson, by Rabbi Harry Richmond.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses I. Fuld, was attended by Miss Theora Katz as maid of honor and the other attendants were Miss Dora Bloom and Mrs. Charlotte Epstein and young Miss Vivian Landay, who acted as flower girl.

Dr. H. B. Kessler of Newark, served as his brother's best man and the ushers were Bernard Epstein, Arthur Friend, Nathaniel Kessler, and Morris Cohn.

Samuel Angynal, 60 years old, of 60 East 124th Street, a secretary of the Swedish Consulate, was removed from the Hotel Broztell to Bellevue Hospital yesterday morning in a critical condition, suffering from morphine poisoning. In his room the police found two letters, one addressed to an undertaker and the other, unsealed, saying he had grieved much over the death of his daughter last April.

AMHERST GETS $373,530.

Arthur Curtiss James Starts $3,000,000 Campaign With $250,000.

The six teams of "old grads" who have undertaken to collect $1,750,000, New York's share in the $3,000,000 fund for Amherst College, announced yesterday that $373,530 has been collected as the result of their first day's work.

The largest gifts announced at the team luncheon in the Bankers' Club were: Arthur Curtis James, '89, $250,000, and Herbert L. Pratt, '95, $50,000. Mr. James's gift was announced by Eugene S. Wilson, Vice President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, who said that before Mr. James left for the West he left his check for a quarter of a million dollars as evidence of his interest in the "old college on the hill." Mr. Pratt said he gave his check "just to give the fund a boost."

NITRE COCKTAIL IN BOSTON.

New Prohilition Drink Contains Sulphuric Acide, Solvent of Metals.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Nitre cocktails, as a substitute for the once popular Bronx, have come into favor since the advent of prohibition, according to information given out today by William S. Biry, director of registration in the State Department of Drug Control. He said the department had noticed a tremendous increase in the sale of sweet spirits of nitre, and had found that the drug was being used as a substitute for liquor "among the better classes."

He called attention to the danger in the practice, as he said the drug contains alcohol, sodium nitrate and sulphuric acid, which is a solvent of metals.

Miss Boehm to Wed E. G. Groeber.

Mrs. Mary Boehm of 503 West 178th Street has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helen Georgian Boehm, to Edward George Groeber of Glendale, L. I.

GARLAND REFUSED MILLION AS NOT HIS

Says System Is Wrong That Offers Him Wealth and He Won't Agree to It.

THINKS THIS CHRIST'S WAY

Contradicts Many Who Have Written to Him Urging Him to Use the Money for Good.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., Nov. 29 (Associated Press)—Charles Garland, who has renounced his right to a million dollar legacy left him by his father, James A. Garland, a wealthy resident of Boston, made a formal statement today of his reasons for refusing the money. His statement, he said, was due to the fact that many reports of his action failed to present his position properly.

"I refuse to accept the money because it is not mine," was young Garland's summary of his reasons. "A system which starves thousands, while hundreds are stuffed condemns itself. A system which leaves a sick woman helpless and offers its services to a healthy man condemns itself. It is such a system that offers me a million dollars.

"It is blind to the simplest truth known to every child, the truth that the hungry should be fed and the naked clothed. I have had to choose between the loss of private property and the law which is written in every human heart. I chose the one which I believe to be true."

Garland, who has stated that he renounced his claim to the million dollars because he thought Christ would have done the same, continued:

"I believe I could do no good with the money. It is the man who gives food to the hungry who does good, not the dollars given in exchange for the food. I would be happy to be the man if I had food to give; but I cannot lend myself to handling the money that is not mine, even though the good that might be done is possibly great."

Many people have written to tell him what could be done with the money, he said. Then he went on:

"They seem almost proud to point out the power that I have in my hands, but it is the most pitiful thing they could point to. You 'cannot serve God and Mammon.' So many people, ready to serve the dollar, means so many less to serve God. There are great opportunities to do good, but they are in men's hearts, not in my check book. A preacher in the name of Christ said this million should have been turned to good. He thinks that God's work is paid for in dollars. God's work will never be done until men see that this theory is untrue."

Garland indicated that his refusal to take the money was not based on any question about the origin of the Garland fortune. He said he did not know from what source it was derived, but believed it came down from his grandfather.

Mr. Garland's statement was made from his home here, a former inn of stage coach days. The young man is living at the house with his wife and infant daughter as the guest of his mother, Mrs. Marie Tudor Green, who supplies them with a maid and keeps their larder full. He plans to go to work eventually, he said, but a year at Harvard College, which he left to get married, and the preparatory schooling in this country and in England, fitted him for no work ready at hand, and he said he thought that it would be Spring before he found anything. Mrs. Garland joined with him in his renunciation of the million, Garland said. His mother, although not holding the same views, has told him to do what he thought right.

In another house on the estate lives James A. Garland 3d, a brother of Charles, who has accepted his share of his father's estate, made larger by the fact that the mother of the boys abandoned her rights in order to marry Francis C. Green after the death of her first husband.

At Harvard is Hamilton Garland, a third son, who lacks several months of reaching his majority. Charles said today that he understood Hamilton also was considering refusal to take his share when he became of age. Their ideas on the subject were similar, he said, although the influences of education and environment were not identical.

NIVELLE AN ARMY GUEST.

General Visits Governors Island—Will Go to West Point Today.

General Robert George Nivelle, former Commander in Chief of the French Army, was the guest of Major General Robert Lee Bullard, commanding the Second Corps Area, at Governors Island yesterday. A detail of troops greeted General Nivelle as he reached the island and a band from the Twenty-second Infantry Regiment played the French and American "Stars and Stripes" and the "Marseillaise."

The Harvard Club held a reception for the General late in the afternoon.

In an interview he praised the energy and breadth of American business progress and said he had been much impressed by the way our railroads and industries were conducted. Prohibition, he thought, was a bit "too rigid," and he told of his surprise at his first American football game, the Army-Navy contest.

"It was not a game at all," he said, "it was a fight. You call it football, but the foot does not touch the ball!"

General Nivelle will visit West Point today on Secretary of War Baker's yacht, the Kumagin. He will return this evening, and on Wednesday will go to Philadelphia as the guest of the Huguenot Society there. He will leave New York City for Boston late Thursday evening, and will go from there to Washington and thence to the Far West.

BAZAAR FOR VICTORIA HOME.

British Empire Daughters Entertain at Hotel Pennsylvania Today.

A bead bag valued at $200, the work of a disabled Canadian soldier, is one of many interesting exhibits at the Costume Bazaar of the Daughters of the Imperial Order of the British Empire, which opens this afternoon at the Hotel Pennsylvania. The bazar will celebrate the tercentenary of the Landing of the Pilgrims and the proceeds are to go to the Victoria Home at West Brighton, S. I.

Captain Gloster Armstrong, the British Consul General, will attend, with Mrs. Armstrong, and will open the bazaar. On the receiving committee are the officers of the organization, Mrs. Webster Fox, President; Miss Frances E. M. Wilson, President of the State Council; Mrs. Henry H. Pike of the Victoria Home and Mrs. J. Elliott Langstaff, founder of the order. American-born women will be represented by Mrs. Simon Baruch, Regent of the Knickerbocker Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and President of the George Washington Association.

The Australian High Commissioner, Mark Sheldon and Mrs. Sheldon, are to attend and Mrs. Sheldon will preside over a jumble table. Harmon Mills, in the costume of John Alden, will sell his own pictures. The bazaar will remain open until midnight.

Dismiss Divorce Suit Against Pitcher

KENOSHA, Wis., Nov. 29.—Divorce proceedings brought gaainst James "Hippo" Vaughn, pitcher in the Chicago National League Club, by his wife, Edna, were dismissed today by the Circuit Court of Kenosha. Vaughn, who recently was stabbed by his father-in-law, Harry Debold, is still in the hospital. Physicians today stated that his condition was satisfactory.

TELLS OF BURNING RAILWAY TRAIN LOOT

Keith Collins, Last of the Gang to Be Captured, Makes a Confession.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 29.—Keith Collins made a confession today to Post Office Inspectors here of the part he played in the biggest mail train robbery in the history of the department. He admitted getting a large amount of currency and bonds, according to the Inspectors, who say Collins asserts that he became frightened and destroyed all the loot. According to the Inspectors Collins said he does not know how much of the loot he burned.

Collins was questioned for three hours after he was brought here this morning from Muskogee, Okla. He was arrested early Sunday morning at the farm of an uncle at Westville, near Muskogee. Collins was taken to Omaha this morning and will be taken to Council Bluffs tomorrow, where he will be arraigned.

The three other principals, Orville and Merle Phillips and Fred Poffenbarger, all have confessed. Five others have been arrested in the case as accessories after the fact.

The confession of Collins will not be made public, said J. P. Johnston, Inspector in charge, until a few scattered ends of the big mail car robbery have been collected to terminate the case. Then, he said, further details will be given out. It was disclosed, however, that Collins played a minor part to the master rôle of Orville Phillips, 17-year-old mail clerk, who conceived the robbery which took place at Council Bluffs, Iowa, on Nov. 13. Collins's part was to pick up the bags of mail thrown from the train. He did not finish his task, he said in his confession. He gathered a few of the bags, lost his nerve, and left several other bags for Phillips and Fred Poffenbarger to pick up.

Collins said he did not know how much cash he found in the mail bags. He said he gave half of it to Poffenbarger and kept the rest. When Poffenbarger was arrested on the Tuesday following the robbery, Collins told the Inspectors, he became so frightened at the prospect of arrest that he destroyed both money and bonds, believing the currency had been marked. That night Collins boarded a freight train and rode to Columbus, Neb. Post Office Inspectors found their first trace of him there and followed the clue to Westville. Collins reached Westville a week ago yesterday. He drove overland from Nebraska in a Ford because he was well known to trainmen, he said, and feared they would recognize him.

The total loot is said to have been $3,500,000, and the Post Office Department estimates that all except about $50,000 was in bonds. From Fred Poffenbarger $23,000 was recovered. It is known some of the bonds were burned.

YALE MEN WORK THROUGH.

Nine Hundred Students Earn $180,000 During Summer Months.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 29.—The annual report of the Yale Self-Help Bureau today showed that $180,000 has been earned by 900 men who have taken 3,000 positions during the last year. There are forty different lines of work, including seventeen classes of Summer work. Of the sum earned, $61,000 was earned at the 139 positions offered for Summer work.

The registration for Summer work was 345, of which 132 were given assistance. There were 777 registrations for town time work and of this number the bureau placed 598. The registrations tend to disprove the theory that Yale is a rich man's college.

WANTS BIGGER PALESTINE.

Ruthenberg Says More Territory Is Needed for Economic Development.

JERUSALEM, Nov. 28 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Pinchus Ruthenberg, the noted Jewish engineer who has completed plans for the development of Palestine through irrigation and mechanical science, issued a statement today, in which he appeals to American Jews to aid in securing for Palestine satisfactory frontiers.

Ruthenberg declares that unless the Jordan, the Litany River, the Yarmuk Basin and Lake Meserib are included in Palestine territory the economic development of the country will be impossible. Mere water rights alone, he says, will not suffice; full control of the territory being essential for his projected plans.

Harold Tait, Engineer.

Harold Tait, an engineer in the employ of the Borough of Queens, died yesterday from pneumonia at his residence, 353 West Fifty-seventh Street. He was born in Metuchen, N. J., and was educated in Rutgers College. He went to Long Island City in 1897 as an engineer under the General Improvement Commission. In 1899 he was appointed to a position in the Bureau of Sewers. In 1910 Borough President Connolly appointed him engineer in charge.

MEXICO ABANDONS INCOME TAX PLAN

Amended Revenue Bill Shows Higher Imposts on Oil, Land and Inheritances.

CAN ATTEND INAUGURATION

Presence of Diplomats Will Not Imply Recognition, Is the Opinion in Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—An amended revenue bill has been sent to the Mexican Congress in place of the one prepared several weeks ago, which proposed the levying of income tax. Popular clamor against the proposal to levy such taxes resulted in the withdrawal and redrafting of the measure. It now contains no income tax feature.

Dispatches received today stated that Salvador Alvarado, Minister of Hacienda (Finance), will stand behind the new measure. He has made a statement in which he declares the provision in the original measure for an income tax was a "colossal blunder."

While details of the new bill are incomplete, it is undersood that it suppresses the stamp tax on sales, one of the oldest and most productive of all Mexican taxes, and to make up for this deficit, estimated at 10,000,000 pesos, the taxes on oil, land and inheritances are proposed to be increased.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Discussion has been in progress in diplomatic circles here as to the propriety of diplomats from countries which have not recognized the present Mexican Government attending the inauguration of President Obregon in Mexico City on Wednesday. The extent to which their presence might imply recognition has been considered, but it was learned today that the United States Government would not regard the attendance of the Chargé d'Affaires, George T. Summerlin, as constituting recognition of the Obregon Government.

No instructions had been sent to Mr. Summerlin today, it was stated officially, but it is known that his presence at the inauguration ceremonies would be considered as an act of courtesy, indicating friendly feeling toward the new administration, but not as either de facto or de jure recognition. His failure to attend, it has been suggested, might offend the Mexican people and lead to misunderstanding.

MAY TAKE BIG BOUT ACROSS THE OCEAN

England Now Suggested as Stage for the Great Carpentier-Dempsey Battle.

JACK KEARNS SATISFIED

Dempsey's Manager Is Willing That the Title Bout Be Held on Foreign Soil If Necessary.

Promoters of the contemplated world's heavyweight boxing contest between Jack Dempsey, the titleholder, and Georges Carpentier of France, European champion, are now turning their attention to England as the scene of the big scrap, in the event that no suitable place to conduct the bout is found available in this country. This was learned yesterday from a thoroughly reliable source. It is understood the promoters have held several conferences for the purpose of adopting their plans, and it is probable that Tex Rickard, one of the triumvirate directing the bout, will make an announcement of the contemplated shift across the Atlantic in a few days. Charles B. Cochran, British promoter, and William A. Brady, his American representative, are associated with Promoter Rickard in the arrangements for the bout.

Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, last night admitted that he had been approached with the proposition to take the bout to England. The champion's manager, however, refused to admit that anything definite had been done in this direction. At the same time, Manager Kearns declared himself ready to agree to a bout in England, despite his previous assertions that under no conditions would Dempsey consent to defend his title in any place but America.

Kearns Gives Consent.

Several weeks ago, before the articles for the bout were actually signed, Manager Kerns declared emphatically that Dempsey would only agree to defend his title in this country, where he won the ring's highest honor, as an American and from an American. The manifestations of objections to the bout in several sections of the country led Manager Kearns to state last night that in the event that concerted opposition compelled a transfer to Europe, he would be willing to make the ocean journey.

America, of course, is the first choice as the scene of the battle, and the promoters have not yet departed from their plan in this respect. It is to provide against possible emergency that the conferences are being held now and plans discussed to hold the bout in England. The apparent antagonism to conducting the match in this State upset the original plans of the promoters, which provided for the bout's being held here. There are several available locations within easy radius of this city, however, which would welcome the bout if the promoters cared to take the match away. New Jersey is understood to be willing to permit the bout, where it could be held for twelve rounds without violating the contracts signed by Dempsey and Carpentier, which stipulate that the match shall be for not less than ten nor more than fifteen rounds.

What Rickard Fears.

Promoter Rickard is known to be unwilling to run the chance of such confusion and additional expense as attended the promotion of the bout between Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson at Reno, in 1910. On that occasion Promoter Rickard was forced to take the bout out of California after he had erected an arena for the contest. Neither does Promoter Rickard favor pursuing a policy similar to that attending the Dempsey-Willard bout at Toledo, particularly in view of the tremendous expenses in connection with the forthcoming bout.

The disclosure that the promoters are entertaining a proposition to go to England with the bout came on the heels of cabled information that Charles B. Cochran, who is now in England, was already working to that end. Reports declare that Promoter Cochran is prepared to erect a special arena on the outskirts of London, capable of accommodating 100,000 persons. The popularity of Carpentier, who is almost as much a hero in England as he is in France, together with the heavyweight championship stake, are expected to attract a crowd sufficient to make the venture a success in the event that the promoters finally decide to take the match across the ocean.

GREB MAY MEET DEMPSEY.

Fitzsimmons on Way to Sign Champion for Bout.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 29.—Floyd Fitzsimmons of Benton Harbor, Mich., passed through South Bend today en route to New York, where he expects to sign Jack Dempsey for a ten-round fight with Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The trip, Fitzsimmons states, is being made in response to a call from Dempsey for him to come East.

Greb has been trying to get into the ring with Dempsey for several months, and he has been especially eager to meet the champion since beating Gunboat Smith in one round of a ten-round battle in this city about six weeks ago.

Fitzsimmons is reported to have promised Greb to do his best to sign the Dempsey match, providing Greb first defeats Eddie McGoorty, one of the best of the light-heavyweights.

MOORE WINS ON ICE.

Skates From Scratch Mark to Victory in Race at Ice Palace.

Starting from scratch, Joe Moore captured the mile and a half skating handicap at the 181st Street Ice Palace last night by defeating Bobby Hearne and Leslie Boyd. Hearne had a handicap of sixty yards and Boyd twenty-five yards.

Moore did not begin to show his best speed until he had traveled several laps, but on the eighteenth lap he caught the field and after circling the rink five more times went into first place and after that led all the way. He was a quarter of a lap in front of his nearest rival soon after getting to the front and led home Hearne by twenty-five yards. Hearne was about fifteen yards in front of Boyd when he crossed the finish line. The time for the race was 5:14.

In the Class B handicap at a mile W. Beecher of the Trement Club started from scratch and defeated Roy Jay, also a scratch man, and A. Williams who had a handicap of twenty-five yards. The time was 3:40.

MAJOR PICKERING RESIGNS.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—Major Mylin J. Pickering tendered his resignation as graduate manager of athletics at the University of Pennsylvania at a meeting of the Athletic Council today. Major Pickering has been associated with the institution for a number of years in this office. He stated that he planned to enter a more remunerative field.

The resignation will take effect Jan. 1. No successor has been mentioned.

Clyde Engel Resigns as Coach.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 29.—Clyde Engel, formerly of the Boston Red Sox, has resigned as baseball coach of the University of Vermont, it was announced tonight. The resignation is conditional upon acceptance by the university.

Carpentier Walks Arm in Arm With Conqueror of Years Ago

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Co.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Georges Carpentier yesterday met at the Auteuil races a man who twelve years ago gave him one of the hardest hammerings he ever got in the ring. The two walked arm in arm across the paddock and every one laughed for the one-time vanquisher reaches only to the shoulder of the European champion. The fight dates back to the days when boxing was practiced in France only among English and American lads in racing stables and Carpentier himself was a nipper of fourteen in his native mining town of Lens. An English trainer offered a purse of $60 to promote a fight between the champion of his stable, a youth named Salmon, and whoever wished to fight him. Carpentier heard of the offer and came to the ring. At the end of the eighteenth round Carpentier's seconds carried him out protesting and weeping because he couldn't see to fight any more. Salmon pocketed $60 but retired from the ring to become a successful jockey.

AMATEUR BOXERS IN GARDEN RING

Preliminary Bouts for Metropolitan A. A. U. Titles Attract More Than 5,000 Fans.

For the first time in the history of Madison Square Garden, it was the scene last night of the A. A. U. Metropolitan boxing championships, the preliminary bouts of which served to attract somewhat more than 5,000 fight fans. Among them were numerous women, who appeared to enjoy the variegated bouts as well as the men. As regards quantity, it was the greatest card ever presented in New York.

Followers of the fistic sport found all sorts of talent and lack of it, and all weights from 108 pounds to the heavyweights. There was willingness aplenty, and of numerous kinds, including willingness to give and take punishment and willingness to retire when punches came too fast.

Many of the bouts ended in the first round, when one of the boxers so outclassed the other as to make such action on the referee's part advisable, or, as stated before, when one of the would-be battlers retired.

Bell a Good Rescuer.

There were numerous knockdowns, but no boxer was counted out, although the bell saved more than one of the contenders from that ignominious ending. Taken all in all, for actual skill, but few of the bouts in the various classes brought out anything like the same proportion of talent as has been seen in previous years, but the mediocre was punctuated with occasional flashes of brilliancy which kept the spectators interested.

The heavyweight class brought out two bouts between inexperienced contestants of the rough and tumble type. Magness Larsen, a Norwegian giant, appeared to have all the better of Charles Caro when they started in, but after three rounds, when both were hardly able to stand up, and the referee called for an extra round, the red-headed Norwegian was unable to continue. His adversary, in scarcely any better condition, was awarded the decision.

Henry Andres in the 158-pound class furnished most of the comedy of the evening, but though he amused the spectators, that did not offset Nick Florio's better and more serious work, according to the referee, who gave him the award.

Officials Work In Relays.

There were so many bouts that they had to have recourse to relays of judges and referees, and any of the many spectators who did not find, among those numberless bouts, enough of the kind he likes to see, regardless of what kind that may be, must be difficult to please.

The semi-final and final bouts of the session for the Metropolitan A. A. U. championships are to be held tonight in that same old arena which has staged so many notable fistic encounters. All told there are to be something like sixty-four rounds, unless some of the aspirants decide they had enough last night and withdraw. At any rate, it will be a bargain night in the history of boxing, and the management, greatly pleased with the attendance last night, expects the old Garden to be crowded tonight.

The awards:

Evers Assumes Active Command.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Johnny Evers, newly appointed manager of the Chicago Nationals, assumed active command of the club on his arrival from Cuba today. Evers will remain here several days to discuss pending deals to strengthen the club.

JACKSON-DUNDEE BOUT IS A DRAW

Referee Calls Match Even Despite Bronx Boxer's Superior Aggressiveness.

Willie Jackson, hard-hitting Bronx lightweight, and Johnny Dundee, sensational little Italian boxer of the West Side, went through fifteen rounds of furious milling las night at the opening of the Manhattan A. C., and at the end of the contest the bout was declared a draw. The two judges, Tommy Shortell and James Mundy, disagreed, and Referee Billy McPartland decided it a draw.

The verdict was an injustice to Jackson. The Bronx lightweight, with a characteristic slashing attack and heavy blows to the face and stomach alternately, which at times rocked Dundee from head to heel, appeared to have earned a clean-cut advantage in points over his rival during the fifteen rounds. Jackson blinded the doughty little Italian and made him cling tenaciously on many occasions. On the other hand, Dundee, after a sensational display through the three opening rounds, sought doggedly to keep pace with his rival and exchange blow for blow in many wildly exciting mix-ups. But the little Italian fell far short and was on the receiving end of an avalanche of blows during the greater part of the bout.

A division of the rounds would give Jackson twelve and Dundee three. In every session except the fourth, eighth and twelfth, the Bronx boxer showed to advantage. He was on top of Dundee in spectacular spurts, dealing out punishing blows with both hands in a rapid-fire attack, which completely baffled the Italian. The crowd was on its feet yelling wildly throughout the bout, as Jackson sought to knock his Indian rubber-like opponent out and Dundee, stung and weary, tried ineffectively to retaliate.

Dundee's Best Rounds.

Dundee's best work was accomplished in the fourth, eighth and twelfth rounds. In these he outpointed Jackson with clever use of a tantalizing left-hand hook, which he swept in over Jackson's upraised, protecting right arm. Dundee, in these three rounds, offset his rival's attack with his menacing left, which, while it carried little or no steam, nevertheless bothered Jackson and caused him to miss miserably. In these three sessions, Jackson failed to land cleanly with an effective blow, for when he wasn't using his left hook in tantalizing fashion Dundee was bounding in and out like the Dundee of old, flying about like a jumping jack and pawing exasperatingly with his left jab, not infrequently sending Jackson's head back with the blow and nullifying the Bronx boxer's attempts to start an attack.

Outside of these three sessions, however, Dundee failed to make an impression against his furious, unrelenting rival. Jackson tore in viciously with punishing rights and lefts and landed cleanly on Dundee's head and jaw with enough of the blows to rock an ordinary boxer to sleep. In fact, there were several instances when it seemed that Dundee must succumb to the powerful drives, but, with the sturdiness of the steel, the Italian weathered gale after gale, and kept his feet.

The match marked the ninth meeting of the pair and furnished one of the greatest lightweight bouts ever seen in a local ring. It was replete with spectacular work, furious flurries in which it seemed that a knockout would end the mill, and sensational give and take exchanges which had the spectators yelling hoarsely.

Many Turned Away.

A crowd which taxed the capacity of the arena witnessed the bout. Ordinarily the club quarters, a dance hall, would accomodate about 5,000 comfortably. It seems that twice this number jammed the building, crowding every inch of space to the suffocation point, and filling the aisles about the ringside. So great was the crush that, after the first bout Boxing Commissioner Joseph Johnson caused it to be announced from the ring by Joe Humphries that unless the aisles were cleared in conformity with the Fire Department regulations, the bouts would be halted and the money of the patrons returned. After a short delay this task was accomplished. The sale of tickets was ordered stopped early in the evening, and there were hundreds of late comers, holding tickets purchased in advance, who had their money refunded.

The boxers started their assault upon each other before the clang of the starting bell had ceased. Fast and furious the two lightweights whaled away at each other in a perfect orgy of punching such as is seldom witnessed. Dundee got in the first blow, a light left lead for the face, which stung Jackson to action, and a hail of blows from every direction resulted. Jackson was the stronger puncher and he charged relentlessly into the Italian, showering rights and lefts with telling effect. Dundee, buffeted about, sought to exchange blow for blow, was not equal to the task. Near the bell Jackson crashed over a left to the face which halted Dundee in his tracks.

In the second round and through the third session the furious pace continued, both extending themselves to their limit in a spectacular exchange of blows which threw the crowd into a frenzy. Dundee employed his trick of bounding off the ropes several times during the second round and made Jackson miss repeated. The Italian also continued his clever use of a left-hand hook, which bothered Jackson considerably, but the latter's heavy attack to the face and stomach overcame Dundee's clever boxing and gave the Bronx lad both rounds. Through the third Jackson peppered Dundee's face with vicious rights and lefts, but the Italian shook off the blows as a duck sheds water, and persisted until near the bell, when he landed with a left to the stomach which made Jackson gasp.

Dundee Makes a Rally.

Through the fourth session Dundee appeared to advantage, jabbing cleverly but weakly with his left, and hooking the blow as the occasion demanded. He jumped in with his leads until he had Jackson befuddled and missing like the veriest novice. From the fifth to the twelfth round, however, Jackson accumulated a safe margin in points with a slashing attack which threatened to bring Dundee down in decisive defeat. Both boxers showed the effects of the pace, and Dundee the drain of the hammering he was receiving, so that he was eager to hold at every opportunity in the clinches until Referee McPartland stepped between them, separating the pair.

Dundee was crashed against the ropes with a heavy right in the sixth and in the seventh one of Jackson's crushing rights started a stream of blood from a cut over the Italian's left eye. In the eighth Dundee jabbed and leaped as if fresh and kept out of danger, while Jackson missed frequently with his leads for face and stomach, the Italian countering meanwhile with point-making hooks and jabs.

Jackson uncorked furious rallies in the ninth and tenth rounds and had Dundee backed in the Bronx boxer's corner holding grimly and glad of the short respite at the bell in each session. In the eleventh Jackson continued his volcanic attack and hammered Dundee hard, but in the twelfth the little Italian returned to his clever jabbing and hooking and outpointed Jackson. The thirteenth and fourteenth rounds were comparatively slow, but in the fifteenth both unleashed every bit of their reserve, and slashed away willingly, with Jackson having slightly the better of the exchanges.

The weights were: Dundee, 128 pounds; Jackson, 132 pounds.

In the opening bout of six rounds Sol Seeman, former amateur champion, outpointed Bobby Dodd. The second bout, scheduled for ten rounds, in which the principals were Sammy Good of California and Eddie Hassard, was halted in the seventh round to save Hassard from further punishment. In the third bout, another ten-round affair, Earl Baird, of Seattle, Wash., gained the judges' decision over Johnny Lisse, a Yorkville featherweight.

BULL TWICE VICTOR IN SQUASH TOURNEY

Advances to Third Round of Scratch Event at Columbia Club by Brilliant Play.

Playing in his old-time form, C. M. Bull Jr. advanced through two rounds of the annual Fall scratch tournament of the National Squash Tennis Association yesterday afternoon on the courts of the Columbia Club. The Squash Club expert, who won this event a year ago, reached his third round bracket at the expense of two excellent players. He defeated F. S. Whitlock of the Harvard Club in the opening round in a two-game match, in which the second game went to extra points, and then eliminated E. W. Putnam of the Columbia Club in a torrid three-game encounter.

Excellent progress was made in the first day's play in the tournament yesterday, the decks being cleared for action in the third round, excepting for three or four matches. Sixteen matches were settled, with only three defaults mixed in. Among the players who advanced as expected, in addition to Bull, were Anderson Dana of the Harvard Club, H. R. Mixsell of the Princeton Club and Livingston Platt of the Yale Club. Jay Gould of the Columbia Club was not scheduled to make his first appearance in the tournament until this afternoon, when he will meet J. T. Trounstine of the Yale Club.

Bull Works Angles Well.

The Bull-Putnam match furnished the high lights of yesterday's play. Both men played astonishingly fast squash for so early in the season. Bull worked the angles for some rare placements and both men applied plenty of steam to their shots, both on the forehand and backhand. Bull's backhand recoveries of difficult shots were accomplished with particular adroitness. He dropped the second game to Putnam after it had gone into extra points, but ran through the rubber in decisive fashion. Both men exhibited skill in keeping their shots low.

Bull assumed the lead quickly in the opening game, piling up six aces before Putnam could get started. Putnam worked his way up until within four points of his rival, at 9—5, but Bull, on his next hand-in, scored ten successive aces. He thus annexed the first game at 15—5 and led at 4—0 in the second game before it was hand out. Putnam caught his flying rival in the second game, however, eventually evening the count at 13 and winning at 18—16. In the rubber game Bull was in complete command again. He led Putnam at 13—1, when the latter managed to add three aces to his score before the Squash Club expert again took the service and ran the game out, capturing the match point on a fine placement that caught his opponent out of position. The long and spectacular rallies in this game, which was more stubbornly fought than the score might indicate, stirred the gallery to frequent applause. Putnam had previously won from R. G. Coburn, one of the high-ranking players of the game, in another brilliant three-game match, scored 15—18, 15—7, 15—2.

Easy Victory for Richards.

J. A. Richards of the Harvard Club made a belated entry in the tournament and was bracketed in the first round with Jesse Hoyt, bringing the total number of entries up to thirty-six. Richards defeated Hoyt easily, with the loss of but two points in the two games. Two veterans of the courts, Keeler and Neely, engaged in a slambang battle of hard hitting, in which the Columbia Club man won at 15—11, 15—10. A. W. Riley of the Princeton Club took time enough off from his duties with the Flying Squadron in fighting the H. C. of L. to defeat I. H. Cornell in a well-played match, 15—10, 18—13.

The summaries:

First Round—C. M. Bull Jr., Squash Club, defeated F. S. Whitlock, Harvard Club, 15—9, 18—13; E. W. Putnam, Columbia Club, defeated R. G. Coburn, Harvard Club, 15—18, 15—7, 15—12; J. A. Richards, Harvard Club, defeated Jesse Hoyt, Princeton Club, 15—0, 15—2; R. E. Fink, Crescent A. C., defeated C. J. MacGuire, Yale Club, 15—3, 6—15, 15—10.

Second Round—Anderson Dana, Harvard Club, defeated H. Duncan Bulkley, Columbia Club, 15—12, 15—8; Joseph Walker, Jr., Yale Club, won from Donald McClave, Columbia Club, by default; Thomas Coward, Yale Club, defeated A. L. Marvin, Columbia Club, 15—10, 15—12; L. J. Grinnell, Harvard Club, won from Stuyvesant Wainwright Jr., Yale Club, by default; A. W. Riley, Princeton Club, defeated I. H. Cornell, Columbia Club, 15—10, 18—13; F. S. Keeler, Columbia Club, defeated J. C. Neely, Princeton Club, 15—11, 15—10; Harold Tobey, Princeton Club, defeated F. W. Chambers, Columbia Club, 15—3, 15—3; H. R. Mixsell, Princeton Club, defeated Jarvis Cromwell, Princeton Club, 15—8, 15—9; H. D. Harvey, Princeton Club, won from Geoffrey Taylor, Army and Navy Club, by default; Livingston Platt, Yale Club, defeated W. A. K. Kimbel, Columbia Club, 15—9, 15—10; John Taylor, Princeton Club, defeated E. C. Olds, 15—3, 15—8; C. M. Bull Jr. defeated E. W. Putnam, 15—5, 16—18, 15—4.

PROTESTS A TITLE SPRINT.

Hosmer Files Objection to 300-Yard Race Run in Brooklyn.

A protest on the running of the Metropolitan A. A. U. 300-yard championship race at the Twenty-third Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, last Saturday night was received yesterday by Frederick W. Rubien, local A. A. U. President.

The protest was entered by S. G. Hosmer, Chairman of the Athletic Committee of the Glencoe A. C., who based his objection to the event on the ground that the race was not run in lanes, as is specifically provided in the Amateur Athletic Union rules governing championship competitions.

The protest will be referred to the local Championship Committee, of which Herman Obertubbesing is Chairman.

DEMPSEY HELPS SHARKEY.

Heavyweight Instructing Bantam for Coming Bout With Lynch.

Jack Sharkey, local bantamweight, is receiving instructions from Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey in his training for the return bout of fifteen rounds against Joe Lynch, which will be decided at Madison Square Garden Thursday night. Sharkey is working out on the U. S. S. Granite State, where Dempsey is also in daily training in preparation for his bout against Bill Brennan, which is scheduled for the Garden Dec. 14. The little Italian bantamweight is being assisted in his sparring matches by Frankie Curry and Abe Friedman.

Sharkey does not anticipate any trouble making the required weight, 118 pounds, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. He declared yesterday that he expects to weigh about 117 pounds when he steps on the scales. At this figure, Sharkey said, he will be strong for a stiff battle.

NABLE GETS DECISION.

East Side Boxer Outpoints Fletcher at Star Sporting Club.

Sammy Nable of the east side, former amateur boxing champion, avenged a defeat he suffered recently at the hands of Eddie Fletcher of Yorkville, when the pair clashed last night in the principal fifteen-round bout at the Star Sporting Club. Nable carried off the judges' decision. The former amateur boxer, fighting at a steady pace and carrying the milling through the majority of the rounds, accumulated enough points to clearly entitle him to the judges' verdict.

Coleman to Lead Terre Haute.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Nov. 29.—Catcher Robert Coleman, 1920 manager of the Mobile, Ala., Southern Association team, will manage the Terre Haute Three-I League club during the 1921 season. It was announced today at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Terre Haute Baseball Fans' Association that the deal for Coleman had been closed.

Greene, Centre of Army Team, Is Elected Captain for 1921

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Cadet Francis Martin Greene of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., has been elected Captain of the Army football team for next season. Greene played throughout the entire game against the Navy last Saturday and has just finished his second season as centre on the Army eleven. He is 20 years old, stands 6 feet 3 inches in height and weighs 194 pounds. He is a member of the class of 1922.

ARMY ELEVEN LEADS IN POINTS SCORED

Cadets Rolled Up 314 Despite Two Defeats—Unique Record for Boston College.

An analysis of the records of the various college elevens of the East during the 1920 season develops some interesting and confusing data. The West Point cadet team, although defeated by the Navy and Notre Dame, managed to roll up an aggregate score of 314 points which, so far as scoring is concerned, gives the army first place in the section totals. Williams, with Benny Boynton, the star individual scorer of the East, is next in line with a total of 312 points, although defeated in three out of the eight games played. These are the only combinations to cross the 300 mark. Penn State and Cornell are third and fourth, respectively, with 259 and 231.

From a defensive standpoint, Boston College appears to hold the palm as Coach Cavanaugh's gridiron pupils held their opponents to a total of 16 points, of which Yale made 13 and Marietta the remaining 3. Syracuse was next, with a low opponent score of 27, while Harvard was a close third, with but 28 points scored against her. Holy Cross was fourth with 30, but it still has the Boston team to stand off. Eight games were the average on the Eastern college schedules and the maximum ten, with Pennsylvania, Washington and Jefferson and West Virginia playing the longest schedule of the season.

Six college or university elevens of the East, Harvard, Princeton, Pittsburgh, Penn State, Boston College and Stevens, passed through the season without defeat, but in the case of five of these teams the record was marred by one or more tie games. Boston College is the only one which has an absolutely clean slate to date, and that team still has one game to play, being scheduled to meet the strong Holy Cross eleven next Saturday.

The records of the larger institutions of the East, showing the number of games won, lost and tied, total points scored by home teams and opponents as well as the name of the leading individual scorer for each eleven, follow:

College.	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	Opp'ts' Pts.	Leading Scorer.

TO LEAD DARTMOUTH AGAIN.

Robertson Is Re-elected Captain of Big Green Football Team.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 29.—James E. Robertson of Somerville, Mass., right halfback and Captain of the Dartmouth football eleven, has been re-elected to lead the Green for another year. Although originally a member of the class of 1919, Robertson left college at the beginning of his second year to join the navy. He returned last Fall and was the mainstay of the Dartmouth backfield in the race for the championship. Although a capable performer in running with the ball, Robertson's greatest strength lies in his kicking ability and his sensational work on the defense.

For two years Robertson has ranked high among the punters and dropkickers of the East, and his 55-yard goal against Cornell a year ago was one of the features of the 1919 season. His punting for two years has averaged fifty yards to the kick, as well as being placed with extraordinary accuracy. It was only recently that he developed into one of the best forward passers ever seen on a Green eleven. Against Washington last Saturday, when the Green scored three of its four touchdowns on forward passes, Robertson did the heaving every time, and directed the forwards with such accuracy that the man receiving it was completely alone every time.

Although Dartmouth has never before shown any marked ability in forward passing, the game with the Westerners showed just what its possibilities are along this line, and next year it is planned to use the overhead attack to a far greater extent than has been the custom in the past.

Although Dartmouth will lose five of its strongest men by graduation this year, an able corps of substitutes is on hand which can be developed into a powerful varsity for the 1921 season. In addition to this year's second-string men, the Green coaching staff will have the entire freshman team available, and the record of six victories out of seven starts, which the yearlings hung up this year, would seem to indicate that they will furnish good timber for the varsity.

Out of the backfield, Pat Holbrook, star of three seasons, will be lost. Holbrook did not hit his real stride this year, and for this reason was used as a substitute in the final games for Burke, sensational young sophomore, who has been showing all the makings of a real star. On this account, the loss of Holbrook will not be so keenly felt.

A real blow to the Green's offensive strength will be the loss of Shelbourne, powerful colored fullback. Shelbourne has been a star both on offense and defense, and filling his shoes will prove a problem to the next coach, be he Spears or some other. Another good man graduating is Jordan, quarterback, and to date there seems to be no one quite capable of taking his place. Smith, freshman quarterback, gives promise.

In the line, the Green ends and tackles will remain intact, but both guards and the centre will be lost. At guard, Crisp, who has filled the position for three years, will be the biggest loss, as he has no first-class understudy. Merritt, the other guard, has had a hard fight all year with Aschenback, and won out at end by the smallest of margins. Cunningham, centre, who is already being mentioned as of possible all-American calibre, will be a hard man to replace, as he has filled the position regularly for three seasons. He is one of the best passers in the game, and a bear on both offense and defense.

The Green team is expected home from the Coast early Friday morning, and a monster welcome is being planned by the Hanover undergraduates.

To Play Intersectional Game.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Nov. 27.—The West Technical High School of Cleveland, Ohio, will send its football team to this city for a game with Fitchburg High School, Saturday, Dec. 4.

LEAGUES PREPARE TO ASSIST LANDIS

Club Owners Ready to Give Every Help in Drive Against Gamblers.

Following the departure from New York of Judge Landis, who, while he was here, outlined a strong policy for ridding baseball of the gambling evil, President John E. Heydler said yesterday that the National League was prepared to give the new head of baseball every aid in his crusade and would make some definite suggestions during the coming baseball meetings. The various clubs in the National League have in the past taken steps to clear their parks of gamblers and are able to offer some helpful suggestions as to the chief disturbers, as well as to propose means for barring them from the parks.

Though both the National and American Leagues have made constant efforts to stamp out the evil, there has never been a concerted effort on the part of both major organizations to bring it to an end. But it is Heydler's opinion that, with Judge Landis directing the attack, both leagues can get behind him, and baseball will finally remove any chance of having suspicion cast upon it.

This and other subjects, chiefly trades, will come up for discussion at the forthcoming meetings of the National and American Leagues and the joint meeting of the two leagues, which will be held early in December. The trade winds are already beginning to blow in their usual number of rumors, and the indication now is that the bargaining will go briskly on in the corridors of the Waldorf when the owners and managers get together.

Trades are the forecast of every meeting, but this time there seems to be good ground for the belief that a number of deals will be made. Nearly every club in the two circuits is in need of material of some kind, and, on the other hand, nearly every club has players that it will either sell or trade.

Manager McGraw will return from Cuba next week, and it is probable that negotiations will again be opened in the long talked of deal for Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals. This seems more likely in view of the fact that Hornsby is reported to be dissatisfied with St. Louis and the Cardinals and wishes a change of scene. Like all other players who reach the heights of stardom, Hornsby would like to come to New York, where a star may shine at his brightest.

Manager Wilbert Robinson is seeking the services of a good catcher, Pittsburgh is in need of infielders, and the Yankees are in the market for players.

RAPP IS LEADING HITTER.

New Member of Giants Batted .335 in the American Association.

Goldie Rapp, new third baseman of the Giants, who was recently purchased for $11,000 and some players still to be delivered, was the leading batsman of the American Association during the 1920 season. The official records of the big minor league of the Middle West show that Rapp took part in 155 games and finished the season with a batting mark of .335. Eight players reached higher marks in batting during the season, but none of them played in more than eighty-five games, and only three of them took part in fifty games.

Del Gainer of Milwaukee was the nominal leader with a mark of .386 in thirty-seven games, and Ollie O'Mara of Indianapolis was next in line with .380 for thirty-two games.

Rapp starred on the bases as he did with the stick, having a total of 49 steals during the season. Leo Dressen of St. Paul led in base stealing with 50 thefts to his credit. Dressen and Rapp clearly excelled all other baserunners in the association. The records show that the new Giant made 187 hits, including 37 doubles and 9 triples, but no home runs. He walked 45 times and struck out only 21 times during the season.

Elmer Miller of St. Paul, a teammate of Rapp and at one time a member of the Yankees, ranked fifth in batting among the players who took part in more than 100 games. His mark for the year was .333. Bill Lamar of Louisville, who was sold to the Brooklyn Club late in the season, batted .316, and Gaston of Milwaukee, now the property of the Giants, is credited with a batting mark of .299.

Carl Sawyer of Minneapolis, formerly with Washington, led the league in two-base hits with 50, four more than were made by Elmer Miller. Riggert of St. Paul and Brainard of Columbus tied in three-base hits with 17 each, and Bunny Brief of Kansas City was the Babe Ruth of the organization with 23 home runs to his credit. Davis of Minneapolis led in sacrifice hits with 57.

Mike Kelley's St. Paul club, pennant winner in the 1920 campaign, led all other teams in batting with a mark of .301. The champions led in number of hits made and runs scored, as well as in three-baggers, home runs, sacrifice hits and stolen bases, clearly excelling all other teams in all around play. Minneapolis ranked second with .280 and the other teams batted as follows: Toledo .276, Louisville .272, Kansas City .269, Columbus .269, Milwaukee .264 and Indianapolis .261.

PRO. ELEVEN TO PLAY HERE.

Thorpe's Bulldogs to Meet Buffalo Team at Polo Grounds.

Jim Thorpe's Canton Bulldogs, with the Indian leading the attack, will meet the Buffalo All Americans in a professional football game at the Polo Grounds, Saturday, Dec. 4, according to arrangements which were completed yesterday. These teams are made up of stars of the gridiron who gained their glory on various college elevens, and many of them have been selected on various all-American teams.

Thorpe will play right halfback for his team Saturday, and will have Guyon at fullback and Gales at left halfback, both Indian players. The Buffalo aggregation will be captained by Hughitt, formerly of Michigan. Among other stars on the team are Shelton, formerly of Cornell, Miller and Anderson.

The probable line-up:

CANTON.		BUFFALO.
Lowe	L. E.	Shelton
Buck	L. T.	Spagna
Dadmun	L. G.	Brace
Feeney	C.	Wray
Edwards	R. G.	Youngstrom

Higgins	R. E.	Miller
Griggs	Q. B.	Hughitt
Calac	L. H. B.	Weldon
Thorpe	R. H. B.	Anderson
Guyon	F. B.	Smith

GIPP IS SERIOUSLY ILL.

Speedy Halfback of Notre Dame Eleven Has Pneumonia.

Special to The New York Times.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 29.—The condition of George Gipp, meteoric halfback of the Notre Dame football team, was unchanged tonight.

Gipp, who contracted pneumonia a few days ago, is critically ill at St. Joseph's Hospital, South Bend. The attending physician states this evening that the player's condition is grave and that a decided change is anticipated within twelve hours.

Gipp's attack of pneumonia was the culmination of a slight case of tonsilitis which came on after the Notre Dame-Northwestern game at Evanston, ten days ago.

Britton Wins Bout From Abel.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—Jack Britton, welterweight champion of the world, was awarded the referee's decision at the end of a ten-round bout here tonight with Jake Abel, Atlanta welterweight. Abel was knocked down in the third round, but continued fighting hard throughout.

Chaney Wins Tame Boxing Bout.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29. — Andy Chaney of Baltimore defeated Gene Delmont of Memphis in a tame eight-round bout here tonight. Johnny Mealey, Philadelphia, outpointed Freddy Reese, New York, in a fast eight-round fight.

SEVERAL UPSETS IN RACING AT BOWIE

Five Favorites, Including Siren Maid, Are Defeated on Heavy Track.

CLEAN GONE A WINNER

Takes Consolation Handicap, the Feature Event of Card—Manoeuvre and Nebulous Score.

Special to The New York Times.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 29.—The track at Bowie was so deep with mud today that only powerful horses could negotiate it successfully and as a consequence there was a series of form upsets to add to the gloom of a generally drab afternoon. Five of the favorites went down to defeat, among them being Edward B. McLean's Siren Maid, which was made the choice and was heavily backed in the Consolation Handicap, which was the feature of the card.

The Consolation Handicap was at a mile and seventy yards, and brought out some of the best of the performers left here for the closing days of the meeting. With but five starters Clean Gone turned up the winner, with Tom McTaggart second and Drummond third, while Siren Maid trailed in last, after having met with considerable interference, despite the small field.

Siren Maid went to the post an 8 to 5 choice, but Robinson got her in against the rail in the early running. He had her under restraint, but was in close quarters so that the filly could not run freely. When finally he reached the head of the stretch, he was pinched back just when he was ready to make his run with his mount, and before Siren Maid could get clear the leaders were home several lengths in front of her.

Tom McTaggart Tires.

Tom McTaggart was at home in the going, and showed good speed at the outset. He went to the front and set the pace all the way to the stretch, but with the top weight of 126 pounds, he tired badly. When, however, the test came and Clean Gone, which had been kept clear of interference, closed with a rush and gained the verdict by a length, though he had to be ridden out at the end. Once Siren Maid was pinched back, Drummond was able to get up for third money, though he was put to a drive to beat Lady Gertrude a nose.

The condition of the track was much to the liking of G. W. Foreman's Manoeuvre, which romped through the mud to an easy victory in the six and a half furlong dash, which was third on the program. In this event he won by two lengths from Jean Bullant, which was the post favorite, Sister Emblem taking third.

Jean Bullant fancied the going also, but was well used up racing with Sister Emblem and weakened when the stretch loomed up. Manoeuvre had been reserved behind the pace and when Miller let him down he drew clear of his field with little trouble. Jean Bullant lasted to hold second against Sister Emblem, but had to be driven hard in the final furlong. Laughter broke very slowly and was almost left at the post.

Fourteen maidens of all ages lined up for the first race at a mile and seventy yards and from this lot Nebulous, a two-year-old colt that has been taking the dust and mud of juveniles for many weeks, popped out to win by six lengths from Pansy and Flypaper among the others. Nebulous found his racing legs so unexpectedly that his performance was truly startling. He romped over the heavy course to a lead of five lengths in the back stretch and breezed along to a very easy victory. Pansy followed the pace as closely as she could and was much the best of the rest of the cheap platers as she finished second ten lengths in front of the Flypaper with the others scattered along the stretch to the sixteenth pole.

Tingling Is Easy Winner.

The one race for two-year-olds which was at a mile, went to Tingling, which has been in good form recently and which won easily from Ross R., with Explosive third. Ross R. showed improvement, raced Orcus and Tan Son into submission and was in front to the head of the stretch where he tired from his early efforts. Tingling came around the leaders turning into the stretch and closing stoutly, soon caught Ross R.

The first of the favorites to win was Waukeag, which got home in front in the fifth race at a mile and a sixteenth when he took the measure of Deckmate and Little Ed, among the other starters. Waukeag was kept close to the pace set by Deckmate and moved to the front when the latter tired in the stretch. The others were badly outrun, Little Ed finishing six lengths back of Deckmate.

Pilsen went to the post a 3 to 2 choice in the final race and reached the wire a length in front of Malvolio after a driving finish. Runecraft was third. Pilsen kept close to the pace all the way and outgamed Malvolio in the final furlong.

Dr. Butler Urges Stadium For Columbia University

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, in his annual report again urges the erection of a stadium. Dr. Butler says: "The plan for a stadium in the North River between 116th and 120th Streets, which has lain dormant for years, should be vigorously revived an attempt made to carry it to completion. This stadium, in addition to serving the needs of the students and alumni of Columbia, would be a great addition to the open air resources of the city of New York and would speedily become the centre for public gatherings, games and displays of various kinds. South Field would then be left, as should be the case, to serve as a playground for the great army of students who wish to engage in sport or to take open air exercise without becoming members of a particular and highly-trained team."

BULLET PROOF WINS THE FEATURE STAKE

Sprinter Is Victor by Three Lengths in Race for Vacrerie Purse at Jefferson.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29.—the Vacrerie Purse at six furlongs, which graced the card as the feature event at Jefferson Park today, fell an easy prey to S. A. Clopton's three-year-old Bullet Proof, which raced to his best form and appeared to outclass his field. He finished three lengths in front of A. N. Akin, which got up in the last stride to take the place from Youneed by a nose.

Youneed ran a good race and showed fine speed, setting a fast pace to the final sixteenth, when he tired. Bullet Proof was close behind the leader all the way and assumed command readily when Coltiletti let him down. A. N. Akin was allowed to drop far back in the early running and appeared well out of it at the far turn, but he closed with a rush entering the stretch, and got up just in time for the place. Columbia Tenn. showed a flash of early speed and trailed the pacemakers, but weakened before the real test began.

The favorites again fared well, four of them gratifying their backers. The track was heavy, and the fields were smaller than would otherwise have been the case, as plenty of horses are now on hand to fill the card each day.

The five and a half furlong dash for three-year-olds went to Ablaze, which was well handled by Jockey Stack, and reserved for the final furlong, when she drew clear and won by three lengths from Hidden Ship, which fought it out for second with Lover's Lane II. Hidden Ship and Lover's Lane II. raced with each other for the first half mile, and set a fast pace, considering the condition of the track. Stack waited with Ablaze, and, keeping her on the best part of the track, closed up easily at the head of the stretch and was not threatened in the final furlong. The early pace makers tired badly but Hidden Ship outgamed Lover's Lane II. right at the end.

In the mile and a sixteenth test for three-year-old fillies and mares, Dahabiah II. gained a close decision over Betsy and She Devil in a field of six starters. The winner was kept in the best going, and, finishing strongly, caught Betsy in the stretch and outgamed her to the wire. She Devil was a contender to the last furlong, when she tired after trying to follow the pace.

The summaries:

STECHER TO MEET LEWIS.

Wrestling Champion Will Defend Title in This City Dec. 13.

Joe Stecher, heavyweight champion wrestler, will defend his title against Ed (Strangler) Lewis of Kentucky in a bout at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory Dec. 13. Arrangements for the match were completed yesterday by Promoter Jack Curley. Lewis's victory over Wladek Zbyszko, in their bout at the armory last week, advanced the Kentuckian as the champion's next opponent.

The match will be a return affair. Lewis and Stecher locked horns on the mat last season, when the title-holder emerged victorious after more than three hours of combat. On that occasion the Kentuckian, with his crushing headlock, several times had Stecher on the verge of defeat, but the Nebraskan recovered and, gradually wearing Lewis down, suddenly caught his rival in the clutches of his favorite leg scissors, and Lewis's shoulders were forced to the mat. The fall in their last meeting was accomplished by Stecher in exactly three hours and four minutes.

STAR BILLIARDISTS DUE.

Cochran and Schaefer to Reach New York Wednesday or Thursday.

Welker Cochran and Jake Schaefer will arrive in New York the middle of this week to put the finishing touches to their practice for the final round of the national balkline billiard championship tournament which R. B. Benjamin will stage at the Hotel Astor next week on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. They have wired that they will get here Wednesday or Thursday. As soon as they arrive a meeting will be held at which the rules and other matters will be discussed.

Willie Hoppe has completed arrangements for his final exhibition matches before defending his balkline billiard title. He will play his final tryouts at the Rational Recreation Academy in Brooklyn on Thursday and Friday. The afternoon matches will begin at 3:30 and the evening sessions at 8:15.

KIECKHEFER RUNS TEN.

Sets High Mark for Three-Cushion Carom Billiard Tournament.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Augie Kieckhefer, Chicago, broke the high run mark for the national three-cushion billiard tournament tonight by scoring ten successive points in his 50 to 37 victory over Charles McCourt of Cleveland. He finished the game in fifty-five innings. A few minutes later, John Layton ran nine and defeated Charles Otis, Brooklyn, 50 to 29, in forty-nine innings, putting Otis out of the race.

In the afternoon Pierre Maupome of Milwaukee kept himself in the running by defeating John Daly of New York by the score of 50 to 45 in sixty-four innings. Maupome's high run today was three.

Maupome has three more games, one each with Kieckhefer, De Oro and Layton, the three leaders. The three high men will meet Robert Cannefax in the finals.

NEW CYCLE RACING BODY IS PLANNED

Contestants in Recent Six-Day Race Favor Tribunal to Govern the Sport.

An independent organization governed by three citizens, whose connections are merely those of enthusiasts in the sport, is the plan at present entertained by the bicycle riders who participated in the recent six-day race at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory without the sanction of the National Cycling Association. The idea was propounded yesterday by Alfred Goullet, one of the leaders among the riders, who defied the N. C. A. prohibition and competed in the unsanctioned race.

According to Goullet the riders will start immediately on a campaign which they expect will bring about the installation of a separate governing body for cycling. Having been eliminated as members of the N. C. A. through their participation in the unsanctioned race, they intend to organize a rival body for the control of the sport among both professionals and amateurs.

To this end a meeting is planned some time during the next fortnight when the riders will decide on a program of action. In the meantime they will canvas prominent cycling enthusiasts, men who are not connected with the sport either as promoters or riders or in any other capacity, in an effort to induce three uninterested parties to serve as a Board of Control. This board will be composed of a representative of the riders, one of the promoters, and a neutral member, who will cast the deciding vote in any disputes which may arise. The proposed new association will include amateurs who may affiliate with it, and an effort will be made to gain Amateur Athletic Union affiliation. The men will elect a president, vice president and secretary and treasurer. A delegate will be appointed to represent the organization at the meeting of the Unione Cycling Internationale, which will be held in Paris next February. The independent group will then seek affiliation with the European governing body.

Three of the riders who competed in the recent race have contracts to ride in the race at Madison Square Garden, beinning next Sunday night. The cyclists are Marcel Dupuy, Marcel Godivier and Carlo Oliveri, an Italian cyclist. Goullet said yesterday that these riders were the only survivors of the armory race who would offer their services for the Garden grind. Whether they will be permitted to ride, however, is doubtful, in view of the fact that the coming race has an N. C. A. sanction, and the organization has already declared the armory race participants automatically disqualified from riding under N. C. A. rules.

The fifteen teams of riders which started in the armory grind were in the offices of the New York Velodrome Company on Fifth Avenue yesterday receiving their prize and bonus moneys. None of the riders showed any effects of the grind, with the exception of Goullet. The Newark star was drawn and rather pale, and admitted that he had lost five pounds during the race. Ray Eaton and Harry Kaiser, the winning combination, did not reveal any traces of the endurance test, nor did Jake Magin, Eddie Madden, Freddie Hill or the other cyclists.

No information was forthcoming on the financial returns from the race, nor did the riders or officials vouchsafe any details as to the money paid the riders. In discussing the latter feature Goullet dismissed the query with the declaration that the riders received from 50 to 100 per cent. more than in any previous race.

HOREMANS SHOWS SKILL.

Belgian Billiardist Plays Exhibition Match With His Secretary.

Edouard Horemans, the Belgian billiard champion, who is now arranging to play William Hoppe for the world's championship, gave the first exhibition of his skill at the Amateur Billiard Club last night and made a very favorable impression on a large crowd of enthusiasts. Horemans played a 300-point 18.2 balkline match with his secretary, F. J. L. Derks, which he won with considerable ease by 300 to 35.

The exhibition afforded an opportunity to size up the European wizard of the cue and ascertain if he is likely to be a formidable opponent for Hoppe. Horemans has not yet become accustomed to the tables and the cloth, and his game is possibly suffering to some extent for that reason, but he amazed his audience last night with the skill with which he executed massé shots. These appeared to be the strongest feature of his play and he made use of them much oftener than is the custom with American players. In the course of his exhibition he had a run of 103, and in gathering these points made 27 massé shots, while in another run later he made 9 massé shots in succession, all of them cleverly executed. During his run of 103 points he kept the balls in the centre of the table for 68 points and did not get them into balk until the sixty-ninth shot.

Some of the veterans likened his style to that of the late Frank Ives, particularly because of the promptness with which he made each shot. He appeared always to have his shots mapped out well in advance and seldom hesitated for a second to decide upon a play. His average for the 300 points was 37½ in eight innings, his score by innings being 27, 0, 14, 76, 103, 14, 6, 60.

Horemans and Hoppe will meet again today and endeavor to close negotiations for their proposed championship match. The Belgian player yesterday posted $1,000 to cover the amount posted by Hoppe as a guarantee of good faith in binding a match. Horemans suggested yesterday that two matches be played, one at 18.1 and the other at 18.2 balkline, as he believed this would afford the best test. Hoppe was inclined to hold out for a single match at 18.2, though he is the holder of the 18.1 championship as well.

SHONGOOD IS CUE WINNER.

Defeats Driscoll in Semi-Final of Snooker Tournament.

The second game in the semi-finals of the annual snooker pool handicap at John Doyle's Broadway Academy was won last night by Charles Shongood, who defeated Edward Driscoll by a score of 75 to 51. This leaves Shongood as one of the finalists, and he will meet Harry Carter tomorrow night in the match which will decide the championship of the tournament.

Shongood was favored by a break in the game last night which put him in a position to run up a large score. Driscoll fouled the object ball as he prepared to make an easy shot and left his opponent in excellent position to make a run of eleven points. This put Shongood in the lead, and he did not again leave the game in doubt.

In the novice snooker tournament, Julian Lewis defeated Dave Harris by 61 to 40, S. Hirsch defeated C. Oatley by 77 to 38, E. McCann beat F. Rothenberg by 62 to 47, and J. Martin defeated S. Livingston by 75 to 68. In the pocket billiard handicap Max Winchell won from John Meaney by a score of 60 to 51.

MOORE LEADS GREENLEAF.

Takes First Two Blocks in Three-Cushion Billiard Match.

George Moore emerged victor in the first two blocks of his exhibition three-cushion billiard match with Ralph Greenleaf, the pocket billiard champion, at Klein's Strand Academy yesterday. Moore won the afternoon block by 50 to 47, and the evening block by 50 to 31. Moore gave a remarkable exhibition in the first session, when he had to make an uphill fight after the score stood 46 to 35 against him. He ran out the needed fifteen points in five innings, making a high run of eight in one inning and managing each time to leave Greenleaf safe.

India to Enter Tennis Team In Davis Cup Competition

DELHI, India, Nov. 29.—The committee of the All India Lawn Tennis Association has decided to enter a team to play for the Davis Cup in 1921. This will be the first time that India has formed a team to compete for the lawn tennis classic.

Though little has been known elsewhere of the vogue of tennis in India, it is a fact that the game is by far the most popular of any played in that country and that numerous players of the first class have been produced there. Among them is Mahomed Sleem, whose record includes a victory in 1917 over F. G. Lowe, the famous British internationalist; Lala Ram Aarup, who is considered even better than Mahomed Sleem, if not the foremost player of the land, and Zenzo Shimidzu, the Japanese player, who was a finalist last July in the British championship at Wimbledon, losing to Tilden in that round. Shimidzu learned his tennis in Calcutta.

TIGER FLOOR TEAM ROUNDS INTO SHAPE

Princeton Five in Drive for First Game—Basketball Men on Football Squad Report.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 29.—Princeton's basketball squad today started the final drive for the opening of the season with the game with Brooklyn Polytechnic on Saturday. All of the basketball men who have been on the football team reported. Although several of the gridiron stars have appeared on the court before, Captain Netts postponed calling them out for regular work until this morning.

Coach Sugarman has instituted a new system of practices which calls for night work twice a week in order to accustom the men to the artificial light under which games are played. The new coach considers his material excellent and expects Princeton to be near the top of the league before the season closes.

Dickinson, who played at guard on Princeton's football team this Fall, reported for the first time and will be tried out at centre, the position he played last Winter. Legendre and Davis, Princeton's varsity ends, were added to the list of guard candidates today. Legendre was a regular last Winter and Davis was a substitute in most of the league games. Opie and Wittmer, both basketball letter men, also reported today, as did Cleaves of last year's freshman floor team. Captain Netts has been out since the first practice last week.

The Tigers are short on forwards, due to the graduation of Hynson, last year's Captain. Netts is sure to be at the upper end of the court, and Legendre may be changed from guard to forward. The fight for guard will be a keen one, with such varsity candidates as Wittmer, Opie, Marcett, Davis and several of the 1923 quintet out for the two positions.

Smith Wins Harvard Court Title.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 29.—Robert Smith of Milwaukee won the squash racquets championship of Harvard this afternoon by defeating Henry Janin of San Francisco, the varsity baseball player, four out of five sets.

SEVEN YALE TEAMS BEGIN INDOOR WORK

Large Squads Answer the Call of Coaches—Eighty Boxing Candidates Report.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 29.—Yale opened its Winter sport season tonight when seven teams reported for practice, the basketball and wrestling squads being formed into competitive teams for their first floor practice, while the swimming, water polo, hockey, boxing and fencing teams were called together for training plans to be outlined by coaches and captains. Fifty hockey candidates were addressed by Captain Carson, and Coach Francis Bangs, instructor in English, who, in pursuance of the hockey policy of non-professional coaches, has volunteered his services.

The hockey schedule is as follows: Jan. 8, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; Jan. 15, Princeton at Philadelphia; Jan. 22, Harvard at Boston; Jan. 29, open; Feb. 5, Harvard at Philadelphia; Feb. 12, Dartmouth at Hanover; Feb. 19, Princeton at Boston.

The trip to Dartmouth will mean a renewal of pre-war custom in which Dartmouth invariably plays Yale during the prom time. This year Yale will invade Dartmouth during the Winter sports carnival.

A Christmas trip to Pittsburgh, where Princeton will be played, was announced. Two outdoor rinks will be leased in New Haven and the team will go to the Ice Palace at Philadelphia for its so-called home games and occasional practice. During the holidays, the team will play two games in Philadelphia, one with St. Pauls School, one with Philadelphia.

The boxing squad numbered eighty and was addressed by Captain Eddie Eagan, Olympic champion, and by Coach Mosey King. For the first time matches with rival universities will be permitted by the faculty. Last year a beginning was made when Yale met the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Pennsylvania. All of last year's team except Elliston, the 145-pound representative, are in college.

Captain A. P. Walker of the fencing team announced that Louis Senac, former national champion of France, had been selected coach. Meets have been arranged with Annapolis, Harvard, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Bowdoin. All of last year's team except Captain Leicester have returned to college and tonight they were in the squad of sixty candidates who reported.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

Miss Ashford's Play.

THE YOUNG VISITERS, a play in three acts, made from Daisy Ashford's book by Mrs. George Norman and Margaret MacKenzie. At the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre.

Daisy Ashford	Grace Dougherty
Ethel Monticue	Marie Goff
Mr. Salteena	Herbert Yost
Rosalind	Ruby Gordan
Railway Porter	Albert Shrubl.
Footman	F. Serano Keating
Horace	Robert Brott
Charles	Bernard Savage
Minnit	Charles Hanna
Bernard Clark	Harold Anstrutner
Railway Policeman	Wilfrid Cawthorne
Lady in Pay Desk	Peggy Harvey
Procurio	Frank Hollins
The Earl of Clincham	Lionel Pape
First Menial	Stewart Kemp
Second Menial	Roswell Lowry
The Prince	Leslie Palmer
The Earl of Tullyvarden	Marvin Rapp
The Archduchess of Greenwich	Mary Haswell
Lady Helena Herring	Kathleen Andrus
Lady Gay Finchling	Josephine Bernard
A Duchess	Florence Burdett
An Archduchess	Charlyne Cortlandt
Bessie Topp	Fredericka Greville
A Stray Lady	Ruby Gordan

It seems that at the time Daisy Ashford dashed off her superb novel, "The Young Visiters," or shortly thereafter, she made arrangements for a stage version. For only Miss Ashford herself could have designed the settings, sketched the costumes and arranged the incidental music of the dramatization which was presented here for the first time last evening, after a mildly successful and somewhat fugitive engagement in London. None other could have so felicitously caught the spirit of Mr. Salteena's bedroom in the Crystale Palace or of the sumpshious suite at the Gaierty Hotel. No one else could have executed so neatly the wedding costume of Bernard Clark. And how well she managed with her rather scanty store of musical memories! Wonders are done with "The Spanish Cavalier," "Ta-ra-ra-Boom-de-Ay" and a few mincing tunes picked up at dancing school.

All these are but pleasant details in the play called "The Young Visiters," which has arrived at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre, where a large part of last night's audience found it pretty continuously amusing, despite its bewildering effect on a few alien spirits who were profanely displeased with it. Admirers of Daisy Ashford will find much of it genuinely diverting, though it suffers, as sequels, for instance, are likely to, from having been done before and rather better done. For "A Kiss for Cinderella," the dream play of the little slavey, Barrie found richer treasures by delving into his imagination than he did when he unearthed the long-unpublished manuscript of "The Young Visiters."

It is fun to trail after Mr. Salteena in his quest of high society, most fun of all to accompany him to the small, high-class levee held in Buckingham Palace, not by the Queen, who was not feeling quite herself that day (the signs hung around the palace announced that she was indisposed), but by his Highness, the Prince of Wales, who is represented as a most affable fellow obviously cut by Daisy out of the pages of the Illustrated London News.

The Prince (of course she meant the grandfather of the present incumbent) is an agreeable spectacle, as he eats ices and smokes cigars with the nervous Salteena and his sponsor, the genial Clincham. He is a magnificent spectacle when he hops off in a waltz with her Grace, the Duchess of Greenwich.

But all this is no news to the readers of "The Young Visiters," which has been turned into a play by the simple use of a pair of shears and a pot of paste. Probably no novel was ever so reverently dramatized since the world began.

Herbert Yost as Mr. Salteena, who was not quite a gentleman; Harold Anstruther as the handsome Bernard Clark, who was all of that; Leslie Palmer as the Prince, and Lionel Pape as the Earl of Clincham, these are all excellent in the American production of "The Young Visiters."

It is not possible to speak with like enthusiasm of Marie Goff as the smiling and sprightly Ethel Monticue, commonly known as Miss M. Her performance is a trifle fatiguing. She does not seem to get what the gentlemanly Bernard Clark would have called "the idear" of the comedy. It is greatly to be feared that Miss Ashford herself would have found her playing rather mere.

"BROKEN WING" ROMANTIC.

Dickey-Goddard Comedy a Mixture of Many Kinds of Entertainments.

THE BROKEN WING, a comedy in four acts, by Paul Dickey and Charles W. Goddard. At the Forty-eighth Street Theatre.

General Panfilo Aguilar	Louis Wolheim
Basilio	Joseph Spurin
Sylvester Cross	George Abbott
Ouichita	Mary Worth
Inez Villera	Inez Plummer
Luther Farley	Henry Duggan
Capt. Innocencio Dos Santos	Alphonz Ethier
Jerry Waldron	Walter F. Scott
Philip Marvin	Charles Trowbridge
Marco	George Spelvin
Cecelia	Myrtle Tannehill

"The Broken Wing" is the title of a frequently entertaining but somewhat over-generous comedy of adventure played here for the first time last night at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre. It is a mixed but often jovial play of Mexican setting, the work of the Messrs. Dickey and Goddard, whose several collaborations were perhaps topped by "The Misleading Lady."

Their new work is a compound of a good many kinds of entertainments that have come this way in the past—it contains a touch of "East Is West," a bit of "The Bad Man," a slice of "Under Cover," and a suggestion of Pain's Fireworks. It is always interesting and often amusing, although in the end it strives a bit desperately to please.

The play is a strangely mixed piece of work. It is sprinkled generously with "gringoes," "greasers" and an "adios" or two; its heroine is naive and its sentiment is occasionally quite mawkish, and yet now and then it achieves, apparently with intention, a grand effect of burlesque. It contains a stiff portion of melodrama, and as realistic a scenic effect, in the crashing of an airplane to earth, as has been seen in these parts this season. It contains at least one sentimental moment which is quite real, and then finishes, for good measure, with one of those double-action, secret-service-agent twists.

The scenic effect comes at the close of the first act, when a falling airplane crashes into the Mexican home of the heroine, bringing with it the youth whom she is pleased to welcome as her husband. The walls fall and bodies dangle, and altogether it is a striking effect. Thereafter matters are concerned with a smiling Mexican bandit who claims the girl for his own—she is a Mexican girl, but raised by an American foster-father, and looking with disdaining eyes upon her own kind—and the man of the airplane, who turns out to be a very rich youth indeed.

The authors have not entirely resisted the temptation to woo the easy laugh by causing their heroine to lapse into American slang occasionally, but at other times they keep their play keyed to the level of good adventurous comedy. It is a piece which cries out for the flavorous production which Mr. Belasco, for example, would give it; for a somewhat more capable actress in its leading rôle, and for a somewhat less tricky finale. As it is, the play flounders and disappoints in an overlong last act. By elaborate chicanery a happy ending is achieved; but an unhappy one would have made the piece more effective.

The role of the Lenore Ulric heroine falls to Inez Plummer, who gives a sufficiently workmanlike performance, but simply finds herself in a rôle which calls for a finer actress. The versatile Alphonze Ethier does well with the rôle of the Mexican bandit, and Charles Trowbridge is more than acceptable as the man of the airplane. Probably the most effective performance of the evening, however, is given by George Abbott in a semi-comedy rôle—a thoroughly lifelike characterization. There is a good bit, also, by Joseph Spurin as a Mexican.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES THREE NEW MINISTERS

Dominican Diplomat Praises "Altruistic and Humanitarian Spirit" of the Administration.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Three new Latin American Ministers were received at the White House today by President Wilson. They were Dr. Octavio Beeche of Costa Rica, Dr. Julio Bianchi of Guatemala and Emilio Joubert of the Dominican Republic. The presentations were made by Norman H. Davis, Under-Secretary of State, who accompanied the diplomats to the White House.

Dr. Beeche is the first diplomatic representative Costa Rica has had in Washington since early in the war, when the United States broke off diplomatic relations with the Central American Republic because of a revolutionary Government which gained control.

The Minister of the Dominican Republic is not new to Washington, having served his Government here twice before, in 1899 as Chargé d'Affaires for a short period, and from 1905 to 1912 as Chargé d'Affaires and Minister Resident and then as Minister Plenipotentiary.

President Wilson in welcoming the Dominican Minister referred to the difficulties in that country which led to American intervention, speaking of the "unselfish and disinterested motives of the United States in giving its friendly and sympathetic assistance to the Dominican Republic in the adjustment and settlement of the difficulties which beset it." The President also referred to the previous service here of the Minister and said he had no doubt that M. Joubert would continue to "direct his efforts toward the promotion of the interests which are common to both countries, an end to which my own endeavors will continue to aim."

The Minister in presenting his credentials said, in part:

"The altruistic and humanitarian spirit that has characterized your Excellency's Administration, the noble record of the people of the United States as a chivalrous champion of justice and right, are constant proof that in the relations of your Government with the people of the Dominican Republic there could be no other sentiments than those of sympathy for the young Republic in her misfortunes, nor any other purposes than these inspired by lofty and generous intentions, without a doubt, as those inspiring the best and most disinterested of our citizens."

WILSON DECIDES TO WRITE.

He Will Remain in Washington—Tumulty Also to Tell Story.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Although it has been generally understood that President Wilson after he leaves the White House on March 4 will devote his time to writing, this fact became known today with a degree of finality. It also became known that Mr. Wilson will make his home in Washington, but thus far he has not obtained a residence.

Joseph P. Tumulty, the President's secretary, also plans to remain in Washington after March 4, and he intends to write some books about the President, with whom he has been associated for the last ten years. Mr. Tumulty has been offered a place on the Customs Court of Appeals, but he has reached no decision as to accepting the appointment.

ZIMBALIST CONDUCTS.

Composer of "Honeydew" Receives a Wreath at 125th Performance.

"Honeydew" reached its 125th performance at the Casino Theatre last night, and the occasion was made notable by the fact that Efrem Zimbalist, the composer, conducted for the first time in his life. At the end of the second act a wreath of laurel was presented to him by the Bohemian Musicians Club of New York.

Many well known people in society and the world of music witnessed the performance, among them Dr. Frank Damrosch, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Damrosch, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, 2d, Mr. and Mrs. William Delano, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schelling, Benno Moiseiwitsch the famous pianist, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney and Mme. Alma Gluck, the wife of the composer of "Honeydew."

Marta de la Torre, Violinist, Plays.

Marta de la Torre, a girl violinist of dark Spanish type, whom the Cuban Government sent as student to Gevaert and Cesar Thomson in Brussels some years ago, made a local debut last evening in Aeolian Hall. She gave a tasteful performance of Tartini's classic D-minor concerto, then attempted with piano a more exacting modern one, Glazounow's Opus 82, with little pieces arranged by Loeffler and Kreisler, and Bazzini's Ronde des Lutins. After many Pan-American pianists, the young Cuban woman was the first fiddler to arrive here from the South, and while she is not yet a finished artist, her modest introduction was made in a hall suited to her powers and before an audience of evident sympathy. Emanuel Balaban assisted at the piano.

New Revue on Century Promenade.

A revised version of the "Century Midnight Revue" was offered on the Century Promenade last night by the Shuberts. The new revue takes the place of "The Midnight Rounders," and the entertainers include Marguerite Farrell, Tot Qualters, Peggy and Cortez, Jeanette Dietrich, Helen Lewis, Mijares Brothers, Bickie Ford and Ruth Hazelton, Lester Sharpe and Herbert Sherman. The 9 o'clock show will be omitted for the present, but the roof will be opened at 6 o'clock for dining and dancing.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening date of "Corners" at the Astor will be Wednesday of next week. Madge Kennedy will return to the stage in this piece.

Mr. and Mrs. Coburn will revive "The Yellow Jacket" for special matinees at the Cort Theatre, beginning Tuesday, Jan. 4.

"Sally," the new Ziegfeld production, opened last night at the Academy of Music in Baltimore. Marilynn Miller and Leon Errol head the cast.

Frank Smithson, the stage director, has returned to New York after seven months in London, where he staged a number of revues.

"The Life of the Party," with Roscoe Arbuckle in the leading role, which was at the Rivoli Theatre last week, has gone into a second week on Broadway at the Rialto.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

Daisy Kennedy's Violin Recital.

Something other than one more in the interminable procession of violinists, which takes the whole season to pass a given point in Aeolian Hall, was made known there yesterday in the first appearance of Daisy Kennedy. She is of Australian birth, but studied in Europe, and has recently lived in England, being in private life Mrs. Benno Moiseiwitsch.

Miss Kennedy is distinctly an artistic personality by herself; a player of great vigor, an almost masculine vigor, in fact, domination and decisiveness. She has an admirable command of the mechanism of her art; a large, though not always a warm tone, a bow arm of sweeping power and elasticity, facility on the finger board and precision of intonation. Nor is she without feeling for some of the subtler qualities of sentiment, though these seemed less prominent in her playing yesterday afternoon than some other characteristics. She showed a well-defined appreciation of style in the performance of a group of pieces by eighteenth century Italian masters, some of whose names are not widely familiar here: Tartini, Nardini, Milandre, Barbella, Pugnani. Her playing of Tartini's variations on a theme by Corelli was of splendid power, as was that of Kreisler's familiar arrangement of Pugnani's Praeludium and Allegro.

In Bach's unaccompanied suite in B minor Miss Kennedy displayed a real authority and something of the grand manner. She followed this with Paganini's concerto in D and with a group of modern titbits by Nandor Zsolt, a Hungarian composer whose name is a strange one here; Zimbalist, Cyril Scott and Kreisler. It was amply made evident in her playing that Miss Kennedy is an artist of stimulating quality whose participation in the musical life of New York is likely to give it interesting contributions.

"TRISTAN" SUNG AGAIN.

Big Audience Welcomes Wagner's Music Drama at Metropolitan.

Wagner's "Tristan" in English opened the third week of opera at the Metropolitan last evening, when a large audience again welcomed the music drama as revived under Mr. Bodanzky's artistic direction and sung by Mmes. Matzenauer and Gordon, Messrs. Sembach, Whitehill and Blass, with perhaps more freedom than at the new version's one previous hearing. Many listeners brought librettos, as if indicating a heightened interest in the music's words, or an actual unfamiliarity with "Tristan," shared, it is said, by some of the company's young singers today.

The social Monday house was a brilliant one, though some of the owners' boxes remained unfilled; the early overture was played to an empty parterre, and late arrivals in orchestra chairs ran the fire of an occasional hiss from hushed enthusiasts behind the brass rails. It was a musical assembly, that followed the four hours of performance as in the old days, and recalled the artists many times at each curtainfall.

comfort this winter
WOULDN'T you like to escape all the work and worry of keeping house this winter, including the problem of keeping warm, and the servant question?
You can do it at my hotel—and live for about the same expense as at home. Your apartment at the BRISTOL will be cozy and comfortable. My housekeeper takes pride in neat housekeeping. We have good maids, well-trained, and most of them have been with us a long time.
Let me show you some of our cozy two-room suites with bath—you'll like the "homey" atmosphere.
And I think our cooking is more nearly like good home fare than you ever tasted in a hotel. A la carte—or fixed price, with a simple tasty luncheon 50 cents and a good substantial dinner $1.00.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The gales on the middle Atlantic have subsided and high pressure now covers the Eastern States. A disturbance of moderate intensity maintains its centre over Missouri, but it is diminishing in intensity. It has been attended by rain, however, in the last twenty-four hours in the Mississippi Valley and rains and snows in the middle plains States. The pressure is also abnormally high over the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions and low over the Western Canadian Provinces.

Temperatures approximately normal for this date prevail generally over the United States. The outlook is for cloudy, unsettled weather Tuesday and Wednesday generally east of the Mississippi River. There is a probability of rains in the regions of the Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the Middle Atlantic and South Atlantic States.

The temperature will rise somewhat in the Middle Atlantic and New England States and it will change little elsewhere east of the Mississippi River during Tuesday and Wednesday.

FORECAST TODAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Northern and Southern New England—Cloudy and somewhat warmer Tuesday. Wednesday unsettled.

Eastern New York—Cloudy and somewhat warmer Tuesday. Wednesday unsettled.

New Jersey—Unsettled and somewhat warmer Tuesday and Wednesday; probably with occasional rain.

Western New York—Cloudy Tuesday. Wednesday probably rain.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1920.	1919.		1920.	1919.
3 A. M.	35	40	4 P. M.	38	48
6 A. M.	35	42	6 P. M.	35	51
9 A. M.	37	44	9 P. M.	37	56
12 M.	37	46	11 P. M.	38	50

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 38; for the corresponding date last year it was 48; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 39.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 35; at 8 P. M. it was 37. Maximum temperature, 42 degrees at 3:40 P. M.; minimum, 34 degrees at 5:45 A. M. Humidity, 69 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 76 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.54 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.60 inches.

City.

The following eligible list for mate, municipal ferry service, is announced: John J. Connelly, 90.40; William David, 84; William Fisher, 82.80; Patrick O'Shaughnessy, 77.

United States.

The commission announces an examination for power house engineer, male, age 25 to 45, at the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., at $1,200 a year. After six months appointees may be allowed the increase granted by Congress of $20 a month. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability, 40; training and experience, 60. Applicants must have had at least four years of general power plant experience of a character tending to qualify them, of which at least one year must have been in responsible charge. Each completed year of a mechanical engineering course in a college or technical school of recognized standing will be accepted as equivalent to not more than nine months of general power plant experience. Age limits do not apply to persons entitled to preference because of military or naval service. Classified employes who have reached the retirement age and have served fifteen years are entitled to retirement with an annuity.

JERSEY REPUBLICANS PICK HOUSE LEADERS

George S. Hobart Expected to Win Over Senator Edge's Choice for Speaker.

CAUCUS TO BE HELD TODAY

Hudson County to Get Its First Good Share of Patronage In Many Years.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 29.—Conferences of Republican leaders in Trenton, and in Essex, Hudson and Camden counties, it was said at the State House today, have resulted in an agreement to select Assemblyman-elect George S. Hobart of Essex for Speaker of the House. Assemblyman T. Harry Rowland of Camden is said to have been chosen for majority leader. The Republican Assembly caucus will be held in the State House tomorrow, and it is regarded as certain this slate will be put through.

United States Senator Edge has been backing Assemblyman Harry G. Hershfield of Passaic, present majority leader, for Speaker, and will line up Hudson for him, with 12 votes, Passaic with 5, Bergen with 3 and Atlantic with 2. Hobart's strength, with the Camden-Essex combination as the basis for the Hobart-Howland slate, will, it is said, come from Camden, Cape May, Cumberland, Essex, Salem, Somerset and Union counties. Union, it is understood, will support Hobart when it is found that Assemblyman Arthur N. Pierson of that county is not a factor in the Speakership contest.

At tomorrow's conference a steering committee will be appointed to apportion the Assembly patronage in the way of Legislative offices, and Hudson, for the first time in many years, will get a good slice, it is said. An Assembly conference committee also will be named to meet a similar committee from the Senate and formulate bills covering Republican platform pledges. The measures probably will be ready for introduction the first day of the session, Jan. 11.

It was reported today that Mrs. Jennie C. Van Ness of Orange would be placed on the House Education Committee. She is one of two Assemblywomen.

Assemblyman Hobart is regarded as a pronounced dry, but, aside from the repeal of the Edwards beer law and an attempt at some sort of enforcement legislation on prohibition, it was said in Republican circles the Legislature would do nothing on the liquor issue. It was declared there was little chance for enforcement legislation, on the ground that the present State laws, if enforced, would be sufficient to keep New Jersey dry.

APPRAISAL ENRICHES HEIRS.

Inventory Trebles Estimated Value of Sturgis Estate.

Those who inherit under the will of the late Arthur Pemberton Sturgis, who died at the Plaza in June of last year, enjoyed an agreeable surprise to find yesterday that the estate, thought to be worth about $300,000, had been found on appraisal to be worth nearly $1,000,000. The inventory filed during the day in the Surrogate's office shows a net value of $987,036, with these details: Cash, $73,803; personalty, $11,516; stocks and bonds, $806,959, the largest holding being $130,500 in Liberty bonds, and additional assets, $690.

Princeton University and St. Paul's School at Concord, N. H., from both of which Mr. Sturgis graduated, will receive $50,000 each. There are also legacies of $5,000 each for St. Mary's Free Hospital for Children and the Racquet and Tennis Club, and others for these friends: Mary A. Wilmot of 217 East Sixteenth Street, Henry Fairfield Osborn, Jr., 40 East Sixty-second Street; Charles Day Halsey Jr., 37 East Fiftieth Street; Charles A. Van Rensselaer Jr., 180 East Fifty-sixth Street, and Ford Huntington, 42 East Eightieth Street.

THEFT AT SMITH COLLEGE.

Springfield Woman Is Held for Alleged Larceny From Students.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Nov. 29.—Florence M. Davis, who said her home was in Springfield, pleaded guilty and was held for the Grand Jury in $5,000 bonds in District Court here today on charges of theft from Smith College student houses. One count charged the theft of a fur coat valued at $500, and the others covered the larceny of money amounting to more than $100 in sums ranging from $1 to $62.

Her method, the authorities say, was to enter the dormitories in pretended search for certain students. She told the court that her husband is confined by illness to a hospital in Dover.

POLICE HEADS MAKE MIDNIGHT ROUNDS

Visit Stations and Patrolmen on Beats—Leach Is Silent on Unsolved Crimes.

In order to obtain first-hand information on police administration and efficiency of the police in these days when it is charged that a crime wave threatens the city, Acting Police Commissioner John A. Leach, Chief Inspector William J. Lahey and other police officials have begun a series of midnight inspection tours to the various police stations throughout the city.

This was made known, yesterday, by Commissioner Leach when he was asked whether he had any comment to make regarding a published compilation of undetected crimes in this city.

The midnight investigators, it was reported, also are making unannounced tours to find out whether policemen are doing their duty.

Commissioner Leach did not specify what phase of police work it was desirable to study at this time, nor what accomplishment would result. Unofficially, it was said, the deputies were gathering information to be presented to Commissioner Richard E. Enright on his return from his vacation, about Dec. 15, and to be used by him in working out certain reorganization plans.

It also was reported that one of the purposes of the inspections was to check up on reports of conditions received from inspection district and precinct commanders. The midnight visits have revived talk of a shakeup within the department.

In a recent letter to Commissioner Enright the Mayor charged that the "crime wave" was manufactured by burglary insurance companies. Commissioner Leach said he had no comment to make on the published list of unsolved crimes in New York since the first of the year.

Meat Prices Fall in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 29.—A general cutting of retail meat prices ranging from 3 to 11 cents a pound was in evidence throughout the city today. Prices that have been coming down gradually for two weeks reached new low levels. Bacon was cut from 46 to 35 cents.

HARDING IN PILGRIMS ORDER

Taft and Lodge Also Selected by New Organization.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 29.—The Order of the Pilgrims, a new national organization, created by the General Court of the National Society of the Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims, at a meeting here announced today that the first fifty members elected included former President Taft, President-elect Harding, United States Senators Lodge and Colt and Bishop James DeWolf Perry.

Membership is limited to Pilgrim descendants of distinguished ancestry and political or patriotic service.

Harding's California Lead 395,000.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—Harding carried California over Cox by 395,801 votes, according to the official canvass of the Secretary of State. Harding had 624,992 and Cox 229,191. The Socialists polled 64,076 votes and the Prohibitionists 25,204.

A MOST UNUSUAL

of

Exchanged Phonographs

Instruments of Leading Makes

Savings of 20 to 50%

THE prices of new phonographs are rigidly maintained. And before the advent of the Aeolian-Vocalion, the exchange business in these instruments was negligible—too small to make Special Sales worth while.

Since the Aeolian-Vocalion was put upon the market, however, this condition has changed. The Aeolian-Vocalion, with its notable superiority of tone and appearance, and its new and fascinating features, serves to induce a large volume of exchanges.

Great Price Reductions

It is the accumulation of these exchanged instruments which is to be disposed of in the present event. Here are phonographs of leading and standard makes—all in perfect condition and so guaranteed—and at all prices, representing radical reductions from their regular cost. Every one of these phonographs has been through the hands of expert Aeolian repairmen and mechanics, and at the price asked for it constitutes an extraordinary bargain.

Many Distinguished Makes

We invite you to attend this Sale. If you have decided on any particular make or style of phonograph, you will probably find it here. Its price and the terms on which you can purchase it will be far more favorable than you have ever had reason to anticipate.

And even though you may not purchase, your visit will be enjoyable through the opportunity to see and hear the Vocalion—the phonograph that enables you to play the music yourself.

Prices from $20 upward

Monthly Terms as low as

Harding's Favorite Story Book

President-elect Harding says: "One of my favorite authors is Edgar Saltus. I suppose I have read his 'Imperial Purple' two or three times, but last night when I took it to bed with me I reread the whole thing and I didn't get to sleep until after 1 o'clock."

This happened just two nights before Senator Harding was elected President.

"The Imperial Orgy," which is about the lusts, madnesses, and orgies of the Russian Tsars, from the First to the Last, is even more vivid and colorful than "Imperial Purple," which was about the Caesars. "The Imperial Orgy" is undoubtedly the most fascinating book Mr. Saltus has ever written.

A particularly attractive gift-book, with its beautiful paper and binding, large readable type, double-page frontispiece and 12 half-tone illustrations. Large 12mo, $3.00.

CONSTANTINE READY TO START FOR HOME

Awaits Only the Word From Athens—Agent Goes to Stage His Triumph.

FRENCH VIEW OF TREATY

Foreign Office Inclined to Let It "Revise Itself"; i. e., Give Turks Free Hand.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LUCERNE, Nov. 29.—Constantine and his fellow exiles here have made preparations for their return to Athens as soon as the result of next Sunday's plebiscite is announced. A special train has been chartered, and the Italian Government has guaranteed its safe passage through to Brindisi, whence a warship will convey the party, including Queen Sophia and other members of the royal family, to Phaleron, a small bay about four miles from the Greek capital.

"All the King's horses" are being mobilized to assist in his triumph, for which purpose Count Meratti, formerly Master of the Stables, who is now in London, is leaving that city for Athens today.

The exact date of Constantine's departure is not fixed; "but," said a member of the royal suite to me today, "that doesn't matter, because our servants have everything so arranged that they can pack up in three hours."

LUCERNE, Nov. 29 (Associated Press).—In the opinion of Professor Georgios Streit, Constantine's friend and counselor, Venizelos should not have left Greece. He told newspaper men today that if the ex-Premier had remained he would have been safe.

"I cannot understand," said Constantine's spokesman, who is also regarded here as the power behind the ex-King, "why Venizelos left Greece after the elections. Of course, Constantine would have liked to give him a post of honor in the new Government had he remained in Greece. Venizelos was badly advised, and failed to get the psychology of the Greek people."

It was suggested that possibly the former Premier feared he would be thrown into prison as a political prisoner, as, it was said, the adherents of Constantine were when Constantine was forced to leave Athens.

"At that time," said Professor Streit, "there was a revolution, and a revolution means government by force. The present situation is the result of the operation of the orderly and legal machinery of government. The force of legal government is an orderly process. Under such circumstances the adherents of the defeated party should and would be immune from violence or arrest.

"Venizelos would have been perfectly safe in remaining. It has been said that we have accused Venizelos of being the enemy of Greece. No sane Greek could think such a thing. Venizelos has been and is a patriot and has done great things for his country."

Professor Streit was questioned as to whether the new Government would still welcome Venizelos into it if he returned, but he confined himself to dealing with the past.

Trying to Conciliate the Entente.

ATHENS, Nov. 29 (Associated Press).—The Greek Government, according to its newspaper organ, will soon address a new note to the Entente Powers setting forth its policy and declaring that it will assume all the obligations contracted by the Venizelos Administration toward the Allies. This will apply not only to political and military, but also to financial and economic engagements, all of which will be ratified.

The Greek press is publishing long editorials tending to show that former King Constantine is not pro-German and that there is no pro-German sentiment here. They contend that the Allies should continue to favor Greece, particularly in a financial way. It is asserted that the present chaotic condition is due to contracts made by the old Government, which was preparing to exploit Thrace and Smyrna.

Greek business is at a standstill. This is attributed to the uncertainty as to what course the Allies will pursue, resulting in a lowering of the exchange rate. It is declared that Greece's balance sheet compares favorably with those of other countries, the total debt amounting to upward of $500,000,000, including $150,000,000 in paper money in circulation. Greece's income is estimated at 500,000,000 drachmas (normally about $100,000,000) and her expenditures at 1,400,000,000 drachmas, including the money which must be spent in the new provinces, in the maintenance of refugees and for the army and navy.

Bitterness is expressed against French and British financiers who opened large credits and are then alleged to have encouraged lavish spending, thereby tightening their grip on the country. It is feared that the export trade is imperiled, as Greece has abrogated her commercial treaties, preparatory to negotiating new ones, and high duties may shut out Greek trade. Remittances from Greek nationals in the United States are cited as a good asset.

The port of Piraeus is crowded with American and British merchandise shipped here on consignment, but not accepted on account of the unfavorable exchange. The merchandise is valued at millions of dollars.

Not only banks but commercial securities, have slumped heavily recently.

The Greek cruiser Averof has been ordered to proceed from Constantinople to Piraeus and to prepare to go thence to Brindisi, escorted by all the other Greek warships, to bring back Constantine after the plebiscite.

"The benefits of the Turkish treaty," said Demetrios Gounaris, Minister of War, to The Associated Press today, "should in any case come to Greece, because they were not given her because of the personal influence of former Premier Venizelos."

Followers of the former Premier, as a party, are officially requested by their party leaders not to take part in the plebiscite. They point out that the plebiscite will be held in order to clear the present Cabinet and also Constantine of responsibility, and to make the Greek people responsible for whatever consequences the return of the former King may have.

The newspaper Hestia, the Government organ, says that the present Greek Government has received no unfavorable word from the Allies regarding its actions, and that the plebiscite has been planned in accord with declarations made by ex-Premier Ribot of France when Constantine was dethroned. He declared, the newspaper says, that dynastic questions should be settled by the Greek Parliament. It is argued that the plebiscite will be a step in this direction.

Premier Rhallis has visited Ministers of foreign countries to deny reports that officers' associations are being re-organized for the purpose of taking military measures against foreigners.

Returns from the vote cast by the army in the election of Nov. 14 show that it will give the followers of Constantine a larger majority in the Chamber. It is reported that 50,000 ballots cast by the army were fraudulent.

Important British and French squadrons have arrived at Phaleron from Constantinople. So far, no foreign Ministers have left Athens.

Prince Christopher, brother of Constantine, has stated in an interview that the defeat of M. Venizelos was due to the fact that because of his foreign policy the Greeks felt they were reduced to the position of a colony. He declares it is false that Constantine was a pro-German, and asserts he was merely pro-Greek.

"It would be folly," he adds, "to be pro-German today, with Germany so low. Greece wants only to live in peace. This is Constantine's program."

An official denial has been issued of the statement intended to charge M. Venizelos with treason, violation of the Constitution or waste of public funds.

The decree ordering the plebiscite provides for voting by the army.

M. Lambraki, chief editor of the Patris, who is the only Venizelist editor continuously outspoken, warns the Cabinet that the Entente Governments will lose faith in Greece if the Cabinet recalls all those discredited under the Venizelos administration.

The police searching a house in Athens today accidentally discovered, according to their own statement, all the documents connected with a Venizelos revolutionary Government at Saloniki.

Expect Reconquest by Turks.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—To let the Turkish treaty revise itself if the Allies cannot agree upon its revision is said to be the official French plan that will be presented to Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain and Count Sforza, the Italian Foreign Minister, when Premier Leygues returns to London tomorrow for the resumption of the conferences between these representatives of the three powers with regard to the Greek and other pressing situations. Intimations to this effect were given in official quarters today.

By letting the treaty revise itself the French Foreign Office means, it was explained, that if French and British support is withdrawn from Greece the Turks can regain much of the territory taken from them by the treaty, although the Allies will make sure of retaining their hold upon the Straits of the Dardanelles and the Turkish finances.

Of the five Entente powers which signed the treaty—Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Japan—three must ratify it to make it effective. Attention was called by the Foreign Office to the fact that none of these had as yet ratified the treaty, and that it appeared unlikely that any three of them would do so now, nor was there expectation that Turkey herself would effect ratification in the present circumstances.

Revision of the Turkish treaty, with a view of stopping the spread of Bolshevism in the Orient, and French negotiations with the Turkish Nationalists, so as to enable Cilicia to be evacuated, are given by the Temps in a long editorial on the Near East problem today as the obviously necessary courses growing out of the present situation. The newspaper cites official figures to show the need either of Greece continuing her Turkish campaign or the Allies bringing about peace in Asia Minor.

The French losses in their campaign have been costly, it is explained, and even if the Greek campaign were continued by Constantine, his 180,000 troops would be necessary to police the territory, it is argued, while the Bolsheviki have large forces behind the Turkish Nationalists, who have been supported by the Moscow Government.

"The common interest of the Allies," says the Temps, "requires the revision of the Treaty of Sevres so as to make peace with the Turks and stop the progress of Bolshevism in Asia Minor. France's legitimate interests demand that she also, in her turn, enter into direct relations with the Turkish Nationalists so as to obtain guarantees in exchange for which she can evacuate Cilicia."

Athos Romanos, Greek Minister to France, today informed the Foreign Office that his resignation, submitted Nov. 17 as a result of the defeat of the Venizelos Government in the Greek elections, has been accepted.

The Athens Government, M. Romanos said, was sending Pierre Metaxas as Chargé d'Affaires to take over the legation in Paris.

Only Informal Conferences in London.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Premier Lloyd George informed the House of Commons today that it would be impossible to make any statement on Greek affairs while they were under discussion by the Allies.

The Italian Foreign Minister, Count Sforza, had a conference with Earl Curzon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, this afternoon, and there were other conversations between the allied Ministers still in London, but all these discussions, pending the return of M. Leygues, the French Premier, were purely informal.

A favorable view of the negotiations, however, is taken, especially as the report has reached London through Lucerne that the Greek Government has addressed a communication to the allied Ministers at Athens, assuring them that all obligations assumed by the Venizelos Government toward the Allies will be recognized by the new Government.

Premier Leygues of France, before leaving here for Paris this morning, visited the Italian Foreign Minister, Count Sforza, at the latter's hotel for a few minutes and expressed his regret that affairs in the French Chamber of Deputies made his presence there necessary. He promised to return to London at the earliest possible moment.

British officials expressed the belief this morning that the main controversy when the conference was resumed was likely to be over the revision of the Turkish treaty, desired by France and Italy and opposed by Great Britain. The British view, however, is that the differences are not so great that a compromise cannot be reached, if it is nothing more than a postponement of consideration of the question.

TOULON, France, Nov. 29.—The French battleship Lorraine left here for Piraeus, Greece, today. The cruiser Ernest Renan departed for the same destination last night, while the armored cruiser Waldeck-Rousseau, which has been at Constantinople, arrived at Piraeus Friday.

One more battleship, three cruisers and several torpedo boats have been ordered to proceed to Piraeus, and the French will have a formidable squadron in that port by Dec. 5.

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Before the war Germany consumed yearly 6,000,000 bottles of champagne. She now drinks 10,000,000.

Her pre-war champagne bill of 36,000,000 marks had an average cost per bottle of six marks. Now the cost is 100 marks per bottle. So that ruined Germany is spending 1,000,000,000 marks on champagne alone.

Little more than half a mark per head was spent on this drink by rich and prosperous Germany. The present Germany is spending 18 marks per head.

This morning the sporting papers are delighted that another record has been broken during Berlin's racing season just ended. Nearly 442,000,000 marks were spent in betting against 203,000,000 last year.

It is a pretty bill, champagne and betting, 1,442,000,000 marks.

KARS RECAPTURED BY THE ARMENIANS

New Armistice Signed by Turks—Armenian Veterans Here Offer Services to League.

IZZET GOING TO SEE KEMAL

Turkish Cabinet Hopes for Reconciliation With the Nationalists—French Repel Attack.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 29 (Associated Press).—The Armenians have recaptured Kars after defeating the Kemal forces, according to the Armenian newspapers. The Turks lost severely owing to lack of transport and the wintry weather. One paper says that 7,000 Turks were frozen to death.

A new armistice under more favorable conditions was signed on Nov. 18.

Izzet Pasha, Turkish Minister of the Interior, said today that he would leave soon for Angora, headquarters of the Turkish Nationalists, to exchange views with Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Nationalist leader.

"I consider the chances of coming to terms on an agreement and political reconciliation favorable. The Anatolians are a peace-loving people, unalterably opposed to Bolshevism."

Colonel J. P. Coombs, Director of the American Near East Relief, telegraphed today from Samsun, on the Black Sea, that the situation of the Americans there has not been changed.

Colonel Coombs said he expected to obtain authorization from the Turkish Nationalist headquarters in Angora to proceed into the interior shortly.

The Near East Relief in this city yesterday received the following cablegram from the diplomatic representatives of Armenia in Constantinople:

"On Nov. 16 the Armenian Army recaptured Kars. The Armenian forces are advancing toward the frontiers of Turkey. The Turks asked for an armistice on Nov. 18."

The report was received with skepticism by the Near East Relief, since a Washington dispatch of Nov. 16 reported that the Government of Armenia had been forced to agree to an armistice imposed by the victorious Turks, then in possession of Alexandropol.

Dr. Garo Pasdermadjian, Armenian Minister to the United States, who is in New York for a few days, said that the reported capture of Kars by the Armenians was entirely possible.

President Wilson was urged to demand redemption of allied pledges to Armenia in a message forwarded to Washington by the American Committee for Armenian Independence, made public here yesterday. Recognition of a "united, and not an anatomized Armenia" was asked.

The communication suggested that the President replying to the League of Nations' request for assistance in behalf of Armenia, might bring pressure to bear upon the allied nations.

The committee announced that Armenian veterans of the World War in America have cabled the League of Nations Assembly placing themselves at its disposal to defend Armenia. Thousands of Armenians in other parts of the world, the statement said, are also prepared to volunteer.

Armenia May Go Bolshevist.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—While the League of Nations at Geneva is discussing how to deliver Armenia from the grip of Mustapha Kemal, it appears that Armenia itself has taken, or is likely soon to take, shelter in the arms of Soviet Russia.

For some days a rumor of an armistice between Mustapha and Armenia has been circulated. It is believed that what has happened is that the Armenians have decided to form some sort of Soviet Government of their own which will bring them under the "protection" of Russia.

Of their two aggressors, they fear the Russians less and prefer the comparative quiet which Georgia and Azerbaijan enjoy under Russian protection to the present disastrous struggle for independence. Confirmation of this state of affairs has been received in the information that Mustapha and the Soviets are having difficulties in agreeing.

While accepting Mustapha as a helpful troublemaker, the Russians think he should employ his forces against the capitalistic Governments of Greece, France and England and leave the Armenians alone. Those Armenians, too, who are within Russian territory have been busy working on the feelings of the Russians that their countrymen should be saved from the Turk.

The situation, therefore, from the Armenian viewpoint is more hopeful than it has been, but if events turn out as expected it is more likely to be Soviet Russia than the League of Nations which will be the savior of Armenia.

BISHOP ASKS ARMENIAN AID.

Dr. Darlington, Episcopal Emissary, Describes Conditions in Far East.

At the close of an address on "Reunion with the Eastern Church," the Right Rev. James Henry Darlington, Episcopal Bishop of Harrisburg, Pa., last evening in the Church of the Transfiguration, appealed to all present to send four letters, postal-cards or telegrams to Washington at once, asking that this Government immediately dispatch aid to Armenia.

Bishop Darlington spoke as Chairman of the Commission of the Episcopal Church for Closer Relations with the Eastern Orthodox Church. He told in detail of his trip of last Summer during which he interviewed the Metropolitan or Patriarch of almost every national church and placed before each a document containing the proposed basis of reunion.

The Bishop said Archbishop Platon, the Patriarch of Russia, had signed the proposed Basis of Reunion and had granted to all clergymen of the Episcopal Church the freedom of the altars in the Russian Church.

WANTS SOVIET RECOGNIZED.

Meyer London Plans to Offer a Resolution in Congress.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—A resolution demanding immediate peace with Russia and recognition of the Soviet régime probably will be introduced in Congress next month by Meyer London, Socialist Congressman-elect from New York, national headquarters of the Socialist Party here announced today. Mr. London will confer with the National Executive Committee here Dec. 4, 5 and 6, to plan his Congressional program.

Other measures which he is expected to advocate are immediate peace with Germany and repeal of wartime legislation, and an amnesty for all men and women in prison, or under conviction or indictment for writings and speeches which would not be punished under peace time laws including freedom for Eugene V. Debs, now in Atlanta prison, twenty-year sentence.

DOORN, Holland, Nov. 29.—The ex-Kaiser's Berlin Chaplain, Dr. Dryander, officiated at a special service for her in Doorn Chapel, which was attended by the largest number of Hohenzollerns yet gathered at Doorn. Besides the Duke and Duchess of Brunswick, the Princes Eitel Friedrich, Oscar and Adalbert, with their wives and the whole staff of Doorn House were present.

Special prayers were read for the ex-Kaiserin. Her husband appeared greatly moved during the service.

Harding in Rough Sea on His Way Home; Will Make a 5-Hour Stop Today in Jamaica

ON BOARD STEAMER PASTORES, Nov. 29—(By Wireless to The Associated Press).—Homeward bound from his vacation trip to the Canal Zone, President-elect Harding today told friends aboard this vessel that he was greatly pleased with the results of his visit to the Isthmus.

The Senator said that not only had he enjoyed his recreation and outing, but that he had gained much practical knowledge about the problems connected with the operation of the canal and had exchanged courtesies with the officials of the Republic of Panama which he believed would help toward the maintenance of friendship between the two nations.

The Pastores, which left Cristobal yesterday, encountered rough seas during the night, but got into much better weather today as she headed northeastward toward Jamaica, where a short stop will be made tomorrow.

There are fifty passengers aboard the Pastores in addition to the forty members of the Harding party.

The Pastores today was heading northeast across the Caribbean Sea. Though Captain Glenn classified the disturbance as moderate, it was stiff enough to try the seamanship of the passengers. Mrs. Harding kept to her stateroom, but the President-elect was on deck most of the day, amusing himself with the usual ship games.

Several rainstorms occurred during the day's run, but during the greater part of the time the sun was out.

The Pastores will reach Jamaica some time tomorrow morning, provided the present speed is maintained. A five-hour stop will be made at Kingston, during which the party will take a sight-seeing trip across the island as the guest of the Governor.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 29.—Today the following wireless message was sent to Senator Harding by the Jamaica Imperial Association:

"The Jamaica Imperial Association, representing planters, merchants, professional men and agriculturists of Jamaica, extends to Senator Harding, President-elect of the United States, a hearty welcome to Jamaica and congratulates him on his election, and the great majority of the association regrets the stay of the President-elect in Jamaica will be so short. It hopes that while in Jamaica he will have an enjoyable and interesting experience."

DARING STORM FIGHT SAVED SWAN'S CREW

Capt. Glynn and Coast Guards Used Breeches Buoy and Surf Boat for Mine Sweeper.

SOME ALMOST DROWNED

Story of Thrilling Rescue of 56 Men Is Told After Communication Is Restored.

DUXBURY, Mass., Nov. 29.—The mine-sweeper Swan, remembered as a wartime figure for its part in laying the North Sea barrage, was a wreck on the Gurnet sand spit today with her crew safe ashore as a result of the life-saving exploits of Captain Jack Glynn and his coast guard crew. After the Swan was driven on the shoals in a northeast gale late yesterday, the guards of the Gurnet station brought the fifty-six men who were aboard to safety through mountainous seas, some of them almost drowned by the storm-driven waters.

Early this evening the Swan appeared to be in an easy position and the crew went back on board. The Navy Department ordered the mine-sweeper Chewink to proceed from the Portsmouth Navy Yard tomorrow to attempt to float the stranded vessel.

Rescue work was done by breeches buoy and surf boat. Captain Glynn had his rigging for the breeches ferry up and working in a jiffy. It was a task that tried the ten men of the Gurnet crew at the outset, but after they had landed a number of men from the Swan the breeches buoy operation was left to the latter and Captain Glynn turned to his surf boat apparatus to double the rescue activities. After it was erected and put to work men were brought through the tumbling seas over two lines.

Fifty-five men had left the Swan drenched but unharmed before Lieutenant Joseph K. Konieczny, commanding the mine sweeper, quit his ship, the last to leave, in accordance with the tradition of the sea. Today Lieutenant Konieczny stood by the wreck, which had been driven far up on the beach overnight, planning a means of salvage. He was notified by radio that the destroyer Mahan was on the way from the Boston Navy Yard and that the coast guard cutter Androscoggin would also help.

The Swan was engaged in salvage work when the storm struck her. Oil Barge No. 13 of the navy had gone ashore a week ago at the Gurnet, a sandy peninsula across the southern approach to Plymouth Harbor, and the Swan was sent from Portsmouth to pull her free. Working with the mine sweeper were the naval tugs Patapsco and Penacook, the latter the tug that had the barge in tow at the time she went ashore.

All was ready for another pull on the oil barge yesterday and a boat's crew was sent from the Swan to run a hawser from the barge to the mine-sweeper. The storm came up and tossed the boat's crew about so that they lost the hawser. The steel cable became entangled in the mine-sweeper's propeller, which was snapped off, and the Swan became unmanageable.

Lieutenant Konieczny tried all the devices known to sailors to keep his ship in control against the buffetings of the gale, but the Swan was thrown into the tide rips that skirt the shore. The seas were whipped to a height and force that made impossible the use of a boat from ship to shore. The coast guards then shot a line that crossed the mine-sweeper's bow and, with a stouter line rigged, the work of rescue was begun and completed without injury to a man.

All wires to the Gurnet were put out of commission by the storm until this morning. A few fragmentary messages came out by radio in the night, but they barely sketched the story of the Swan's disablement and the heroic rescue work of Captain Glynn and the coast guards.

REPORT TROOPS MOVING TO FIGHT D'ANNUNZIO

Governor Caviglia Said to Have Orders to Take Islands Seized by the Poet.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—A dispatch to The London Times from Milan quotes the Secolo as saying that a movement of regular Italian troops is reported all along the armistice line in the Adriatic zone, and it is rumored that General Caviglia has been ordered by the Italian Government to take the Islands of Veglia and Arbe, which were recently seized by d'Annunzio's legionaires, and also to occupy the strip of territory near Castua, invaded by d'Annunzio soon after the signing of the Rapallo treaty.

D'Annunzio, according to the dispatch, which was originally sent from Trieste, has issued a manifesto in which he says a conflict is imminent, and that he and his men are ready to fight and to die rather than submit to the Italian forces. The dispatch adds that excitement is intense in Fiume, where all males from 18 to 52 have been recalled to the colors.

TO RESUME PARLEY ON ALIEN LAND LAW

Negotiations With Japan Not to Be Interrupted by Colby's Trip to South America.

COOLIES TO BE EXPELLED

Japanese Here Not to Enjoy Full "Civil Rights," but Property Will Be Safeguarded.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (Associated Press).—Negotiations between the United States and Japan looking to a new treaty, growing out of the adoption of the anti-alien land law in California, will not be interrupted by reason of the visit of Secretary Colby to South America.

Pressure of official business has compelled Secretary Colby to delay his trip several days. He had expected to be able to sail next Wednesday, but it was not known tonight when his present engagements would permit him to leave, although it was understood the delay probably would not be very great.

The conversations on the anti-alien land law, which were suspended last week during the absence from Washington of Roland S. Morris, American Ambassador to Japan, are to be resumed at once, and it was said today that, since Under Secretary Davis was fully acquainted with the details of the negotiations, he and Mr. Morris could bring them to a conclusion.

The State Department officers are to confer with leaders in the Senate and House before the negotiations are completed.

In this connection it was learned that the expulsion of Japanese coolies from this country is to be accomplished not simply by an imperial Japanese decree, but by American law. This will involve legislation by Congress, probably in connection with the whole subject of immigration restrictions, which now are being considered by the Senate and House Immigration Committees.

It also was learned today that it is not proposed to confer full "civil rights" upon Japanese now in this country. Instead, there will be some safeguarding of the property rights of Japanese already legally acquired. This is described as a much narrower privilege than that of the free enjoyment of "civil rights."

The first of the conferences between State Department officers and Congressional leaders was held late today, Representative Johnson of Washington, Chairman of the House Immigration Committee, spending an hour at the department. The meeting was described as being of a confidential character.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 29.—Secretary of State Colby telegraphed today to Governor W. D. Stephens that treaty negotiations with Japan are "informal and tentative and have not as yet reached the point of submission and of formal consideration."

The dispatch replied to the protest of the Japanese Exclusion League of California against provisions in the treaty that would conflict with the anti-alien land law of California.

DIES OF X-RAY BURNS.

Dr. Infroit, Noted French Surgeon, Underwent 24 Operations.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Another martyr in the person of Dr. Charles Infroit has been added to the list of those who have given their lives to the study and use of X-rays. As chief of the Central Radiographic Laboratory of the Salpétrière Hospital, Dr. Infroit was one of the foremost exponents in France of the use of the rays, and, like many of his predecessors, he carried his devotion to science to the point of death.

For three years, ever since he first felt the symptoms of burns from the rays, he had known that he was doomed, but he went on with his work. First one finger, then another, touched by the rays had to be amputated. In 1918 he lost his right hand, and early this year the left hand had also to be sacrificed. In all, he underwent twenty-four operations.

With a fortitude rare even in the annals of devotion to scientific research Dr. Infroit continued his surgical work and lectures, having two artificial hands made for himself. In order not to trouble his aged mother, with whom he lived, he had a room fitted up in the hospital itself in which he could have the attention of a nurse, and it was there he died. The deadly rays in the end affected his legs, and his last days were passed in excruciating agony.

"Only lead armor half an inch thick could have saved me," he said once, "and with that I couldn't have done my work."

He refused to marry, knowing from the time that he took up the work that he would eventually be a victim, and, though he was only in his forty-fifth year, his sufferings before he died had made him into a gray-haired man who looked a score of years older.

EUROPEAN LABOR REJECTS RED RULE

Indications That the "Syndicates" May Not Follow the Lead of the Extremist Agitators.

By WALTER DURANTY.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Impulses radiated from Moscow are troubling the labor and Socialist circles of Western Europe. European reaction has its importance for America, where the effects of Moscow's policy are likely to be similar, though less rapidly apparent, owing to the greater distance from the point of origin.

In July and August last, simultaneously with and shortly after the meeting of the Third Internationale in Moscow, the Bolshevist leaders issued a series of manifestos and conditions of adhesion to the Third Internationale laid down for foreign labor parties to follow. The purpose of this move was to obtain a clean-cut division between those who would swallow the Communist program wholesale, with all that it involved of submission to Moscow and immediate effort toward the violent revolutionary upset of the capitalist régimes, and those who wished to proceed more gradually toward the goal of labor's ambitions.

The terms laid down by Moscow, which at first appeared to vary somewhat for different European countries, were finally formulated in one list of twenty-one conditions, which were published first in Germany in August. Later communications from Russia insisted on the absolute and positive character of all these conditions and emphasized the fact that they were in the nature of an ultimatum—unless the prospective adherents would accept them implicitly they were not to apply for entry to the Moscow Communist fold.

Results in Four Leading Nations.

It is now possible to trace the results of the Russian policy in the four leading European countries — England, France, Italy and Germany.

In Germany, where the political side of the Labor Party is fairly strong, there has been scission in the Labor ranks. Active, pushing young members of the party have gone right out for adhesion to Moscow and have formed a new Communist Party as an offshoot of the Independent Socialist Party, which is thus split nearly in two.

In Italy something similar has happened, but the relative strength of the political section as compared with the trade unionists being less the new Communist group has smaller importance. For that is the lesson of the whole business, that while political coteries of the Labor Party are inclined to coquette with Moscow, the real trade unions or labor brotherhoods on the contrary have kept aloof.

In England there was held last week a pan-European Trade Union Congress. Although the question of adhesion or non-adhesion to Moscow was not put directly before the meeting it was asked its opinion about the new Trade Union Internationale—a sort of offshoot of the Communists' Internationale proper—which Moscow recently launched. The vote was highly significant—22,122,000 against the new organization and only 150,000 in its favor. This overwhelming condemnation defines the attitude of European organized labor towards adhesion and subservience to Moscow.

In France, however, the political section of the party has always been strong and active. Under the leadership of their great orator, Jaurès, the Socialist group in the French Chamber had before gained an important position in the life of the nation and established considerable ascendancy over the "Syndicates," as the labor brotherhoods are termed in France. Now, under the leadership of Messrs. Cachin and Frossard, who recently made a pilgrimage to Moscow, a determined effort is being made to enforce adhesion to Moscow on the French Labor Party.

Yesterday a meeting of the Paris labor groups voted in favor of adhesion by a heavy majority. The French Socialist newspaper, Humanité, of which Cachin is editor, greets this result with loud applause, as being an indication that when French labor votes as a whole its vote will be cast in the same direction. It omits to say that in Paris the political elements are especially strong as compared with the trade union representatives. As it was a vote of the delegates of sections and not of individual members which gave the majority for the Moscow the result is probably misleading.

Here as in England the tried and trusted trade union leaders are bitterly opposed to adhesion and the consequent abandonment of independence. Like their British comrades they have been disgusted by reports that the Bolsheviki have imprisoned the Menshevist—that is the less extreme Socialist—trade unionists in Moscow because they spoke too frankly about Russian affairs to members of the visiting British labor delegation.

It is, therefore, by no means so certain as the Humanité makes out that French labor will approve adhesion. In fact as in Germany, Italy and England the result here is likely to be a division in the labor ranks with the extremists of the political section on one side and representatives of the genuine workers on the other.

Obviously the former will have the advantage of youth, enthusiasm and cohesion, led by centralized direction from Moscow. They also doubtless include the best talkers in the party. Against that is the common sense of the labor federations composed of men who work instead of talk for a living.

In a country like Russia, where the masses were oppressed and exploited, they are apt to be swayed by clever propaganda. The same thing may occur in countries where the post-war distress is particularly acute and conditions of life particularly hard. Elsewhere, however, trade union opposition to Moscow domination is a factor of stability hardly less great than the prosperous landowning peasantry.

Strasbourg Socialists for Soviet.

STRASBOURG, France, Nov. 29.—The Congress of the Unified Socialist Party for the district of Strasbourg and its suburbs has voted for adhesion to the Moscow Third Internationale. The vote in favor of adhesion was 657, to 178 against it.

AMERICAN GIRLS CAPTIVES.

State Department Seeks News of Relief Workers in Lithuania.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The State Department today asked the British Government to request the British Legation at Warsaw to have the British commander at Kovno make informal inquiries at the Lithuanian Foreign Office and render any assistance possible to two American women, Miss Martha Graczyk and her assistant, Miss Mary A. Vasilczyk, and also to their chauffeur, Alexander Mizio, who are reported to have been arrested in Vilna when the Lithuanian authorities were there and taken to Kovno under suspicion of espionage.

Miss Graczyk and Miss Vasilczyk are members of the Grey Samaritan Corps, a Polish organization recruited in the United States and assigned as inspectors of the European Child Fund. The address of Miss Graczyk is 52 Durnan Street, Rochester. The State Department has not the address of Miss Vasilczyk, which is understood to be known, however, by the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., at 600 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

The two women had been detailed to Vilna by their organization to distribute foodstuffs shipped into that country for the feeding of infants and children.

French Scientific Medal Awarded to W. W. Coblentz

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The Academy of Sciences has awarded the Janssen Medal to William W. Coblentz, physicist in the Bureau of Standards at Washington, for his discoveries in connection with rays emanating from the earth and stars.

William W. Coblentz is a native of Ohio. He has been attached to the Bureau of Standards for twelve years and has developed a method of measuring radiant heat by infrared and ultra-violet rays. He has devised an instrument for astronomers with which to measure heat from the stars, and also developed in the course of the war signal instruments for ships at sea and an instrument for detecting moving bodies, such as ships, by their heat emanations in the dark.

HOLD CITY OFFICIAL IN DRY LAW BRIBERY

Federal Agent Says Joseph A. Solovei Paid Him $500 to Drop a Case.

"FRAME-UP," SAYS LAWYER

Departing Supervisor Boyd Calls Prohibition Enforcement Here a Hopeless Task.

Joseph A. Solovei, Assistant Corporation Counsel in charge of the Brooklyn branch of the Bureau of Street Openings, who was appointed on April 3, 1918, by Mayor Hylan, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of bribery in connection with an alleged conspiracy to violate the Volstead act by Benjamin and Albert Gross, real estate men of Garden City, L. I. The latter are said to have had counterfeit rubber stamps bearing the names of Charles R. O'Connor, Federal Prohibition Director for this State, and Julius C. Strenlan, who holds a similar office for the State of Connecticut.

Solovei is charged with having paid $500 to Special Agent Frank J. Seib of the Internal Revenue Bureau to drop the investigation after he had arrested Benjamin Gross on the conspiracy charge. The money is alleged to have been paid yesterday in a restaurant in Lafayette Street. Solovei and Benjamin and Albert Gross were arraigned before Federal Commissioner Hitchcock last night and released on bonds of $2,500 each, the hearing being set for Saturday.

John J. Curtin of 120 Broadway, who appeared as counsel for the defendants, said Solovei had not been a party to any conspiracy, and that the complaint seemed to him to be a "frame-up." Denial was also made by the Gross brothers that they had in any way participated in the alleged bribing.

Solovei was appointed Assistant Corporation Counsel by Mayor Hylan on April 3, 1918, at a salary of $5,000 a year. His practice had been confined largely to the criminal courts, and he was known in Brooklyn as counsel for pickpockets in court proceedings. Police Commissioner Bugher refused to appoint him Deputy Police Commissioner on that ground, although Mayor Hylan urged his appointment. Commissioner Bugher's resignation is said to have been largely due to his refusal to make Solovei a deputy.

Boyd Calls Task Hopeless.

On the eve of his departure today for Washington, where he hopes to remain permanently in charge of the field force of the Internal Revenue Bureau, Frank L. Boyd, for two and half months Federal Supervising Prohibition Agent for this State, asserted that the enforcement of prohibition with the limited force and money at the disposal of the agent in this State is a hopeless task. Knox Phagan, who came here with Mr. Boyd, will have charge of the work here until Mr. Boyd's successor is named.

"However, I feel that this department has done splendid work since I came here two and a half months ago," said Mr. Boyd. "In the seventy-five days that I have been here, we have seized more than $1,200,000 worth of liquors; almost $1,000,000 worth of narcotics; made on an average of thirty cases a day and twelve arrests, some of the defendants being arrested on several different charges.

Upon his arrival here, Sept. 15, to relieve James Shevlin, transferred to the Southwest, Mr. Boyd began work on a report of the amount of liquor seized, arrests made, &c. He has reported to Prohibition Commissioner John F. Kramer, in Washington, that from Jan. 16 to Sept. 30, 1920, the agents seized 14,804 gallons of vinous liquors, 15,943 gallons of malt liquors, and 32,136 gallons of spiritous liquors. Sixty-one automobiles were seized in this period, 2,450 arrests were made for violation of the prohibition law, 668 convictions and 381 acquittals; 413 seizures were made and 350 injunction proceedings instituted by the United States Attorneys. Mr. Boyd said that he understood that there are now 800 injunction cases awaiting hearings. The courts, he said, are congested with liquor cases.

Held as Stamp Counterfeiters.

Secret Service Agents, under the direction of Captain John S. Tucker, Saturday night seized a printing set with thousands of counterfeit revenue stamps, liquor labels and illicit liquor paraphernalia and arrested four men, it became known yesterday when the defendants were arraigned before Federal Commissioner Hitchcock on counterfeiting charges. The prisoners, Domenico Amirante, his sons, Vincent and John, of 238 Thompson Street, and Frank Bulzoni of 35 Bedford Street, were held in $2,000 bail each. The labels, according to Captain Tucker, have been selling at from 60 cents to $2 a dozen. He said that he already knew of the distribution of nearly 25,000 in this city.

Joseph Colletti, President of the company operating the "Black Cat" restaurant on West Broadway, and two waiters, Enoch Maro and Joseph Bertolini, who were arrested by the police Saturday night on a charge of violating the prohibition law, were yesterday turned over to the Federal authorities and held in $1,000 bail by Commissioner Hitchcock.

John J. Geary, an Internal Revenue agent attached to the staff of Federal District Attorney Leroy W. Ross, in Brooklyn, and Matto Bombaro, were arrested last night on a charge of extortion. They are alleged to have demanded $15 from Thorleis Merland, who conducts a coffee house at 315 Columbia Street, Brooklyn, to prevent his arrest on a charge of violating the Volstead act.

SAFEGUARDS RED GOLD.

Final Draft of Trading Agreement With Britain Sent to Soviet.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The final draft of the Russian trading agreement has been completed by the Government and was sent today to Krassin, who telegraphed it to Moscow.

The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent says the British Government has not departed from the June agreement, and minor amendments made in the final draft were really negligible.

Payments in gold made under this trading agreement when it has been sanctioned are not to be attached in respect of any of the pre-war Russian debts, but are also to be without prejudice to any future arrangements made in regard to such debts.

It has been pointed out to the Russian Mission that there are still places where Russian propaganda should be stopped.

LABOR CHIEFS WARN RAILWAY BOARD

Won't Try to Restrain Men if Plan for Adjusting Disputes Isn't Found.

STONE SPEAKS FOR UNIONS

With Other "Conservatives," He Urges the Creation of National Boards of Adjustment.

DECLARATION BRINGS ACTION

Members of the Board Agree to Immediate Executive Hearing on the Request

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Warning that the "ultra-conservative" leaders of the railroad brotherhoods would cease their efforts to hold their men in check unless some plan to adjust differences between roads and employes was found was delivered to the United States Railway Labor Board today by Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Railway Engineers.

Appearing before the board with officials of fifteen other recognized railway unions, Mr. Stone announced that, after being classed "for seventeen years as an ultra-conservative, I have arrived at the point where I am through making excuses to the men."

"There must be some plan found somewhere whereby we can get results for these men," Mr. Stone continued. "The locomotive engineers have carried the load of responsibility for years. We have tried to embody your board's decision of last July in agreements with 358 railroads, but only four of these agreements have been signed. The roads refuse to sign until the board passes on the question of rules."

The decision last July raised railroad wages $600,000,000.

With Mr. Stone appeared officials of the other employes' organizations, asking that the board hold a hearing to decide on the creation of national boards of adjustment to hear and pass on controversies other than wage disputes. The matter has been pending for some time, because of the fact that the adjustment boards created under Federal control have no jurisdiction over disputes which have arisen since the roads passed to private control.

As a result of the officials' declarations this afternoon, the board agreed to an immediate executive hearing on the request, and if it is decided to comply with it, an early hearing will be set.

A motion, passed unanimously by the executive committee of the sixteen employes' organizations, was read by E. H. Fitzgerald of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Express and Station Employes. The motion provides for the submission of an ex-parte statement of disputes with railroads on the matter of the creation of national boards of adjustment and asks for an immediate hearing. Mr. Fitzgerald told the board that the situation was urgent.

W. G. Lee, President of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, explained that the request concerned national boards which could hear and pass on controversies.

"Action to change the present situation is necessary," declared Mr. Lee. "I do not refer to your jurisdiction or authority. I believe the majority of controversies is not concerned with your decision of last July, and the operating officers feel that they are not bound by that decision.

"The chief executives of the men have told them they must adhere to the Railway act; that they must submit any controversy to the board before taking a strike vote or interfering with traffic. But if the operating officers are not bound there is nothing left to do but go back to the old method. That we do not want to do if we can help it."

Speaking for the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, L. E. Shepherd, the President, told the board that the request concerned a board auxiliary to the Labor Board, to which could be referred questions not involving wages, with a view to lightening and expediting the present board's labors.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Upward Tendency in Prices, but With Frequent Reactions—Call Money 7 Per Cent.

The most of the important markets—the noteworthy exceptions being foreign exchange, some of the metals, and silver bullion—yesterday's movement of prices seemed to indicate a tendency to recovery, modified, however, by continued uncertainty regarding values and by frequent reactions. On the Stock Exchange especially the absence of speculative pressure on a large scale was as plainly evident as it was in the closing days last week. Total transactions were less than half those of a week ago and the smallest of any full business day since Nov. 1. All prices advanced in the early market, numerous stocks going 1 to 2 points above last week's closings, and, although a subsequent general reaction left net changes for the day somewhat irregular and as a rule not important, the great majority of stocks ended higher.

The check to the early advance may have been occasioned partly by an afternoon rise in call money to 7 per cent., for the first time since the early market of Monday of last week. The advance was not important, but, as usual, with the call money market, the change was symptomatic. What it indicated this time was that the sudden lowering of rates a week ago, in face of the well-known special demands of December, was premature. The real money market position has been indicated by the fact that rediscounts and note circulation should both have increased substantially last week at the New York Reserve Bank and in the Federal Reserve system as a whole.

There was nothing in yesterday's general news to influence the markets. A summary by the Interstate Commerce Commission, showing that September's earnings on all the larger railways combined had resulted in $117,588,000 increase of gross revenue over 1919, but in $2,338,000 decrease of net income, told nothing new. Every one now knows that the disproportionately large increase of expenditure was a matter partly of retroactive payrolls and partly of long-deferred improvements, and that the abnormally large outlay on these accounts was temporary. Individual statements for October, now in course of publication, are making better comparison; but the actual earning power of the new rates, modified by the new wage scales, will hardly be shown until one or two months later.

Possibly this postponement of expectations has had some part in the decline of 2 to 5 per cent. in many investment bonds from the prices reached in the October recovery. The more interesting question with that class of securities is whether or not we are to see once more, at the end of December or in January, one of the old-time "reinvestment markets." Such a movement has in the longer past frequently occurred even in the face of trade reaction, and, indeed, sometimes because of it; for personal capital which cannot be employed in its usual business activities is apt to go for the time into high-grade investments.

Most of the metals reached new low prices for the year yesterday, though wheat advanced 5½ cents and retained part of the gain after a subsequent reaction. The foreign exchange market declined sharply, with only slight recovery at the last, and silver bullion, which had risen 2⅞ pence per ounce between Wednesday and Saturday, fell abruptly 3 pence yesterday. The New York price declined 4¼ cents to 71¾ cents per ounce, which is lower than any price hitherto reached in 1920. Like last week's similarly violent advance, this was merely one of the numerous successive phases of the extraordinary speculation in the metal. Apparently the speculators yesterday took their cue entirely from the Far Eastern trade reaction, which was so stupidly ignored by the recent speculators for the rise.

A statement of New York's export and import trade in October, given out yesterday by the Collector of the Port, shows why last week's Washington figures of the country's total exports were surprising to exporters in this city. Exports of merchandise from the whole United States last month increased $120,117,000 over the previous October, whereas exports from the port of New York alone decreased $44,846,000. But in October of 1919 New York sent out 50 per cent. of the country's entire exports, and last month only 35 per cent. It is interesting to observe from the Collector's statement that shipments from this port to European markets in October decreased $98,300,000 from the year before, while imports at New York from Europe increased $983,000.

MONEY.

MONDAY, NOV. 29.

Money on call on the Stock Exchange Monday, opened and renewed at 6 per cent., ruled there until just before 8 o'clock, hen it advanced to 7 per cent. The close, however, was 6 per cent. New borrowing was small. Time money likewise prevailed at last week's best rates. On both mixed and all industrial collateral rates ranged 7¼@7½ per cent. Prime name merchants' paper was quoted unchanged at 7¾ per ecnt., but the bulk of the day's paper went at 8 per cent. Business is quiet.

A consignment of gold from abroad approximating $1,200,000 arrived for local bankers Monday.

TO OFFER CHEMICAL BONDS.

Syndicate Will Handle $12,500,000 Virginia-Carolina Debentures.

A banking group headed by Blair & Co. and Hallgarten & Co., which includes the Equitable Trust Company, the Chase Securities Corporation and the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, is organizing a syndicate to offer for public subscription $12,500,000 twelve-year 7½ per cent. sinking fund gold debentures of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company.

The sale of these debentures is the first financing which the company has done since 1914, when it sold an issue of convertible 6 per cent. debentures which were largely exchanged subsequently for the company's preferred stock.

The new issue will have a sinking fund sufficient to retire over 50 per cent. of the debentures by maturity. The company's business has shown a substantial and steady growth from $62,218,078 for the fiscal year 1916 to $138,918,234 for the fiscal year 1920. Upon completion of this financing the company's total funded debt will amount to approximately $26,900,000, which is about one-third of its securities. Since organization more than twenty-five years ago 8 per cent. has been paid on the preferred stock.

CANADIAN WAR LOANS.

Heavy Decline on Relinquishment of Government Control of Prices.

TORONTO, Ontario, Nov. 29.—Dominion Victory Loan issues slumped heavily on the Stock Exchange here today in the first open trading in the securities since the Government relinquished price control over them. There was no accompanying decline in stock quotations.

Leading brokers expressed satisfaction with the first day's trading without Dominion control, and asserted that price levels were about what was expected, with the exception of the 1934 issue, which touched a new low level at 89½ per cent.

The 1922 issue at noon was quoted at 95¾, the 1923s at 94¼, the 1933s at 93¾, the 1934s at 90½, and the 1937s at 94¼.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Money Tighter.

Whether it was Saturday's deficit in the actual bank statement or preparations for the Dec. 1 requirements, the money market yesterday was a shade tighter than in the last half of last week. In time money there were no quotable changes, but in call money the rate was firm, as distinguished from easy, at 6 per cent. and in the late afternoon touched 7 per cent. for a few minutes. The fact that there should be any tightening, however, was generally disregarded, for nobody expects the situation of, say, two or three months ago to be repeated again in the near future. There is some talk, of course, of the "supplemental bulge" of mid-December, but even this is not expected to work any great hardship here and in most places yesterday there was as much complacency over the outlook as there was at any time last week.

Bankers' Conferences.

The Street is full of bankers' conferences. They are being held on every conceivable proposition and, if the gossip of some quarters is to be believed, on subjects which are almost inconceivable. If two prominent bankers are seen walking down the street, it is a conference, and if one big banker comes out of another's private office, it is a very important conference. Of course, much of this is purest invention, but at the same time, there have been enough really important conferences held lately to give substance to almost any sort of report which gets abroad.

South American Affairs.

The so-called South American group of local bankers held a meeting in the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. yesterday, and it was reported that loans to various and sundry South American countries were discussed. It is known that several—probably all—of the South American countries are anxious to do financing here, but there was no announcement given out following the meeting and some of those who attended the conference said there was nothing to say. This same group, it is understood, has been discussing the Cuban situation and if anything definite is done for that country, undoubtedly this group will handle it.

Scraping Bottom.

With the elimination of a number of "sore spots" in the stock market, most competent observers feel that the market has got past its worst agony and should now be heading toward better things. Also, those who have been watching the cotton market think that too should do better. In the latter case, the point now being accented by the optimists is the fact that the distant months are commanding better prices than the near months. All through the long decline from last July the near months sold above the far months and not until just before the closing on Saturday was this situation reversed. In yesterday's market the far months maintained their advantage. Thus, the bulls argue that if cotton for delivery in July is worth more than cotton for delivery in January, by the same token cotton in July should be worth more than it is now.

Sentiment Improved.

For the time being at least, there has come to be a more cheerful sentiment in the financial district. It is noticeable that the bearish rumors have been steadily disappearing with no new ones to take the place of those that passed away. On the other hand there is a tendency here and there to emphasize some of the good news especially with relation to indusarial activities. The change is not firmly rooted but at least it is a sign that is not to be ignored. Probably any moderately bad piece of news would bring another flush of fear but it is doubtful that the effect could be long sustained.

American International.

Pressure was once more exerted against American International shares in the stock market of yesterday causing a reaction of some 2 points at which level the stock was only slightly removed from the low for the year made when the company announced the passing of the dividend. There has been no news with relation to the company since that time. Of course it is known that the South American situation has not cleared up to any appreciable extent and it is in this quarter that American International is supposed to have some frozen credits. Forcing the hand of its customers would not help American International but rather would do harm and ultimately it is to be expected that the difficulty will be worked out.

Copper Price Softens.

A new low for copper was made yesterday when the metal sold at 13½ cents a pound on the Metal Exchange. Furthermore it was said that export copper was selling for 13⅝ cents. The big producers still hold for a fraction above the low prices. What appears to be taking place is this; the smaller producers of the metal are engaged in a price cutting campaign, shading the price of the largest producers, and in this way liquidating stocks of copper and turning them into money. Ultimately it would seem that this sort of selling would run its course and then the copper market might be expected to harden. Should the price of the metal drop much further, it would be on a level lower than has prevailed in a number of years. Buying continues to be light and this condition is expected to obtain until after the first of the year.

Mexican Petroleum Strong.

The Mexican Petroleum shares have been shooting around at an excited pace recently, displaying alternating degrees of strength and weakness. Apparently there is a deal of bear pressure directed against the stock but there is also a fear that the short side may be dangerous and profits are garnered speedily. The development work which Mexican Petroleum is undertaking in Mexico is of a character and scope which presages a constantly improving position for the company in the oil industry.

The October Railroad Earnings.

From the comparatively few October railroad earnings statements which have been received in the financial district the impression is gained that the showing this month will be on about a par with that of September. In some instances traffic conditions may have brought about a slight improvement, but the composite picture still remains obscured by the unsettling factors in the general situation and final results from the Interstate Commerce Commission's increase in rates will probably not be known until the interstate-intrastate rate squabble is ended.

Mason City & Fort Dodge Interest.

Still another indication that the Interstate Commerce Commission has become a constructive regulating agency is contained in the announcement that funds have been advanced by it so that interest on the first mortgage 4 per cent. bonds of the Mason City & Fort Dodge Railway Company may be paid Dec. 1. Word was received to that effect from Chicago late yesterday afternoon. Last week the Chicago Great Western Railroad Company which operates the Mason City & Fort Dodge under lease, announced that the Dec. 1 coupons would be defaulted. The advance by the I. C. C. was secured through the efforts of a bondholders' protective committee.

Changes In Income Tax Laws

It is anticipated that certain important changes will be made in present tax laws. Should this occur we will issue a brief digest covering the principal points in question. We will be pleased to accept applications now for this digest when issued.

RAILROAD EARNINGS GAIN FOR OCTOBER

Some Show Increase Over September Figures and Most Exceed 1919 Totals.

B. & O. REVENUES JUMP

Freight and Passenger Returns Beat Last Year's—Watch New York in Rate Dispute.

Reports of earnings for October, as submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission by half a dozen or more of the important railroad systems of the country, reached the financial district yesterday. Some of them show improvement over the September figures, and most of them show about as much improvement over the reports of the corresponding period of 1919 as was shown last month. But the same unsettling conditions which prevailed then still exist in the difference between many State and interstate freight rates, and no true conclusion as to what the recent rate increases will mean to the roads eventually may be drawn as yet.

Baltimore & Ohio shows a considerable improvement in various items over last month. For instance, freight revenues increased more than 36 per cent. over October, 1919, as compared with an increase of 34.8 per cent. in September, and the increase in passenger revenues over the corresponding month last year jumped to 28 per cent., as compared with 11 per cent. last month.

Maintenance expense, both for way and structures, increased materially, and there was a natural increase over October, 1919, of 44 per cent. in transportation expense.

Net operating income of $2,881,282 was about the same as the September figures, but was almost twice as great as that reported for the same month last year. Net in October, 1919, was only $1,531,456.

Among the other systems which reported improvement over October, 1919, were Lehigh Valley, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and Atlantic Coast Line. In each instance net operating income showed substantial improvement over 1919 figures.

Railroad men hesitate to predict how soon monthly earnings statements will give a true picture of advantages derived from rate increases put into effect Sept. 1, on order of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The status of the interstate-intrastate rate dispute now is that should the action of the New York regulating bodies, which have obtained a restraining order preventing an advance in rates next month, prove unsuccessful, the remaining sixteen State Commissions which have opposed the new schedules will probably withdraw actions they have started to carry the matter to the United States Supreme Court. In the event that the New York State case is upheld and carried from court to court until it reaches the highest judicial body in the country, a longer time will elapse.

At the same time, the impression prevails that even if the case is carried to the Supreme Court it will be moved expeditiously.

PETROLEUM AT TOP MARK.

October Output of 39,838,000 Barrels Highest Yet Reached.

Production of petroleum in this country during October reached 39,838,000 barrels, the highest market thus far attained. This figure is nearly 6,500,000 barrels greater than the production in October of last year. The daily average production exceeded that of September of this year by more than 22,000 barrels.

The increase in domestic production in October, however, was more than offset by a decrease in net imports of Mexican oil. The daily rate of consumption fell off slightly so that there was an increase in stocks amounting to 500,000 barrels.

Republic of France
6% National Loan of 1920

SUBSCRIPTIONS CLOSE TODAY

These bonds are redeemable at par at the option of the French Government after January 1, 1931, and are a direct obligation of the Republic of France.

Under authority from the French Government we are receiving subscriptions payable in dollars at the rate of exchange fixed each day by the French Finance Commission.

Cables from Paris indicate great enthusiasm for the Loan and a probable subscription of thirty billion francs.

Price today $60.50 per 1,000 Franc Bond

The stability of French institutions and the conservative character of the French people are responsible for the high esteem in which their Government and Municipal obligations have always been held throughout the world. It is only because of conditions following the war that investors now have an opportunity of securing a French Government Bond upon such advantageous terms.

France has always gloried in meeting her obligations. Before the war she had no exterior debt.

The Book That Tells The Story

"THIRTY-EIGHT years without loss to any investor"—the familiar slogan of S. W. Straus & Co.—is a phrase which tells in condensed form the story of the Straus Plan. Through more than a generation, the bonds safeguarded under this plan have been a standard form of safe investment.

Our new booklet tells this story in detail. It will be of interest and value to every investor. A postcard or 'phone call will bring it to you. Ask for is becoming increasingly apparent. A new attitude on the part of the public towards public utilities is reflected in the rulings of the various public service commissions, to the effect that utility companies must live and must have sufficient revenue to make their existence profitable.

First mortgage bonds of successful companies are now selling at from 15 to 25 points below their high prices. They offer excellent opportunities for conservative investors.

DELAYS RATE CASE; INJUNCTION STANDS

Court Gives Long Island Time to Submit Brief and Opponents Time to Answer.

SAYS ROAD IS INTRASTATE

Griffen Argues Commission Is Without Jurisdiction—Gardner Offers to Refute the Statement.

After hearing argument yesterday on the application of Deputy Attorney General Edward Griffin to continue the order enjoining the Long Island Railroad from putting into effect the increase in fares and freight allowed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, Justice Benedict of the Brooklyn Supreme Court gave counsel for the railroad company until Dec. 3 to submit a brief and opposing counsel until Dec. 11 to submit answers to it. In the meantime the temporary restraining order is continued.

The court permitted intervention by the city, which was represented by Assistant Corporation Counsel Vincent Victory; the local Public Service Commission, represented by Terence Farley, and by the Queens Chamber of Commerce through Major John Holly Clark. Other attorneys present in court were R. H. Nielson for the Staten Island Rapid Transit Company, C. C. Paulding for the New York Central, and A. A. Gardner and Joseph F. Keany for the Long Island Railroad Companies.

Mr. Griffin, in his argument to have the stay continued indefnitely, laid stress on the fact that the railroad was an intrastate line and therefore out of the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission. He called attention to the refusal of Justice Cropsey on Saturday to have the stay vacated. Mr. Gardner contended that the only question to be answered was whether the Long Island Company was an intrastate or an interstate railroad.

"Do you claim," asked the court, "that the Long Island Railroad comes under the classification of an interstate railroad?"

"There is no question about that," replied Mr. Gardner. "We will submit decisions which hold that freight passing through a State en route to another State brings that railroad under the classification of an interstate line."

Mr. Griffin said that the State would lose no time in obtaining from the United States Supreme Court a decision sharply defining the powers of the Interstate Commission.

Argument on the application by the Attorney General to stay rate increases on other railroads in the State will be heard in Kingston on Saturday.

RAILROADS GET INJUNCTION.

Illinois Officials Are Restrained Temporarily on Intrastate Fare.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Temporary injunctions restraining State officials from interfering with the establishment of the 3½-cent fare rate authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission were granted fourteen railroads operating in Illinois in Federal Court today. Arguments will be heard within ten days.

Attorney General Brundage has opposed the new fare in intrastate commerce as a violation of the State 2-cent fare law.

Foreign Trade and American Ships.

In the nine months ending with last September, 45.09 per cent. of our export trade was carried in American vessels as against 33.09 per cent. in the same months of 1919, and 54.91 per cent. in foreign vessels as against 66.91 in 1919. In the corresponding period of 1918, American vessels carried only 19.21 per cent. and foreign vessels 80.79.

COPPER PRODUCTION CUT.

Companies Report Lack of Demand and Steady Price Reduction.

Evidence of the slowing down which is taking place in the copper industry is coming to light from all quarters. Not long ago the Calumet and Hecla Company announced a decrease in wages and yesterday wires from Butte told of a reduction of 50 cents a day in wages at certain of the American Smelting and Refining Company's plants. The Anaconda Copper Company is reported to have laid off men at the Boston and Montana smelter at Great Falls, Montana and the Greene-Cananea Copper Company, it is reported, will close down its mines the middle of next month.

It is believed that other companies will follow suit in curtailment of operations. For the time being copper is suffering from lack of demand and the price reduction has been steady. At yesterday's price of 13⅞ cents a pound copper here was selling out of line with London, where the price was the equivalent of about 12¼ cents a pound. The rapid decline in metal prices in London is taken to mean that some brokers have become financially involved.

ASK HOTEL PHONE RATE RISE

Public Service Commission Told Local Calls Cost Them 12 to 16½c.

Testimony showing the cost of telephone service to the hotels of this city was presented yesterday to Chairman Charles B. Hill of the Public Service Commission for the Second District at the continuation of the hearing on complaints filed with the commission against the establishment of a maximum rate of 10 cents for local messages.

An exhaustive study of the cost of local service was introduced by witnesses to show that it was costing the large hotels from 12 cents to 16½ cents for local messages, and therefore they were serving their patrons at a loss. The hotels contend that 10 cents for local messages is unreasonably low and that in view of the cost schedules filed they should be allowed to charge an increased rate.

The hearing was adjourned until Dec. 13, when the complainants will receive an opportunity to cross-examine witnesses.

ROAD SUES FOR PAY UNDER GUARANTEE

Grand Trunk Western Demands Part of Amount Before Final Settlement.

ATTACKS TREASURY RULING

Test Case Involves $400,000,000 Claimed to Be Due Under Transportation Act.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—With the Grand Trunk Western Railway Company as complainant, a suit designed to test the validity of the Treasury Department's refusal to make partial payments to railroads under the guaranty provided in the Transportation act was filed in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia today.

The railroad company filed an application for a mandamus to compel the Secretary of the Treasury to honor a certificate of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the payment of $500,000 to the Grand Trunk Western as a part payment of the guaranty due it.

Although the Grand Trunk Western is the only petitioner, the judicial decision will affect the payment of approximately $400,000,000 due American railroads under the guaranty provisions.

In a statement on the case the Association of Railway Executives made this explanation:

"The proceeding is a test case designed and necessary to settle what the law is in respect to the authority and obligation of the Treasury Department to make partial payments under the guaranty when amounts are certified by the Interstate Commerce Commission as certainly and in all events due, without waiting, before making any payment, for the result of a final accounting which cannot be accomplished for a very considerable time."

Today's suit is the outgrowth of a ruling of the Controller of the Treasury on Oct. 7 that partial payments represented in certificates of the Interstate Commerce Commission in favor of the Grand Trunk Western and the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee Railroads could not be made by the Secretary of the Treasury to a common carrier in advance of final settlement. In his opinion the Controller held that the Interstate Commerce Commission was empowered to issue only one certificate to each carrier and that this certificate must be for the full amount of the final settlement.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

Prices Are Irregularly Lower at Paris.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Old 2½ per cent. consols, 43 15-16; British 5 per cent. war loan, 82⅞; 4½ per cent. war loan, 76⅝.

Rand Mines, 2⅝; De Beers Mining, 14⅜.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Prices were irregular on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 35 centimes lower at 56 francs 5 centimes; 5 per cent. war loan, unchanged at 85 francs 20 centimes.

Exchange on London, 27 centimes higher at 57 francs 67 centimes per sovereign; American dollars were quoted at 16 francs 60 centimes against 16 francs 43 centimes Saturday.

AUSTRIAN LOAN PLAN FAILS.

Only a Fraction of $250,000,00 Credit Pledged in England.

VIENNA, Nov. 29.—The recent mission to England of Sir William A. M. Goode, head of the Austrian section of the Reparation Commission, on behalf of the Austrian loan project has turned out to be virtually a failure, according to the Morgen, which says it learns that he was able to secure only a fraction of the $250,000,000 credit sought.

Commenting on this, the newspaper says that the "whole game of reparation is nothing less than a farce," as the commission came to Vienna acting as if the weal or woe of Austria depended upon its good-will. The reparations policy, the Morgen charges, is simply a gigantic propaganda against the fusion of Austria with Germany.

The Oil Trade and Our Exports.

During the first nine months of 1920 our total exports of mineral oil amounted to 2,244,559,132 gallons. This compared with 1,718,773,391 in 1919, and with 1,528,951,067 in 1913. Much the largest shipments in 1920 were to France and England.

What a Big Detroit Bank Thinks of Credit Insurance—

A well-known bank of Detroit, Mich., has just written the American Credit-Indemnity Co. as follows:

"In our judgment, the matter of insuring open credits by business men has been a subject of growing importance for some years, and particularly at this time when there are so many problems confronting the country, the solution of which is difficult.

"The more conservative houses are taking every precaution to keep their affairs in a liquid shape, and the conditions under which the better grade of credit insurance policies are written, we believe constitute a contingent asset to any business man, the advantages of which should not be overlooked."

Bankers appreciate that it takes more skill to do business successfully when prices are falling, as now, than when prices were increasing. And they therefore endorse precautions that prevent, else pay, bad debt losses beyond the normal, which the American's "Unlimited-Interim-Payment" Policy does.

ATTACKS RAILROADS AND STANDARD WAGE

Judge George W. Anderson Says Their Bookkeeping System Is Expensive and Inadequate.

FOR FUNDAMENTAL CHANGE

Calls It Absurd to Pay Same Wage in All Sections of Country Regardless of Work Required.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Fundamental changes in the administration of the nation's railroads were urged today by Federal Judge George W. Anderson in an address at a conference called by the Joint New England Commission on Foreign and Domestic Commerce to take steps toward united action to induce the Interstate Commerce Commission to "save the railroads and industries from ruination," threatened by the alleged financial condition of the roads.

Judge Anderson denounced "the absurd scheme of paying the same scale of wages all over the country, regardless of living conditions and of the amount of work required, to all men holding a job carrying the same name." He urged that standard wages be abandoned "in the interests of the working men themselves," and characterized as absurd the labor unions' proposal to secure a standardization of working conditions.

"Labor must alter its policy in this matter," he said, "or the public must compel the Railroad Labor Board to alter it. It is a menace to the public interests."

Judge Anderson, who is a former member of the Interstate Commerce Commission and of the Massachusetts Public Service Commission, told the conference that "railroading has been unbusinesslike because the bookkeeping of the railroads is the most elaborate and expensive and at the same time the most inadequate and generally the worst used in any great business in the world.

"There is no real cost accounting in railroad bookkeeping," Judge Anderson continued. "It follows that most of our railroad men don't know when they are getting a new dollar for an old one. They never will until a radical change in the bookkeeping methods under which maintenance and depreciation, including obsolescence, are charged into annual expense accounts by units. These are but illustrative defects in a system generally bad."

Judge Anderson said that although he was "no advocate of general reduction of railroad wages or a return to the wicked exploitation of ante-bellum times," he was convinced that "the present system is unjust, both to the railroad-using public and because of general discrimination to wage-earners themselves."

"The artificial standardization of wages," he said, "on a mere money basis, that is regardless of money purchasing power in various sections and of the quantity and quality of service required of such employes as station agents and freight handlers in large overworked sections, as compared with small stations in which the business is limited to two or three hours a day, cannot be justified. This utterly unsound and unjust standardization hits Northern New England very heavily. It is in my opinion the plain duty of all charged with responsibility for this situation to deal with it and at once, before further financial disaster ensues.

"As a friend of the wage earners I venture to suggest that they should cooperate with the railroad managers in eliminating the gross discriminations which now exist among wage earners, accruing from the utter disregard of the purchasing power of money in different sections and from the vital differences in the time and labor requirements of the jobs bearing the same name."

He added, that "if a remedial adjustment cannot be speedily agreed upon, the responsibility should be brought home to the National Wage Board.

"Immediate relief from excessive and unsound taxation should at once be sought," Judge Anderson continued. "Nothing could be more unsound than to tax railroads, which are highways for the purpose of building granolithic roads to be torn speedily to pieces by auto trucks, many of which are handling freight that ought to be borne on the rails."

Percy R. Todd, President of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad, predicted a receivership for some New England roads unless early relief is afforded. He said that only one New England road has paid a dividend during the last year.

One Factor In Our Large Imports.

In the first nine months of 1913 the Commerce Reports gave our imports of crude rubber from all outside countries as amounting to 87,147,742 pounds. During the same period of 1918 the import was 281,039,477; in 1919 it was 380,966,068, and in 1920 up to the close of September it was 488,913,269. The value of the import, which was $61,652,781 for the nine months in 1913, was $216,274,127 in 1920. From the East Indies we imported in 1913 $9,258,890 worth of rubber; in the same period of 1920, $162,603,000. Both the increase in quantity and the increase in value is ascribed to the motor car industry.

Sources of Our Gold Imports.

As reported by the Department of Commerce, the $198,888,000 gold imported into the United States during the first nine months of 1920 came in the main from the following sources: From England, $96,976,000; from Canada, $31,878,000; from Hongkong, $30,191,000; from France, $16,719,000; from Colombia, South America, $4,043,000; from Mexico, $3,613,000; from the Dutch East Indies, $2,672,000.

England's Export of Cotton Goods.

Export of cotton piece goods from England decreased heavily in October, when the shipments as shown by the detailed Board of Trade statements were much the smallest of any month this year. October's exports were 304,911,900 square yards, as against 382,138,600 in September, 443,251,000 in May, the high record of the year to date, and 393,245,900 in October, 1919.

SYNTHETIC DIAMONDS PROVE TO BE FAILURE

Company Organized in Germany to "Manufacture" Gems Cancels Contract With "Discoverer."

The latest effort of scientists to manufacture genuine diamonds has resulted in failure, according to an announcement here yesterday by William I. Rosenfeld, Vice President of the American Jewelers' Protective Association and Director of the Jewelers' Vigilance Committee.

The committee, he said, had made an exhaustive investigation of the reported discovery of a diamond-making formula by a German scientist and was convinced the formula would not produce gems equal to nature's product.

Mr. Rosenfeld said the vigilance organization had received a report from abroad indicating that a company in Berlin which had undertaken the "manufacture" of diamonds had ceased operation and canceled its contract with the scientist who "discovered" the formula.

Report of the "discovery" several weeks ago, Mr. Rosenfeld said, startled the jewelry and precious stone trade throughout the world and if proved true would have revolutionized the precious stone industry.

WHEAT MARKET RECOVERS.

Rumors of Bank Troubles Offset by Light Receipts.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Houses with New York connections were persistent buyers of wheat today, partly to cover shorts, and prices at the high point showed advances of 6½ cents over Saturday's close. The extreme figures were not maintained, however, due to general selling on a rumor of a big bank failure in Kansas. The latter could not be confirmed and the Board of Trade officials started an investigation as to where the rumor started.

A conference was held here today between representatives of the Exchange and farmers' organizations from Kansas at which the recent price movements were discussed. There was considerable buying of March wheat by brokers who usually act for the leading bear interests, although the latter are still said to be believers in lower prices. A cargo of dark No. 3 Northern Manitoba was bought to come here for delivery on December contracts, and more is being figured on. As a result of this, the premiums on Springs dropped 2 cents today to 4@8 cents over December for No. 1 Northern, while Winters were in active demand and ½@1 cent higher. Premiums on hard Winter at the Gulf advanced 1½@3 cents, with December loading showing the most advance.

Coarse grains show an exceedingly firm undertone, and unless there is something radically unfavorable in the news prices are expected to work higher, because, owing to the immense open interest, it would take several weeks to reduce the short interest materially. There is very little pressure of cash corn or oats at the present time, as the country is not selling, and Iowa banks are advertising that they will support farmers in their stand in holding for higher prices.

Stocks of grain in interior Kansas elevators are very small. Primary arrivals of wheat today, 1,748,000 bushels, were 160,000 bushels under those of a week ago and compared with 1,501,000 last year. Shipments of 1,005,000 bushels were 631,000 less than last year. Receipts of corn were 819,000 bushels, or 48,000 more than a week ago, and 2,000 less than last year; shipments, 298,000 bushels, against 433,000 last year. About 300,000 bushels of corn are now afloat at Chicago and will be cleared immediately.

Today's Chicago prices for the principal commodities were as follows:

SENATORS TO CONFER ON AID TO FARMERS

Will Seek to Supply Relief by Opening Foreign Markets, Especially Germany.

NOT EXPECTING CREDITS

And the Chance of Putting a Duty on Canadian Wheat Is Not Good Under Wilson.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Members of Congress representing the wheat and cotton States intend to confer this week regarding legislation to relieve conditions in the farm products markets. Senators from the wheat-growing States insist that the Government must do something to aid the farmer, who is now forced to sell his products at less than cost and must buy at prices verging on war figures.

Those familiar with the situation recognize that the Federal Reserve Board will offer no relief in the way of authorizing loans to farmers to permit them to hold their products for higher prices. Therefore they plan to devise legislation that will obtain wider markets and better prices than those in the United States.

Proposals to be considered by Senators from midwest and probably Southern States include:

1. Revival of the War Finance Corporation, to extend credit to foreign buyers. If credits were extended, Germany, it is argued, would buy our surplus wheat, and thereby prevent prices falling below a point where there is no profit to the farmer.

2. Putting a tariff on Canadian wheat to stop the flooding of the American markets.

3. Prohibition of trading in futures through taxation.

Suggestions that the Government fix and guarantee the price of wheat may be made, but will receive no consideration, as members of Congress are determined that wartime regulations shall end as quickly as possible.

Eugene Meyer Jr. of New York, who was Chairman of the War Finance Corporation, is expected here on Wednesday to discuss the matter of reviving the corporation. In discussing the situation a month ago he said here that the corporation could easily be revived and that it would be able to open foreign markets to a considerable extent.

Senator Capper of Kansas, who reached Washington today with a long program to aid the farmers, believes that the corporation should be re-established without delay, to extend credits that would aid all who wish to sell to foreign buyers. In his opinion, if this corporation should offer financial assistance the Federal Reserve Board would finally adopt a more liberal policy toward far mcredits.

With the country demanding reduction in taxation and expenses of the Government, Senator Capper said he would not favor an appropriation to the War Finance Corporation, but rather the authorization of the use of the $400,000,000 of German money and securities held by the Alien Property Custodian, to extend credit to Germany, which was not averse to such a transaction.

There seems to be little prospect that Congress will pass a bill for a duty on wheat, as this would open the tariff question, which the Republicans are opposed to doing in the Wilson Administration. President Wilson, acting under his war powers, can put an embargo on Canadian wheat, but has refused to do this.

Senator Capper said that he would press for action on his bill to put a tax of 10 per cent. on each trade in future transactions. Even if Congress adopts this plan, it is not likely that it can become law in time to aid the present emergency of the farmers.

ASK FREIGHT RATE REVISION

New England Roads Want Larger Proportion of Charges on Long Hauls.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Co-operation by the railroads, industries, banks and chambers of commerce in New England in a movement to obtain from the Interstate Commerce Commission a revision of long haul freight rates so that the lines of this section will receive a greater proportion of the charges was considered at a conference held at the State house today under the auspices of the New England Commission on Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

The representations to the Interstate Commerce Commission as proposed would be on the ground that the railroads of New England are entitled to an increased share of long-haul charges and that the industries of this section will be seriously burdened unless a readjustment is made.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

BETTER TONE NOTED IN COTTON MARKET

Less Selling From the South—Trade and Wall Street Buy.

Yesterday's cotton market showed a better tone and while business was not on a large scale, with neither the selling nor the buying equaling the volume of some of the days of last week, the character of the business was improved. Yesterday, instead of the South doing most of the selling, Liverpool supplied the major portion of the pressure and New Orleans, where many recent breaks have started, was steady and firm at a time when our market was not getting ahead as vigorously as it might have been. Further, the trade showed a disposition to pick up cotton on the low opening and continued to buy even after the market had turned upward.

The turn in the relative positions of the options, with the far months selling above the near for the first time this season, appeared to stimulate interest on the long side and resulted in a good deal of short covering by Wall Street houses. This switch was made just before the close on Saturday and was maintained yesterday, although at closing time yesterday the far premium had been somewhat cut down.

Spots here were up 25 points, but in the South there were mostly declines over Sunday and advices from some of the spot markets were not so encouraging. However, the Southern spot markets may be expected to be a little slow in responding to any improvement which may come.

Liverpool was demoralized. Futures, due to come lower than on Friday, broke badly and spots there sold off more than 100 points to a new low of 10.15d. Liverpool, like some parts of the South, has been slower than New York and the futures market at New Orleans in readjusting its position.

Exports over Sunday totaled 72,930 bales, of which 30,063 went to England, 7,511 to France, 33,666 to the Continent and 1,150 to the Orient. Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.
Dec....	14.90	15.38	14.90	15.22@15.25	15.00
Jan.....	14.53	15.25	14.53	15.04@15.07	14.85

July....	15.05	15.45	15.05	15.22	15.15
Sept....	....	15.15	15.15	15.10	15.05

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, up 25 points, at 15.75c for middling upland; sales nil.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 15.75c, unchanged; New Orleans, 15c, down .50; Savannah, 15.75c, unchanged; Augusta, 14.88c, down .37; Memphis, 15c, down .50; Houston, 14.75c, down .25; Little Rock, 15.50c, down .50.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

	Yesterday.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Port receipts....	45,903	30,731	36,966
Exports	72,930	22,029	34,049

N. Y. arrivals..	1,149	....	....

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton was quiet at 10.15d for middling. Sales, 4,000 bales of which American 3,000. Imports, 23,000 bales of which American 16,000. Futures opened easy, 44 to 52 points down and closed barely steady, 48 to 81 points down from Friday. Prices, Dec. 10.26d, Mch. 10.30d, May 10.35d, July 10.36d.

Manchester: Yarns and cloth were very dull.

READING

The possibilities of this railroad are very much analogous to those of Southern Pacific. Similar to Southern Pacific's oil holdings, Reading proposes to segregate its enormous coal properties. The potential possibilities marketwise to the holders of Reading stock are discussed in our condensed report.

A PERSONAL QUESTION TO INVESTORS

Are your dividends insured?

What if some of the big debtors of the companies in which you hold stock, failed, and the losses wiped out the profits upon which you depend for your dividends?

Though you may think this is solely a matter for the officers and directors, it vitally concerns you.

The credit man may be able, but no credit man can always foresee unexpected failures.

"LONDON" Credit Insurance not only backs up the credit man's judgment but gives absolute protection in advance against excess loss from debtor failures. It insures your dividends. Ask us if the companies in which you hold stock are protected with "LONDON" Credit Insurance. There's no obligation.

To the Holders of Preferred Stock and Common Stock of the East Coast Fisheries Company and East Coast Fisheries Products Company.

The placing of the properties of the East Coast Fisheries Company and the East Coast Fisheries Products Company in the hands of receivers renders it essential that you combine for the protection of your interests in the preferred stock and common stock of the above mentioned companies. For this purpose the undersigned, at the request of holders of large amounts of the above mentioned stocks, have consented to act as a committee to protect your interests in respect of the preferred stock and common stock of the East Coast Fisheries Company and the East Coast Fisheries Products Company. A protective agreement is now in course of preparation, and copies thereof may be obtained from the LAWYERS TITLE AND TRUST COMPANY, No. 160 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. You are accordingly invited to deposit your shares of preferred stock and common stock of the above mentioned companies with the Lawyers Title and Trust Company, which has consented to act as depositary for the committee.

Certificates so deposited should be signed in blank or be accompanied by properly executed transfers, and against such deposits receipts will be issued under the above mentioned protective agreement. Signatures to assignments of stock must be witnessed and acknowledged before a notary public, or guaranteed by a New York City bank or trust company or firm having a membership in the New York Stock Exchange. A stockholder outside of New York may have his local bank guarantee his endorsement, provided such bank has a New York correspondent. State and Federal transfer tax stamps must be affixed at the rate of 2c for Federal tax and 2c for New York State tax for each share deposited, or funds for the equivalent amount may be forwarded by check, in which event the committee will affix the stamps.

WORLD IS OIL MAD, SAYS BRITISH KNIGHT

Sir John Dimsdale Arrives on Lapland—Gen. Noble Returns From Study of African Diseases.

Sir John Dimsdale, son of the late Lord Mayor of London and a descendant of John Dimsdale, who started a bank in Lombard Street, London, 200 years ago, arrived yesterday, on the Red Star liner Lapland, accompanied by Lady Dimsdale, on the way to Trinidad to inspect the oil wells owned by the Asiatic Company of London, of which he is a director.

"The world is oil mad," said Sir John, "and we shall depend more and more upon it for fuel as the supply of coal diminishes."

Another passenger was Brigadier Gen. R. E. Noble, United States Army, a surgeon who left New York with the late General Gorgas, early last May to study tropical diseases on the West of Africa.

J. F. Sefl, an Oberlin College student, brought back with him a bride from Prague, whom he had met in 1918 while serving with the Czechoslovakia Legion.

Other passengers were Lady Bowring, the Hon. Mrs. Andrew Thorne, wife of the Secretary of the British Embassy at Washington; Mrs. H. Lippincott, who has been visiting her sister Viscountess de Beughem in Brussels, and Henry Wise.

In addition to 1,997 passengers, Purser J. Caporin brought $3,000,000 in specie consigned to various banks.

Canadian Northern Bonds Callable at 102½.

The $25,000,000 Canadian Northern Railway Company twenty-year 7 per cent. sinking fund bonds, now being offered by a syndicate consisting of William A. Read & Co., the National City Company, the Guaranty Company, Blair & Co. Inc., Lee, Higginson & Co., the Bankers' Trust Company and the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, are callable as a whole at 102½ and interest on Dec. 1, 1935, or on any interest date thereafter on thirty days' notice. An announcement in these columns yesterday incorrectly made the calling price 102.

RESENT CRITICISMS OF COLBY OIL NOTE

Officials at Washington Say It Is Based on Principle We Have Always Supported.

OPEN DOOR AS OUR RIGHT

Other Powers, It Is Held, Have No Right to Change Mandate Conditions Without Us.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Officials of the Government resent the intimations from abroad that the sole motive behind Secretary Colby's note about Mesopotamia and the mandate was to enable the United States to share in the oil for naval and motor uses. These officials insisted today that the United States had nothing in mind except the question of principle. The United States, it was pointed out, contended during the negotiations at Paris for an open door in mandate territories, and equal opportunity for the nationals of all countries.

The American delegation to Paris understood the theory of the mandate to be that the principal Allied and Associated Powers, as victors, having the disposition of the territories taken from the enemy, would, instead of dividing them up according to the old practices, administer such territories as trusts under mandates from the League of Nations.

Not all the details had been completed as to the character of these mandates and their operation when the American delegation was withdrawn from Paris, but it was agreed that the five principal and associated powers would fix the mandates. This meant that the United States would have some say. The United States assented to England becoming a mandatory for Mesopotamia and also agreed to others, including Japan as mandatory for the former German islands North of the Equator in the Pacific.

The United States Government refuses to assent to any limitation of its rights as a victor further than they have been defined in the Treaty of Versailles. This Government holds that the other four powers have no right to change the forms and conditions of mandates without consulting the United States Government, regardless of whether the United States ratifies the Treaty of Versailles or enters the League.

Our rights in the matter, it is insisted, did not accrue from the negotiation and signing of the treaty, but came to the United States as a result of participation in the war. Should the Senate ever ratify the Treaty of Versailles, it was urged today, the United States would still have every right which accrued to it as a result of our share as a victor.

President Wilson's position, as indicated in the Mesopotamian note, is identical with that which he took in the Adriatic controversy, when he threatened to withdraw the Versailles Treaty and the Treaty of Alliance with France from the Senate in certain contingencies.

The Lansing note of Feb. 10 to the British and French representatives at Paris stated that the time had come to speak "with the utmost frankness." It asserted that the Adriatic issue, as it then presented itself, "raises the fundamental question as to whether the American Government can on any terms co-operate with its European associates in the great work of maintaining the peace of the world by removing the primary cause of war."

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Government in the House of Commons today promised to present to Parliament with the least possible delay the American Government's recent note concerning oil and the British Government's reply to it.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Morning Post, in an article on Secretary Colby's oil note, says:

"Without attempting to argue the whole question as it stands between the two Governments, which cannot be done properly owing to the publication of the American part only of the correspondence which passed between London and Washington, it is only fair to emphasize the fact that the United States appears to be claiming equal rights in a country in which she possessed no pre-war interests, in which she accepted no responsibility, and in which she incurred no expense during or since the war. Further, without having ratified the Treaty of Peace or having joined the League of Nations, she appears to desire to be placed on an equal footing with powers that have already taken both steps."

ROW ON BANK EXAMINATION.

North Dakota Factions at Odds on Who Shall Make It.

BISMARCK, N. D., Nov. 29.—The State Board of Auditors decided today to make an examination of the Bank of North Dakota early next month. The board has authority to make such an examination under an initiated law adopted at the November election, which becomes effective Dec. 2.

Governor Frazier, however, declared tonight that in his opinion the Board of Auditors which takes office Jan. 1, should make the examination.

"The bank examination is a matter which could best be taken care of by the recently elected and not by the present Board of Auditors," said the Governor. "Such an examination by defeated officials would appear political. The same voters, who passed the initiated laws, elected the new officials to constitute the Board of Auditors, and I think it was their desire to have these officials make the examination."

Governor Frazier and two new members of the board were indorsed by the Non-Partisan League. The present members are League opponents.

16TH DAKOTA BANK CLOSES.

Depleted Reserves Cause Suspension at Tokio, Benson County.

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 29.—The State Bank of Tokio, in Benson County, did not open today, according to advices to Fargo banks. This is the sixteenth North Dakota bank to close on account of depleted reserves in two weeks.

The bank's cashier said that it was expected to reopen later.

COLORADO BANK CLOSES.

Farmers' National at Sterling Stops Business—Fact Kept Secret.

STERLING, Nov. 29.—The Farmers' National Bank of Sterling, a member of the Federal Reserve system, was closed today. Bank officials said that no statement would be issued until after the arrival of the chief national bank examiner.

The bank is said to have had extensive loans among farmers of this district. The November statement of the bank, which was organized in June, 1909, showed deposits of $1,380,375.29 and loans and discounts of $1,497,980.72.

SHOE FACTORIES TO REOPEN

Rochester Plants Employing 23,000 Get Spring Orders.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Announcement was made here today that within three weeks Rochester factories making women's shoes, now idle, would reopen at full capacity to fill orders for Spring stock.

The factories employ about 23,000 men and women, more than 20,000 of whom have been idle for about two months.

WOULD CURB, NOT END IMMIGRATION NOW

Senator Sterling Favors Restrictions, but Opposes Proposal to Bar All Foreigners.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Senator Sterling of South Dakota, a member of the Immigration Committee, who has been studying the immigration question at close range at Ellis Island, returned here today and announced his opposition to the proposal to prohibit immigration. Instead, he favors the creation of a board to control immigration with authority to restrict where necessary and prohibit the entrance of all aliens who may be undesirable.

"While convinced that restriction of immigration is important at this time," he said, "yet I cannot favor complete prohibition. There are too many people from Southern Europe seeking admission to the United States now and, therefore, I would favor legislation which would restrict for the time being.

"There are two fundamental reasons for restriction of immigration at this time. The first is the labor situation. We want American labor to continue to live on a high standard, which it will not be able to do if it suffers from competition with the hordes now coming here. The second is that unless there is further restriction, radical elements, which are disturbing other nations, will easily enter the United States.

"I believe that the most obvious solution is through a competent immigration board, which will consider the assimilability of the various nationalities, the standards of living and how their standards compare with the standards of American workmen. This board would also consider the amount of unemployment in the United States and the general labor and economic conditions.

"This board, if constituted, would have the power to admit to the United States only in such numbers as we can readily assimilate and find employment for. It will also have the power to cooperate with the States regarding the distribution of immigrants entering the United States."

Senator Sterling has not yet worked out his bill in detail. He suggests a plan to Americanize immigrants by designating books that should be read and a course of study they should be required to pursue.

The immigration question will be one of the most important matters that will come before Congress in the short session. No attempt will be made to revise the immigration laws thoroughly, but temporary legislation may be passed.

POSTAL CONVENTION HITCH.

United States and 16 Other Republics Sign With Reservations.

MADRID, Nov. 29.—A hitch arose at the last moment today concerning the signing of the Universal Postal Convention, seventeen American republics signing with reservations Article III. of the compact dealing with the extension of port privileges to subsidized vessels in return for the carrying of mail. A paragraph added to this article by the Madrid Congress says:

"The contracting parties agree not to impose special obligations concerning the mails on vessels employed in the regular service of conveyance of mails and belonging to a country of the union, in exchange for advantages and privileges which may exist or be established in favor of any category of merchant vessels, and especially in connection with the formalities of the departures or arrivals in port."

The protesting republics hold that vessels bringing mail to their ports and enjoying port privileges in connection with quick docking and unloading should, in return, carry outgoing mails free. The European countries demanded payment for the carrying of outgoing mails, and this caused the protest.

The protesting nations, in addition to the United States, are Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru, Bolivia, Uruguay, Colombia, Panama, Venezuela, Mexico, Salvador, Cuba, Santo Domingo, Guatemala, Nicaragua and Ecuador.

The protest, which will be carried in the minutes of the congress, says:

"Whereas, the Postal Congress cannot impose on any country obligations affecting sovereignty and domestic legislation; and, whereas, the constituted powers of each country can alone decide concerning the engagements contained in Paragraph 3 of the Third Article; and, whereas, the influence of the Postal Union cannot extend to affairs affecting port regulations or other subjects outside of postal matters; and, whereas, it is necessary also in this instance to be entirely in agreement with the ordinary principles of international law, the undersigned delegations formulate their formal reservations in connection with the paragraph mentioned."

The hitch does not affect the Pan American convention.

COURT ORDERS SIGN DOWN.

Company to Seek an Injunction to Protect Park Billboard.

Residents in the vicinity of Moshulu Parkway and Broadway yesterday learned that on Saturday Justice Mitchell of the Bronx Supreme Court had issued an order, effective Dec. 6, demanding the removal of the large sign at that point which had been the cause of a battle of wits between them and the O. J. Gude Company, owners of the sign.

The sign was erected several weeks ago. A few days later it was partly destroyed with axes by an automobile party, said to be made up of some of the residents. The damaged part of the sign was restored by the company, and a few nights later the sign was set on fire.

Shortly before Park Commissioner Hennessy was served with Justice Mitchell's order yesterday morning fire again destroyed part of the sign. This time, detectives employed by the company declared, the fire was not of incendiary origin. A stove in a shack occupied by a detective set fire to their quarters, they said, and the blaze extended to the sign. After the flames were subdued by firemen, carpenters were sent by the company to replace the damaged part. They had about finished their labor when word of Justice Mitchell's order was received. It was reported later that the company would apply for an injunction restraining the Park Commissioner from carrying out Justice Mitchell's order.

RESUME AT REDUCED WAGE.

Holden, Mass., Woolen Mills in Reopening Cut Pay 10 Per Cent.

HOLDEN, Mass., Nov. 29.—The Jefferson and Eagle Lake Woolen Mills, which have been closed since Wednesday, reopened today under an average 10 per cent. reduction in their wage scales.

In both mills notices were posted explaining that a wage cut was necessary because of the condition of the woolen market. The employes all came to work.

Indict 24 Tennessee Coal Companies.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 29.—The Federal Grand Jury today indicted twenty-four coal companies on the charge of violating the Lever act. The list of those indicted includes the Hibbler Barnes, the Federal, the Carey, the Riddle, the Chattanooga Iron and Coal Corporation, Chattanooga Coal Company and the United States Fuel Corporation.

North Carolina Mills Reopen.

GASTONIA, N. C., Nov. 29.—After standing idle for two weeks, cotton mills, including the Loray, Gastonia's largest mill, and the Armstrong chain of fourteen factories, resumed operation today on greatly reduced schedules of working time.

MINGO COAL FIELDS UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Col. Hall Warns Strikers and His Troops Take Up Strategic Positions at Mines.

REGION QUIET UNDER GUARD

Operators Claim More Coal Is Being Mined, but Union Leaders Deny Defections.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Nov. 29.—Mingo County, where a strike of miners has been in progress since last July, was today declared by Governor Cornwell to be under military control. Colonel Herman Hall, commanding the provisional battalion of Federal troops which arrived here Sunday from Camp Sherman, issued a proclamation in which he forbade public assembly, except such meetings as might be held in regularly organized churches. Colonel Hall's proclamation prohibited also parades or demonstrations against the authorities, and stipulated that no persons other than officers of the law and the militia would be permitted to carry firearms or be in possession of explosives.

All places of business, shops and theatres were permitted to remain open, it was stipulated, but the people generally were admonished to comply carefully with the military regulation and to preserve good order.

Governor Cornwell's proclamation stated that Mingo County was in a state of insurrection, and the citizens were enjoined and commanded to disperse and retire to their homes, and submit to the law and the regularly constituted authorities..

"To the end that the law shall be respected and that disorder shall cease," he said, "I have called upon the Government of the United States for assistance, and until further notice the county of Mingo will be under the direct charge of the commanding General of the Fifth Army Corps area, who has full power and authority to establish peace and order in said county by such means as he may deem best in the interest of good government and the laws of the land."

The military authorities have taken over the duties imposed upon them under the declaration of martial law, but the civil authorities continue in their capacities as advisory bodies and individuals, it is understood.

The troops have been distributed throughout the district to guard the mines at strategic points with Colonel Hall's headquarters in the Court House at Williamson.

The failure of county authorities to meet the disorders of the past few weeks was explained today by Judge R. D. Bailey of the Circuit Court of Mingo and Wyoming countries as due to lack of money with which to pay a sufficient force of deputy sheriffs. When the budget for the year was made up the usual amount of $10,000 was set aside for this purpose. As there were no emergency funds, no extra deputies could be employed and many former service men called for that duty were unable to serve without pay.

Conflicting stories concerning the status of the strike were prevalent throughout the county today. Coal operators estimated that of the 5,000 miners in Mingo County the strikers numbered between 1,500 and 2,000, and that production had increased from 3,000 tons in July when the strike was called to 60,000 tons for the first half of November.

David Fowler, representing the International organization of the United Mine Workers, denied emphatically that the strike was broken, declaring:

"We have just begun to fight."

The tent colonies established by the United Mine Workers for striking miners and their families are still well filled. Estimates as to the number of persons living in tents, however, differ widely, the United Mine Workers claiming several hundred more than the estimate of the operators. According to Mr. Fowler, the living conditions in these tent colonies are to be improved at once, and lumber had been ordered from Huntington with which to floor the tents.

While the region was quiet today the county was discussing a number of outbreaks, without serious casualties, on the eve of the arrival of the Federal troops. A dozen or more shots, it was reported, had been fired at a party of men bringing coal out of the Frederick mine of the Howard Collieries Company at Chattarov on Saturday. State police with bloodhounds succeeded in finding one striker, but the evidence at hand failed to show that shots had been fired at anything but wild game in the hills, and the man was released.

Two negroes, whose names were not reported to the State police, were assaulted Saturday at Matewan. They were unable to identify their assailants. Two other negroes employed at Borderland were attacked near the Winifred (Thacker) mine. They, too, were unable to identify their assailants and the case was dropped.

The special term of court set for today, to dispose of the case of Taylor Cole, charged with killing E. Lee Ripley, a State policeman, was not held.

ACCOUNT FOR DUGRO ESTATE

Executors of Justice Report on Disposition of Trust Fund.

The executors of the will of Supreme Court Justice Dugro filed an accounting in the Surrogates' Court yesterday of Justice Dugro's acts as executor of the will of his father, Anthony Dugro. The accounting was ordered by the Surrogate on the application of two children of Justice Dugro's brother, Jacob W. Dugro, who shares in his father's estate. The children contended that the estate amounted to about $1,000,000 and said they had been unable to induce Justice Dugro to file an accounting.

The executors say they have no information other than is contained in the accounts of the estate kept by Justice Dugro, showing that the cash capital of the trust fund for Jacob W. Dugro received by the executor was $127,706, and the interest and rents amounted to $47,892. The accountaing states that the entire cash capital has been paid out and that $47,895 has been paid on the income, or more than was received.

DENY OLYMPIC SUNK BARGES

Officials Sure Captain Would Have Reported Harbor Accident.

The officials of the International Mercantile Marine Company at 9 Broadway denied yesterday that the White Star liner Olympic had sunk two lighters laden with coal on Saturday afternoon as she steamed out of the harbor. The liner passed the bar at 1:20 P. M., they stated, and if the Olympic had hit two barges and sunk them the Captain would have sent a wireless message to the office. No word was received from the ship.

The report, which emanated from Harbor A Station of the New York police, stated that the Olympic had sunk two barges of a tow bound from Port Reading to Jersey City, about 1,000 feet east of the Statue of Liberty. According to later reports received yesterday the barges were sunk by a British freighter, bound for Genoa, which was just ahead of the Olympic.

Telephone Stock Increase.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 29.—The directors of the Southern New England Telephone Company, at a meeting here today, voted to issue 30,000 shares of additional common stock of the company, to be offered at par to stockholders of record. This will increase by $3,000,000 the capital stock of the corporation, which at present totals $12,000,000.

PREDICTS FURTHER REDUCTIONS IN BREAD

Baker Thinks Cakes and Pies Will Respond More Slowly to Lower Flour Prices.

The price of bread in this city will shortly reflect the reduction in the price of flour, in the opinion of Adam Metz of the White Rose Baking and Restaurant Company, 411 Fourth Avenue, who was a member of the Fair Price Committee during the food administration. He said that many bakers had already reduced their prices and others would fall in line as they used up the flour on hand for which they had paid $14 and $15 a barrel. He said that bakers found the present market variable and they were now paying $9 to $9.50 a barrel for the best flour.

Cakes and pies were not expected to show as much reduction and as early as bread, Mr. Metz said, owing to the large supply of sugar purchased at 23 cents a pound, although some bakers had already made slight decreases in the prices of these products. Mr. Metz said that the high price of butter and eggs is another factor which operates to keep up the prices of cakes and pies. of between 300 and 400 bakers.

Mr. Metz is President of the United Master Bakers of Manhattan, which will give consideration to price reductions at a meeting Wednesday afternoon. He said that he did not know what action would be taken, but very likely a voluntary movement would be started for the lowering of the price of bread by all the members of the association. The organization is composed of between 300 and 400 bakers

BREADSTUFF EXPORTS RISE.

Total for October Is $133,621,000, Nearly Double Amount for Same Month in 1919.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Exports of breadstuffs in October were nearly double those of the same month last year, it was announced today at the Department of Commerce. The total value of such exports last month was $133,621,000. For the ten months ending with October the total was $883,075,000, compared with $792,814,000 for the corresponding period last year.

Cotton exports last month were nearly double those of October, 1919, the total last month being 583,725 bales valued at $91,307,498, compared with 352,231 bales valued at $60,732,867 in October, 1919.

Exports of meat and dairy products showed a falling off of nearly 50 per cent. last month as compared with the preceding October, the values being $37,462,284 last month and $69,319,613 the October before. The total value of meat and dairy products exported for the ten months this year was $451,996,000 as against $1,035,666,538 for the corresponding period last year.

TO FINANCE FOREIGN TRADE.

Many Prominent Men to Confer on $100,000,000 Corporation.

A large number of men representing the producing, manufacturing and export interests of the country will attend the conference arranged by the American Bankers' Association in Chicago to consider the formation of a $100,000,000 foreign trade financing corporation, according to information received at the local offices of the Association yesterday. The meeting is scheduled for Dec. 10 and 11.

Replies received to invitations sent out by President John S. Drum of the Association show that many prominent men from all parts of the country will be present. In many of the acceptances special mention is made of the desirability of immediate constructive measures, so that credits properly safeguarded under the supervision of the Federal Reserve Board may be extended in order that the country's foreign trade may function as it should.

PARIS OPERA STRIKE ENDS.

Orchestra and Chorus Agree to Accept Management's Terms.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The strike of the orchestra, chorus and stage hands, which closed the opera in the middle of October, has been called off, and the house will re-open for performances next Friday. The orchestra, which was the last body of employes to give in, agreed today to the terms offered by the management.

At the time of the commencement of the strike it was said that the trouble originated by the refusal of Jacques Rouche, the director of the opera, to change the rules of the house concerning the chorus and to agree not to employ more than one foreign artist every three months.

Railroads Ask to Issue Notes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad asked the Interstate Commerce Commission today for authority to issue notes for $13,629,000 to purchase 2,000 steel gondolas, 1,000 steel box cars and other equipment. The Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio Railroad asked permission to issue fifteen-year 6 per cent, cumulative income debentures totaling $5,000,000 to pay short term notes.

PROPOSALS.

NOTICE OF RECEPTION OF BIDS FOR receiving and disposing of garbage and dead animals in the City of Atlantic City, New Jersey. At a meeting of the City Commissioners, to be held on the 23d day of December, 1920, at 3 P. M., in the Commission Chambers, City Hall, Atlantic City, New Jersey, bids will be received and opened for the collection and disposal of garbage and dead animals in said City in accordance with the proposal, specifications and this advertisement, copies of which proposal and specifications may be had upon application at the Office of the Mayor of said City. Bidders are not restricted in the matter of disposition of the garbage after collection so that the garbage may be disposed of by incineration, utilization, by using the same as food for swine, as fertilizer or otherwise, provided the method meets the approval of the Board of Commissioners. Bidders may bid for the removal and disposition of said garbage and dead animals for a period of one, three or five years in one bid or they may bid separately for each or any of the periods designated. The bidder must accompany his bid with a complete plan, setting forth the manner of disposal and the facilities therefore. Bids must be in sealed envelopes accompanied by a certified check in the sum of Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars drawn to the order of the City of Atlantic City, said checks not to be enclosed in envelopes but attached to the outside thereof together with a written agreement duly executed by a Surety Company authorized to do business in the State of New Jersey, agreeing to act as Surety on the bonds required by the specifications. The checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned upon the award of the contract to the successful bidder. Should the successful bidder refuse or neglect for a period of five days after the contract has been awarded to execute and deliver the same to the City together with the accompanying bonds required by the specifications, he shall be adjudged in default and the amount of the deposit shall be forfeited and retained by the City of Atlantic City as liquidated damages for such neglect or refusal, but should said successful bidder enter into said contract within the period aforesaid, said deposit check shall be immediately returned. Should the successful bidder refuse to enter into contract as above provided for a period of five days, the checks of the unsuccessful bidders will thereupon be returned. The City reserves the right to reject any and all bids without giving any reason therefore and reserves unto itself, the right to be the sole judge as to whether or not the proposed method of disposition of said garbage and dead animals is satisfactory. Bidders are cautioned to follow strictly the terms and conditions imposed by the proposals and specifications and will be held to strict conformity thereto, notwithstanding anything herein contained.

E. S. BADER, Mayor.

PROPOSALS FOR LEASE OF PIER 3, Army Base, South Brooklyn, Office Assistant Chief Transportation Service, Hoboken, N. J.—Sealed proposals will be received here until 11 A. M., Dec. 18, 1920, and then opened, for lease of Pier 3, Army Base, South Brooklyn. Full information will be furnished upon application to this office.

Gray Goods Quiet Yesterday.

Activity on the part of buyers was again restricted in the local market for gray goods yesterday. In the printcloth end, some 39-inch 72-76s were sold for spot delivery at 10 cents. Most of the other constructions, however, were held higher than the buyers were willing to pay. Bids for 39-inch 68-72s were half a cent a yard under the asking price, while offers for 38½-inch 64-60s were a quarter to a half cent under what sellers wanted for the goods. Sheetings put in another quiet and uninteresting day, and the same thing applied to fine-yarn goods and specialties.

Style Gowns More Important.

In the wholesale Spring garment season, which has about begun there will be, it is felt, more importance laid on style. Price still continues to play a large rôle in present operations, but the general sentiment in the trade is that, following the after holidays' business, buyers will be more careful in their selections from a style standpoint. For one thing, it is thought that garment prices have been shaved pretty close and that restored competition will take sufficient care of future values. Another consideration is, however, that retail stocks will be reduced to an extent which will make possible buying new styles without the fear of their competition with old merchandise.

Wool Machinery Idle.

It is expected that the next Government report on the number of woolen and worsted looms idle will show the greatest decrease in the history of the industry. One mill agent yesterday ventured to say that not 25 per cent. of this machinery is employed at the present time. The industry in general can see no possibility of working out its problem until labor costs are reduced, and it is in this particular that conditions now are said to be more serious than in 1893, with which the present situation is compared. Then, it is pointed out, both labor and wool were cheap, permitting some basis on which to effect a readjustment.

Will Be Mostly a Fabric Season.

Judging from the advance displays of the manufacturers, the new millinery season will be a fabric one. Materials that have heretofore been used in dresses only have been adapted for hats. The models shown are unusually smart and effective. Crêpe de chine with a dull lustre, and taffeta promise to be the two fabrics most in vogue, although a great variety of silks is shown. Silk, ciréd to give it the effect of glazed kid, radium silk, a sport silk shot through with tinsel, brocades and Roman stripes are all included in the offerings. Combinations of straw and other things are also included in the advance displays. Visca, straw cloth and a bright straw braid called "jazz" are among these materials.

A Method of Cost Figuring.

Woolen selling agents are of the opinion that if cutters-up would decide the prices at which they want to sell clothing and garments and then try to find material at a cost which would permit that set price, there would be less uncertainty about woolen values. As the mill agents see it, their customers are frequently putting the cart before the horse in trying to arrive at proper yardage costs. It has been the experience of many mill representatives that buyers themselves are in considerable doubt regarding what prices they ought to pay. This, it is pointed out, would be removed to an appreciable extent if the garment and clothing manufacturers would try to fit the woolen price to the garment price instead of vice versa.

Toy Prices Vary Considerably.

The extent to which prices vary in different retail stores on toys of practically the same kind and quality makes it appear that some merchants are falling victims to the temptation of trying to make a good part of their 1920 profits in the next three weeks or so. Comments by persons who have shopped around more or less are to the effect that the variance is not confined to any one class of toys, but that it is very obvious in the case of dolls. On the games, too, price differences are quite marked, particularly on the cheaper ones. In an instance cited yesterday concerning the latter, a certain game cost 150 per cent. more in one store than in another. Somewhat similar discrepancies were apparent in other lines, but with them it was not so easy to determine the actual difference in prices.

Meeting on Cancellations.

The meeting tomorrow of textile interests for the purpose of deciding upon some means of ending cancellations is regarded with considerable interest by the trade, but not with much hope that the present situation can be improved by any action taken. Th common feeling in the market is that steps taken now to curb the cancellation evil may prove of some future benefit, but will scarcely repair the damage done. The consensus of opinion holds that the crisis was too large to be adequately coped with, despite contract protection of any sort and, in support of this view, it is pointed out that the most legitimate businesses, where cancellations were previously unknown, have suffered from the general breakdown of trade. In spite of future safeguards, it is held that a like situation would produce a like result again.

Jobbers Starting to Nibble.

Although they have as yet scarcely passed the nibbling point, some of the dry goods wholesalers situated in the more distant markets are beginning to show a desire to operate on Spring merchandise. So far as could be found yesterday, their activities have up to date been confined to piece goods, chiefly cottons, and they are not interested unless prices are very attractive. The feeling is growing among first hands here, however, that the next two weeks will see quite a perking up of business here as a result of efforts of jobbers to prepare for the expected rush of retail buying early in 1921. In connection with this feeling, it is pointed out that something must be done soon if the jobbers in the Far West and Southwest are to have any seasonable goods to offer their trade in January.

Will Run Foul of Easter.

The unusually early Easter in 1921 seems to be one of the things which the retailers who are holding back in placing Spring orders have not taken into account. In the case of shoe retailers, for instance, it appears that not a great deal is to be done until after the annual meeting of the retailers in Milwaukee about the middle of January. If orders are not placed before that time, it was said yesterday, it will be impossible for the goods to be delivered in full time for the retailers to do their regular Easter business. Stocks of leather and other materials in the hands of the manufacturers are said to be light and they are doing very little buying, if any, "on faith." The consequence is that it will take them about thirty days to assemble their raw materials and at least another thirty days to get the shoes out. This, dating from Jan. 15, would allow just eleven days in which to get the goods to the retailer and for the latter to sell them, as Easter comes on March 27.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Sam Arnowitz, who was formerly connected with the ready-to-wear department of B. F. Levis, resident buyer, is now associated with Kline Brothers, who operate a chain of stores in Joliet, Ill.; Lorain, Ohio, and Gary, Ind. He will assist George Kline in the buying of ready to wear and general merchandise. The Kline stores have their local office with Kirby, Block & Fischer, resident buyers, 352 Fourth Avenue.

S. Stroock & Co., manufacturers of felts, plushes and lap robes are now located at 315 Fourth Avenue, southeast corner of Twenty-fourth Street.

The Dry Goods Union, 432 Fourth Avenue, will hold a meeting of silk buyers tomorrow for the purpose of planning orders for immediate delivery and January sales.

The business outlook, including production and distribution, transportation of commodities and financing of business, will be the subject of addresses at the luncheon meeting tomorrow of the Merchants' Association at the Hotel Astor. Speakers include A. W. Douglas, Vice President; Simmons Hardware Company, Julius Kruttschnitt, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Southern Pacific Company, and Willis H. Booth, Vice President Guaranty Trust Company.

CENTRAL RETAINS ITS CITY TRACKS

City to Appeal From Decision That State Alone Can Act to Oust the Railroad.

The city's suit to eject the New York Central Railroad from the property along the Hudson River from Seventy-second Street to Spuyten Duyvil, an eight-mile stretch of roadbed, on the ground that a large part of the right of way claimed by the railroad includes land belonging to the city, was decided in the railroad's favor yesterday by a jury in Justice Thomas F. Donnelly's part of the Supreme Court. Justice Donnelly, on motion of Alexander Lyman, counsel for the railroad company, directed that a verdict be found in favor of the road and the jury complied without leaving the courtroom.

Mayor Hylan, at whose behest legal action to gain possession of the land now held by the railroad was started, was present during the earlier part of yesterday afternoon's proceedings, in the expectation of appearing as a witness, but was not called.

Justice Donnelly, although holding that the city was not entitled to immediate possession of the property held that it was unnecessary for him to pass on the title to the soil or the defendant's right of way. He held that, as a matter of law, the plaintiff was estopped from maintaining the action. Corporation Counsel O'Brien indicated that he would appeal the case to the Appellate Division, and, if necessary, to the Court of Appeals and, possibly, even to the United States Supreme Court.

Case in Court Since May.

The case has been in the courts since last May. After many adjournments it was resumed on Oct. 7 and the city completed its side and rested. Justice Guy then announced that he had discovered he was disqualified to hear the case because he had a vested interest in a trust estate which held New York Central securities, and he dismissed the jury.

The claim of the city to the land, title to which has been in dispute for many years, was based on the Dongan charter of 1686, granting the city all unoccupied land under water and alongshore. The railroad company contended that it had bought the land from persons who had acquired it from Colonial grants from the English Crown. It further contended that the city, in 1847, after the railroad got its franchise, had directed the road to enter the city by the route now in dispute.

Mr. Lyman, for the railroad company, argued that the freight yards and sidetracks on the property were worth many million dollars. He declared that if the city won the railroad would have to go out of business, so far as its freight carrying facilities in the city were concerned.

In directing the jury to return a verdict for the defendant Justice Donnelly said that the city must first establish its title to the property from which it sought to oust the railroad and its own right to take possession.

CUT PRICE OF CLOTHING.

Twenty Per Cent. Reduction on Women's Garments at Cleveland Show.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29.—Price reductions averaging 20 per cent. in women's clothing were announced at the opening today of the style show of the Cleveland Garment Manufacturers Association, composed of forty-eight manufacturers of women's garments.

Buyers from all parts of the country were arriving to attend the exhibit of Spring and Summer styles, which will continue through Thursday.

Doll Makers Get Nearby Business.

Doll manufacturers report being busy with immediate delivery orders put in by nearby stores that delay buying. The out-of-town stores completed their bills some time ago, and have received practically all the merchandise they will require for the holidays. It is stated by wholesalers of dolls that there is still a feeling against the purchase of German goods and that, for other reasons besides patriotic ones, the imported dolls did not get so large a demand as anticipated. One reason cited was that the long storage of German dolls resulted in their deterioration, rubber joints rotting in many cases.

Legacy for All Angels' P. E. Church.

ASSAILS SNOBS IN SCHOOLS.

Cleveland Woman Says Cotton Stockings Mean Social Isolation.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Harrison W. Ewing of Cleveland, a Red Cross worker and club woman, told superintendents of schools, educators, representatives of woman's clubs and others from five States gathered here today at the first regional educational conference that silk stockings, snobbishness and other things were diverting high school students from their studies.

Mrs. Ewing said she was forced to take her own daughter from the public schools in Cleveland and send her to an educational institution where the wearing of cotton hosiery and plain middy blouses did not mean social isolation. She explained how she had started an anti-silk stocking campaign in the Central High School in Cleveland and declared she would extend this compaign to all schools.

P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education, told the delegates that the United States, which composes only one-seventeenth of the world, is spending as much on education as all the rest of the world combined.

B. R. T. SLAYERS SENTENCED

Five Strikers Get From 8 to 20 Years for Killing Passenger.

Justice Cropsey, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, sentenced five men who stoned a Sea Beach train during the recent strike on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit lines and caused the death of a passenger, to Sing Sing for from eight to twenty years each. They were Joseph Del Papial, Michael Colluclo, Amiello Spracco, Simon Cohen and Paul Antonelli, all B. R. T. strikers, who had pleaded guilty to manslaughter.

With three others, they hurled rocks through the windows of a train in the open cut near Fort Hamilton Parkway. Ferdinand Friedman, 17 years old, of 2,111 Sixty-fourth Street, a passenger, was killed. The motorman of another train also was killed with a stone.

Fine Two Movie Owners $10 Each.

Samuel Weinberg, manager of a moving-picture theatre at 183 Second Avenue, and Samuel Berman, manager of a similar theatre at 79 First Avenue, were fined $10 each by Magistrate Robert C. Ten Eyck, in Essex Market Court yesterday, when found guilty of violation of the Fire Department regulations in allowing patrons to stand in the theatre aisles.

PRINTER EMPLOYERS AGAIN REFUSE BOOKS

Deny Second Request by Union in Arbitration Hearing on Wage Increase.

EXPECT TO END BIG 6 CASE

Trade Journal Says Workers' Own Organizers Advised Against Demand for Rise.

Having failed to obtain access to the books of the employers in the book and job industry at the arbitration hearing on the question of an increase in the wage scale for the paper handlers before Dr. William F. Ogburn of Barnard College as impartial Chairman, Evans Clark, economic adviser to the different unions in the arbitration agreement, renewed the request yesterday before Dr. George W. Kirchwey, impartial Chairman in the arbitration hearing of the Printing Press Assistants' and Feeders' Union No. 23. The request again was denied by the employers.

The members of the union are asking an increase of $18 a week, bringing their wages to $57 a week. The union presented its argument last Wednesday, and the side of the employers was heard yesterday. The workers contended that it was necessary to inspect the books in order to determine the truth of the employers' assertion that the condition of the industry was not as satisfactory as it appeared to be to the workers. Two questions are at issue: One is whether the cost of living has increased since Jan. 1 last and the other is whether the condition of the industry here is such as to permit of an increase in wages.

Today the rebuttal in the arbitration of the "Big Six" Typographical Union will be presented to Dr. Kirchwey and it is expected that this case will be closed.

"The employing printers of Toledo have refused the unions an increase on the ground that present industrial conditions did not warrant an advance," says The American Printer. "The unions claim they should get $10 additional for day work and $14 for night work. The unions sent for international organizers to come to Toledo. Representatives from the employers met these organizers and gave their reasons for refusing to increase wages. The organizers agreed with the employers that the increase was impossible at this time and recommended to the allied unions that the present agreements be extended until May 1, 1921."

Activity in Brooklyn.

The three-story dwelling at 1,233 Pacific Street, plot 50 by 100 feet, between Bedford and Nostrand Avenues, has been sold for the rector and officers of St. Bartholomew's Church to Anna P. Houghton. The brokers were the Bulkley & Horton Company.

The lot, 20 by 100 feet, on the south side of Fifty-seventh Street, 280 feet west of Twenty-first Avenue, has been sold by William P. Jones for James S. Ware to Florence L. Hauf.

In the Waverly section, Thirty-second Ward, William E. Harman & Co. have sold lots to Solomon Zingman, Edward Forley, M. Cerber, Samuel Coleman and S. Wolmann.

Private Dwelling Buyers.

The four-story dwelling at 300 West Seventy-second Street, southwest corner of West End Avenue, plot 27 by 45 feet, reported sold a short time ago, was purchased by Daniel F. Farrell from the Charles A. Stoddard estate and has been resold. Spear & Co. acted as brokers.

Hudson P. Rose bought from the Melrah Realty Corporation the two three-story dwellings at 43 and 47 West 133d Street, each on a lot 16.8 by 100.

Hillel Friedberg sold to Nathan Applebaum the three-story dwelling at 128 West 104th Street on a lot 20 by 100.11.

Tenement Investments.

The four-story tenement house at 64 East 109th Street on a lot 17 by 100.11, has been sold by the Fischer Realty Company for M. Kohn.

The Corinthian Lodge 23, Independent Order Scotch Mechanics, bought from Marie M. Ehlers the five-story flat at 241 West 135th Street, on a lot 25 by 100, near Eighth Avenue.

The five-story flat, on a lot 25 by 98.9, at 347 East Thirtieth Street, has been bought by Frank A. Venter and others from Elizabeth R. Mooney.

Suburban Sales.

Martin J. Murphy has sold his dwelling at 49 Clarendon Avenue, Yonkers, to Patrick J. Donaghy. Thomas S. Burke was the broker.

Warren Murdock sold for the Titus Estate for improvement a plot 350 by 400, at Woodlawn, adjoining the Nassau Country Club, Glen Cove, L. I., to James F. Pierce.

Investor in $250,000 Heights Deal.

The Bancroft Realty Company sold to an investor the apartment house at 238 Fort Washington Avenue, southeast corner of 170th Street, having a frontage of 126 feet on the avenue and 95 feet on the street. The building is a six-story elevator apartment house containing forty-one apartments of four, five, six and seven rooms and bath each. The property was held at $250,000. Walter C. Wyckoff negotiated the sale.

$1,000,000 Apartment Planned.

Plans have been filed for the construction of a fourteen-story fireproof apartment house on the northwest corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-fourth Street, for A. A. Paterno as owner. It will have a frontage of 102.2 feet and a depth of 80.11 feet. G. Ajello, the architect, estimates the cost at $1,000,000.

OPERATOR RESELLS EAST SIDE LOFT

Quick Turnover to Investor of Ten-Story Building Purchased Last Week.

PROPERTY HELD AT $225,000

The Reyam Realty Company Sells Two Four-Story Buildings on Twenty-fifth Street to Investor.

Trading was light in the real estate market yesterday with deals for business properties predominating. One of the most important transactions closed was in the lower Fifth Avenue section, where Max N. Natanson, operator, resold to a client of William S. Balser, 57 and 59 East Eleventh Street.

The property, which consists of a ten and a half story modern loft and business building on a plot 54 by 100 feet, was held at $225,000. The buyer paid all cash. Mr. Natanson purchased the property last week from Morris P. Altman.

Further north, in the midtown loft zone, the Reyam Realty Corporation sold to Gustave Kaff for investment, the two four-story buildings with stores at 126-128 East Twenty-fifth Street, on a plot 31 by 46.4, near Lexington Avenue.

The three and five-story buildings on a plot with stores at 77-79 Washington Street, 40 by 54 by irregular, between Morris and Rector Streets, have been sold by the Greek and Syrian Company to 77-79 Washington Street, Inc.

Realty Notes.

A meeting of the Harlem Property Owners' Association will be held on Thursday evening at 67 West 125th Street, at which Justice Frederick Spiegelberg of the Municipal Court will talk on the rent laws.

Justice Spiegelberg acted in an advisory capacity to the Legislative Committee. He will tell of his efforts to make the rent laws fair and just and present an interpretation of the rent laws and their application.

The American Trading Company is the buyer of the five-story warehouse, 245 Water Street, recently sold through Payson McL. Merrill Company and Lawrence, Blake & Jewell.

There were no auction offerings yesterday in either the Manhattan or Bronx salesrooms.

$300,000 Addition to Hospital.

Plans were filed yesterday with the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings for building an addition and making necessary alterations to the present seven-story edifice of the Broad Street Hospital, at the northeast corner of Broad and South Streets.

The new building will be located at 123 and 125 Broad Street and have a frontage of forty-five feet and a depth of forty feet and has been estimated to cost $300,000. The alteration is to be made so the present structure will connect with the new one and the cost has been estimated at $10,000. William Neill Smith is the architect.

$1,441,302 BRIDGEPORT SALE

Joseph P. Day Establishes a New Realty Auction Record.

Joseph P. Day established an auction sale record in Bridgeport, Conn., last Friday night and Saturday afternoon, when he sold 404 dwellings, 290 lots and thirteen acreage plots, located in the section of Bridgeport known as "Remington City." The total obtained was $1,441,302.50, of which $1,312,452 was paid for the houses; $90,000 for the lots and $38,850 for the acreage.

The sale was held at the High School Auditorium and commenced Friday evening at 7 o'clock. The first session continued until 2 o'clock in the morning, at which time Mr. Day adjourned the sale until the following day. The second session commenced at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and by a quarter of 6 o'clock the last of the property passed from the hands of the East End Realty Corporation into the ownership of home-seekers, investors and operators.

Bronx Borough Sales.

The two-family house at 681 East 243d Street, 25 by 100, has been purchased by J. A. Winderling. The broker was Morton M. Green, and he also sold to Edward Reilly the dwelling at 3,272 Perry Avenue, 25 by 100, and the two-family house at 735 East 237th Street to Mrs. A. C. Clark.

December 7th to April 4th

YACHTING- Miami is the yachtsman's paradise, the anchorage being along the Bay Shore of Biscayne Bay in front of the Royal Palm Park. The inland waters for cruising and fishing in this vicinity are the most picturesque in America.

GOLF—Four Links, within a radius of five miles, have wonderful tropical surroundings and cannot be surpassed.

AUTOMOBILING—500 miles of fine rock-coated, oil-surfaced roads adjacent to Miami. Terminus of Dixie Highway, Tamiami Trail and the six most prominent National Highways.

TENNIS—Ten municipal courts in the pink of condition; private courts in many of the hotel grounds.

AVIATION—Miami has been the center of Aviation since 1911; the Aeromarine, the Curtiss and the Aero Limited companies operate the stations. Air voyages to Palm Beach, Havana, or Bimini in up-to-date Flying Boats.

CLIMATE—Miami is the most southern City on the mainland of the United States. The Gulf Stream, passing through the Florida Straits, is narrowest opposite Miami, where it is but 45 miles to the Bahama Islands. These two features are accountable for Miami having the most equitable climate in the world. Average temperature, 75.4°.

SURF BATHING—You may bathe daily in comfort, in the beautiful clear blue-green waters of the Atlantic, averaging 75° all winter.

FISHING—The Angler is in his glory around Miami, as this is the center of the best fishing grounds in the world—Tarpon, Sailfish, Tuna, Amberjack, Bonefish, King Fish and hundreds of other varieties.

POLO—A most popular pastime at the Miami Beach Polo Field, where many of the best players in the country contest during the winter season.

REGATTA—Miami Mid-Winter Regatta on Biscayne Bay, February 10-11-12, 1921. Fastest Boats in the world will compete.

SIGHT SEEING TRIPS to Orange and tropical Fruit Groves, Sugar Plantations in Everglades and to Florida Keys.

COUPLE, 82 AND 80, END LIVES WITH GAS

Inventor, Who Lost His All in Litigation, and His Wife Found Dead in Bed.

HUSBAND WAS A PARALYTIC

Letter to Friend Said They Could "Stand It No Longer" and That "Death Would Be Sweet."

John Guest, 82 years old, and his wife, Augusta, 80, committed suicide by inhaling gas early yesterday in the room they had occupied for years at 183 St. Felix Street, Brooklyn. Guest, an inventor, was prominent in Masonic and Republican circles when St. Felix Street was fashionable, but lost his money in litigation over patent rights.

Mrs. Catherine McGuire, proprietor of the rooming house, was awakened before dawn by the odor of gas. From her basement room she traced it to the first floor back and, opening the door, she found the aged couple, clasped in each other's arms, dead upon the bed. The window was tightly closed and the fumes were flowing from a disconnected tube. Mrs. Guest had dressed herself in the last of the well-worn finery of other days.

To a Masonic apron hanging over a chair back was pinned a note. It said: "Please bury this with me. John Guest." A letter in the wife's handwriting was addressed to Mrs. Fannie Wyatt, 1,227 Union Street. Police from the Bergen Street Station, called by the landlady, delivered the note.

Mrs. Wyatt said the letter had been written late Sunday night and that in substance Mrs. Guest had declared she "could stand it no longer" and that death "would be sweet" both to her and her "dear husband," who had been her life's companion. Mrs. Wyatt said she was not related to the elderly couple, nor did she know of any relatives.

"I met them about ten years ago in Kismet Temple," said Mrs. Wyatt, "and my husband and I visited them frequently for some time, and then we lost trace of them. I searched for more than five years before I located them two years ago."

Both were despondent about a year ago, she said, when Mrs. Guest mentioned suicide as the only way out of their trouble. Mrs. Wyatt said she had made an effort to get them into the Kings County Almshouse, but in vain, as it was said that there "was no room."

Little light on the antecedents of the couple was obtainable from Mrs. McGuire, with whom they had lived for more than ten years. At Bristol's Restaurant, at Pacific Street and Flatbush Avenue, Mrs. Dennis E. Bristol of 550 Eastern Parkway, daughter-in-law of James E. Bristol, proprietor of the chain of restaurants, said she had known the Guests for eighteen years. During that time her father-in-law had fed them free and had paid their room rent.

"For the last eighteen months he had been confined to his bed from paralysis and had lately become totally blind," she said. "His wife used to come in here every morning at 10 o'clock and eat her breakfast, taking home food for her husband. She had appeared very depressed lately over the condition of her husband."

Charles E. Griffith, manager of the restaurant, said Mrs. Guest had been in the restaurant on Sunday morning and she had appeared more cheerful than usual.

The World's Finest
Overcoats—Worth $135
Styled and tailored by Hart Schaffner & Marx

$87.50

The famous Crombies of Scotland made the woolens—the softest, most luxurious overcoatings you ever saw. Hart Schaffner & Marx made the coats, as only Hart Schaffner & Marx and a few of the best custom tailors know how. And, we made these wonderful overcoats only $87.50, instead of $135, which they are worth, as part of our campaign for lower prices.

Good looking Ulsters; handsome Great Coats; smart Ulsterettes; and fine warm Motor Coats.

Cousin Tom—and Others

THE Columbia Trust Company recently asked several men why they hesitated to have a Trust Company settle their estates.

Perhaps you may find your own "hesitation" among the following reasons given.

1. "Cousin Tom can do it all right"

He probably can, if the estate is very small. But if an estate is sizeable or at all complicated, we are thankful that we have on our staff many men of highly specialized experience in Executorship duties. The Cousin Toms are handicapped by lack of personal experience in settling estates. They may not know how. They may die and then the Court will appoint their successors who may or may not be the person one would have chosen.

2. "Trust Companies aren't human"

Speaking for ourselves we can simply say this: The settling of estates usually puts us in contact with men and women at a time when they need everything we have of kindliness and consideration and sympathetic understanding. Never for one moment can we forget it.

3. "They lack elasticity"

We have seen estates settled by well-intentioned but "elastic" minded men With such men there is always the temptation to "let things slide." In long experience we have handled no estate that could be settled without a firm grasp of every detail and few that did not call for definite "yes and no" decisions.

4. "They are hopelessly conservative"

This we cheerfully admit. Without preaching, we earnestly believe that the handling of other people's money is almost a sacred matter. Nor would we be long in business if we took chances with the funds men leave their wives and children.

5. "They don't act quickly enough"

A Trust Company has every incentive to settle each estate as quickly as the law allows for the following reason: We do not receive our commissions until our duties are completed and the Surrogate puts his O. K. upon our work.

6. "A Trust Company is expensive"

This is a mistaken impression which we have often pointed out. The fees for settling estates are the same whether you name a Trust Company or an individual as executor. Naturally we cannot publicly cite specific economies to heirs which have been effected by our Trust Department. But we do say that the settlement of an estate by an experienced Trust Company is generally far more economical than when the matter is left in the hands of well-meaning but inexperienced friends.

If you would like to sit down with us and talk personally about the settling of your estate, please ask for a Vice-President or Manager in charge at any one of our offices.

Other Days;
Other Ways

As Tennyson wrote, "The old order changeth, yielding place to new". The present period of Re-adjustment compels many Re-organizations.

Be it a dissolution; admitting or becoming a new investor; forming a partnership; changing over to a corporation, our experience qualifies us to render valuable service.
